DRASTIC LABOR REFORMS TO BE OFFERED TODAY

Production, Hours and Wage Control Aim of Administration.

SWEEPING POWER TO SECRETARY OF LABOR

Miss Perkins Will Explain Measure to House Subcommittee.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The detailed set-up of machinery through which the administration hopes to control production, limit hours of work and hold up wages was disclosed last night as the House Labor Committee braced itself for official revelation of the unprecedented measure at a meeting this morning.

The administration's substitute for the Black 30-hour bill not only provides for hours of work and wage boards, with authority to determine hours and minimum wage levels, but gives the Secretary of Labor sweeping power to limit production and enforce wage findings.

The far-reaching power would extend to the publication of names of employers who refused to meet wage standards—a provision viewed in some quarters as inviting a boycott of firms not conforming.

Explanation Is Due Today.

The secretarial authority over industry and labor, exceeding any ever vested before in an administrative official, would make her judge of questions of fact in all proceedings still subject to judicial review of questions of law. Her decisions might even have the effect of law.

These facts were learned as Secretary of Labor Perkins planned to go personally before the House Labor Committee at 11 a. m. today to explain its provisions. The whole matter is expected to be referred to a subcommittee for additional hearings and report.

Possibility of trouble ahead, centering in the failure of the Senate bill and the administration substitute to make foreign products subject to provisions of the measure, was in the air last night.

Foreign Goods Included.

The committee already has gone on record in favor of including foreign goods in the scope of the measure, by a vote of 11 to 4. But the administration opposes their inclusion, ostensibly because this would not leave any bargaining material for reciprocity tariff agreements. Chairman William P. Connery, jr., insists he will oppose the bill unless foreign products are subjected to the conditions imposed upon domestic shipments. He will do all in his power to hold the lines of the former vote, although the Senate threw the provision out. A deadlock might ensue.

Miss Perkins already has informed the committee that foreign products would be taken care of in reciprocal trade agreements made by the President.

Miss Perkins yesterday told newspapermen that her proposal for production control is not an attempt to

Police Guard

Given Frances Perkins at Temple University Address After Threats.

Philadelphia, April 18 (U.P.).—A guard of 50 police was thrown around Mitten Hall at Temple University tonight where Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, was speaking before a gathering of 1,500 clubwomen.

The action was taken by Assistant Superintendent of Police Joseph Lestrange after letters threatening violence to Miss Perkins, received at Temple University, had been turned over to him.

Plain clothes men inspected the tickets of all persons attending the dinner. A police escort met the Secretary of Labor at the train and guarded her during the evening.

SHOCK OF BOMBING KILLS NOTED JURIST

Judge Webster Thayer Was Famous for Sentencing of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Boston, April 18 (U.P.).—Judge Webster Thayer, 75, a world figure as the Sacco-Vanzetti murder trial justice, died here tonight directly or indirectly from the effects of shock suffered when his Worchester home was bombed last September.

Death came at 10:50 p. m., four days after the famous jurist was stricken with a cerebral embolism. Too ill to be taken to a hospital, Judge Thayer died at the University Club, his Boston home.

During his last hours his personal bodyguard and a uniformed policeman stood guard at the club to prevent any possible recurrence of the bomb outrage, which was attributed to sympathizers of the executed Communists, Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

At the bedside when death came were the judge's wife, Bertha, who was injured by the bomb, and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Thayer. For hours the justice had been in a coma.

Judge Thayer, who had been a member of the Massachusetts Superior Court bench for more than fifteen years, recently was awarded $25,000 damages by the State Legislature in connection with the bombing of his home.

Rene Bache, Noted Writer, Ends Life

Rene Bache, 72, 1823 Q street northwest, well-known scientific writer, died last night at his home from the effects of an overdose of sleeping powder believed to have been taken in a suicidal attempt.

It was reported he had been despondent over his failing eye sight and general poor health. He was found in an unconscious condition in his third floor bedroom. The family physician, Dr. Louis Castell, 1801 I street northwest, was summoned. It was reported that he had rallied, but later lapsed into a state of coma and died. Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of suicide.

Born in Philadelphia in 1861, Mr. Bache attended Harvard and Yale universities. He was probably the first writer of popular scientific articles and had been a regular contributor to the leading magazines on scientific subjects. Mr. Bache was a resident of Washington 45 years. He is survived by one sister, Miss Edith Bache, of Philadelphia.

Macon Slated to Take Air First Time Today

Akron, Ohio, April 18 (A.P.).—The U. S. S. Macon, weather-bound in her dock since last Thursday, will be taken aloft for her first flight early tomorrow morning, Capt. Alger H. Dresel, her skipper, said tonight after examining the latest weather data.

Walker and Bride Begin Honeymoon

Secluded Stay in Italy Is Plan of Former Mayor and Actress.

Cannes, France, April 18 (A.P.).—Former Mayor James J. Walker and Miss Betty Compton, an American actress, grimly serious and intent upon complete seclusion, were married in the Cannes City Hall today.

They left almost immediately by automobile for Lake Como to spend their honeymoon in the Italian lake region.

"Oui," said the former Mayor of New York in a husky voice in response to the traditional question, all of which were in French. "Oui," said Miss Compton in turn and the ceremony, which lasted barely 10 minutes, was over.

WAY IS SOUGHT TO PUSH TRADE WITH NEW CASH

Roosevelt Calls Reserve Bank Governors to Parley Here.

WOODIN SEEKS WORK FOR IDLE CURRENCY

(Associated Press.)

The administration last night called in the Federal Reserve Bank governors to stimulate exchange of currency and reached out for command of the growing campaign for inflation.

Calling off temporarily the drive on Capitol Hill for money expansion, the President determined to make existing credit facilities more effective as he began discussion of other "reflation" proposals.

In announcing the conference here today of the governors of the 12 Federal Reserve Banks, Secretary Woodin made it clear that he was looking primarily for means of putting into operation the idle currency now available to the banks and the freeing of four or five billion dollars locked up in closed institutions.

Too Much Cash Static.

There is a conviction at the Treasury that the demand for capital is increasing and commodity prices improving, but that something must be done to pump the millions of available new currency through the banks to industry.

The door was not slammed at the White House to inflationary steps, but it was emphasized there that no specific administration measure has been drafted. High administration leaders also hinted quite strongly that there is no thought of forthright currency inflation.

As for the related silver problem, it is the intention of President Roosevelt to work this out through an international treaty or treaties in the forthcoming world economic discussions. He feels world action is necessary on the subject of bimetalism.

New Money Available.

With approximately $2,000,000,000 of new currency available under the recently enacted banking law, the banks had called for only $31,652,381 up to April 15. Only five Federal Reserve districts had used any of this new currency—New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland and St. Louis.

Directing this available money into the fields of industry and commerce is what Secretary Woodin hopes to

Crowd Protesting Ships Of Japanese Dispersed

Los Angeles, April 18 (A.P.).—Police dispersed a crowd of 20 men who attempted today to visit the office of the Japanese consulate to protest against the arrival here tomorrow of the Japanese imperial training ships, Iwate and Yakuno.

Police, who said the men were Communists, later permitted two representatives of the group to speak to the consul, T. Satow, but would not permit them to read the petition of protest and the document was left on the consul's desk.

AKRON FOUND ON SEA FLOOR OFF BARNEGAT

RECOVERY OF BODIES OF 67 BELIEVED NEAR

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—At a spot off the New Jersey Coast not far from where the giant airship Akron crashed two weeks ago, the Navy located today what searchers believed to be all that is left of the dirigible.

Even before dusk they had ample evidence to back up their belief—pieces of fabric, a mass of wire, a long section of duralumin and most of the control car.

No trace was found, however, of the 67 bodies still missing.

After grappling hooks had struck a large, heavy object, and then brought up many pieces of the dirigible, divers were sent down.

They reported that the floor of the sea was covered with small pieces of debris. Then they located a large piece of the control car—the bottom and starboard side. It was hauled aboard the naval tug Falcon.

A buoy was ordered placed over the find, so that the spot could be located if adverse weather made it difficult for the Falcon to hold her position.

Port Station Recovered.

The grapnel of the tug Sagamore, cruising back and forth between two markers, first struck the wreckage of the airship. An intercepted wireless message from the Sagamore to the U. S. S. Portland, from which the hunt is being directed, said in part:

"Our grapnel fouled body heavy enough to part three-sixteenth inch chain stopper. Fabric remaining on grapnel containing two sliding round ports about 12 inches diameter."

Then grappling hooks on the Sagamore, the Falcon and the Kamia were lowered between the two markers.

First a large section of fabric was brought up. On it were the words "Port Station No. 18 Forward." The

Darrow Wins Plea For Slayer's Life

Illinois Governor Commutes Boy's Death Sentence to 99 Years.

Springfield, Ill., April 18 (A.P.).—Gov. Henry Horner today commuted to imprisonment for 99 years the death sentence under which Russell McWilliams, 18, Rockford, Ill., was to have been executed Friday for the murder of a street car conductor during a robbery.

McWilliams, befriended by Clarence Darrow, had been sentenced to electrocution three times in the 20 months since he shot and killed William Sayles, a street car motorman at Rockford.

Darrow pleaded that the life of the youth be spared when the new pardon board, appointed by Gov. Horner, held its first meeting here a week ago.

Constitution Hall Is Scene of Brilliant Gathering, Following Annual Pilgrimage to Mount Vernon by Mrs. Magna.

By ELISABETH E. POE.

The depression, economic issues, budgets, national defense disputes—all were put behind them last night by the 3,000 delegates to the forty-second Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution for the big social event of the gathering, the annual reception by the president general, Mrs. Russell William Magna, and her national board of management for members of the congress.

Constitution Hall was the scene of the brilliant assemblage, presenting a cross-section of American womanhood and a veritable American fashion show with striking costumes the pictorial keynote of the occasion. Here and there among the modish gowns of today was seen a historic gown of yesterday, the treasured possession of the wearer, cherished in her family since the days of the Revolution itself. Heirlooms of jewelry were frequently seen, and on many women were to be noted decorations that told of valor in Colonial days, the memory of which had been preserved by a grateful Nation and by the immediate descendants of those who had won these visible evidences of their service to their country in the days of yore.

Mrs. Magna, the honorary presidents general and members of the National Board of Management stood on the platform of Constitution Hall while the delegates and other guests passed down the line in front of them. The State regents were also in line and held little receptions of their own, greeting their delegations and well-wishers after the main hostesses had been greeted. Flowers and flashing jewels, gay laughter and the inspiring music of the United States Navy Band Orchestra under the direction of Lieut. Charles Benter,

GAS LIGHT DEALINGS BARED BY ROBERTS

P. U. C. Counsel Testifies in Financial Control of Washington Company.

The skeleton of the Central Public Service Corporation and its dealings with the Washington Gas Light Co. was brought out of the closet and dangled before the eyes of the Federal Trade Commission yesterday in testimony drawn from William A. Roberts, special assistant counsel of the Public Utilities Commission, by Robert E. Healy, chief counsel of the Federal agency.

Continuing its inquiry into the activities of the defunct Central Public Service Corporation, reorganized last year into the Consolidated Gas & Electric Co., the Federal Trade Commission yesterday afternoon heard a brief review of the investigation conducted by the Public Utilities Commission, the subsequent withdrawal of the Central Public Service Corporation from the active operating management of the local gas companies and the developments leading up to a District Supreme Court decree terminating the inquiry on December 23, 1932.

Under Mr. Healy's questioning, Mr. Roberts traced the story of the acquiring of the Washington and the Georgetown Gas Light companies early in 1929 by foreign interests, the unsuccessful attempt of the District Commission to divest the Seaboard Investment Trust of its control of the companies, the subsequent investigation and hearing which resulted in an order by the District Commission to the foreign owners to surrender the 84 per cent of the common shares of the gas companies, and finally the changes in ownership set up which led to a court decree.

"The control of 84 per cent of the common shares of the Washington Gas Light Co. by the Washington and Suburban companies has not changed since the signing of the decree," Mr. Roberts said. "But we decided that this organization was similar in character to the Seaboard Investment Trust, which the District Supreme Court had held did not come under the definition of 'corporation' in the LaFollette antimerger act."

After Mr. Roberts had named the ten organizations which own the 6,000 shares of the Washington and Suburban companies and had pointed out their interlocking relationships, Mr. Healy said it was clear that the Central Public Service Corporation

Berlin, April 18 (A.P.).—Hardly over the Easter holidays, Germany swung feverishly into line today to celebrate Chancellor Hitler's forty-fourth birthday Thursday in a style reminiscent of bygone royalist times.

Preliminary exercises honoring the chancellor and the "third kingdom" began late tonight.

New Kidnap Trail In Lindbergh Case

Czech Workman Asserts He Knew Hotel Man's Son Who Headed Gang.

Maubeuge, France, April 18 (A.P.).—New alleged Lindbergh kidnaping revelations were made in a deposition at police headquarters today by a Czechoslovak workman, formerly of New York, whose name was not revealed.

Police said he told of knowing in New York several years ago a hotelkeeper's son, who, he alleged, was the chief of a kidnaping gang. The workman said he suspected this man was concerned with the Lindbergh case and had written about the matter to the Czechoslovak consul at New York.

Providing $1,000,000 for Two New Spans Urged by Commissioners.

Similar Sum to Supplement School Budget Is Urged at Capitol.

The Senate District appropriations subcommittee yesterday was called on to investigate duplication of plans for Calvert Street Bridge over Rock Creek, when George Oakley Totten, Jr., celebrated local architect, protested the Commissioners' action in discarding a design already approved by the Fine Arts Commission.

Designs and working drawings for a masonry bridge prepared by Mr. Totten in 1917, paid for by the Government, and indorsed by the Fine Arts Commission, have been set aside for plans for a steel structure prepared by the Mojeska-Masters-Chase Corporation at an additional cost of $60,000, the architect told the subcommittee.

He argued his masonry structure would have longer life and would be more in harmony with the Connecticut Avenue Bridge nearby. He charged that the Fine Arts Commission has never passed on the Mojeska design, as required by law, and declared the Commissioners have never explained satisfactorily why they ignored his plans.

Meanwhile, the Commissioners yesterday laid before the subcommittee amendments that would provide not only $575,000 for starting work on the Calvert Street Bridge but $250,000 for the new P Street Bridge over Rock Creek. Both would come out of the $1,040,000 road repair emergency item inserted in the District bill by the House. Another amendment pressed

Chinese Defense Base Is Set Up at Tangshan

Tientsin, China, April 18 (A.P.).—Retreating Chinese troops established a defense base today at Tangshan, south of the Lwan River, in an area banned for such purposes by the advancing Japanese forces.

Tangshan is only 80 miles northwest of Tientsin, Peiping's seaport and a major city in the international treaty area. To this point the Chinese were fleeing along a railroad before the victorious troops of Japan and Manchukuo.

West Virginia Beer Act Is Held Invalid

Federal Judge Orders Jury to Return Charges on Shipment Proof.

Charleston, W. Va., April 18 (A.P.).—Stating the West Virginia beer law is "unconstitutional, null and void," Federal Judge George W. McClintic today instructed the grand jury to return indictments where there was evidence of beer being transported into the State.

Judge McClintic cited a section of the Federal code affording protection to dry States, and said the prohibition situation in West Virginia is the same as it was before the State beer bill was passed.

Judge McClintic said "without the least regard for the constitution of West Virginia, the majority of each House of the Legislature, passed or thought they passed, this beer act."

BASEBALL WILL AID CAPITAL CIVIC FUND

Volunteer Nines Will Play 12 Games Nights, With Other Attractions.

An elaborate program of events, featuring a volunteer baseball team of George Washington University, will be presented in Griffith Stadium on twelve nights, beginning April 27, for the benefit of the National Capital civic fund.

Through its president, Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, George Washington University volunteered to organize a baseball team to participate in the civic fund programs. Games will be played with other representative teams.

A group of 24 events are scheduled, with twelve night baseball games and twelve special attractions on the program. Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club, authorized use of the stadium free of charge.

The National Capital civic fund was organized in 1929 for the purpose of sponsoring and financing city-wide civic celebrations. The Monument lot Fourth of July fireworks display and the community Christmas tree are included in the fund's yearly program.

More than 3,000 persons, exclusive of the university baseball team, will take part in the attractions. The opening night will see a game between George Washington and the University of Delaware and will be known as "Shrine Night," with the Almas Temple Arab Patrol and Drum Corps taking part.

The programs will open at 7 p. m. with a special attraction, followed by the baseball game at 8 o'clock. Following the example of George Washington University, many civic and fraternal organizations have pledged their aid toward swelling the fund.

Among organizations to participate will be the District of Columbia Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, the District Department of Playgrounds, the Community Center, the Welfare and Recreational Association, the Capital City League, which will open its season with Walter John-

Twenty persons were arrested, among them several Ukrainians.

Stolen Manuscript Of Scott Returned

Original "Guy Mannering" Restored to Place in Morgan Library.

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—The World Telegram says today that the stolen manuscript of part of Sir Walter Scott's "Guy Mannering" has been returned to the Morgan Library.

The manuscript was stolen last October while at Columbia University, where it formed part of a loan exhibition.

Miss Belle d'Acosta Greene, director of the library, was quoted as declining to disclose any details of its return or the identity of the person who returned it.

"It was returned last Friday in perfect condition," she was quoted as saying. "No questions were asked."

The manuscript was given to the late J. Pierpont Morgan by his father. It was valued at $15,000.

BRITAIN LIKELY TO STOP SOVIET IMPORTS TODAY

TWO ENGINEERS GET TERMS; 3 DEPORTED

Only 2 of 17 Defendants Are Acquitted; Full Confidence Reaffirmed by Vickers.

London (Wednesday), April 19 (A.P.).—The privy council has been summoned for a meeting this morning for the purpose of authorizing a proclamation under a recent act empowering the British government to prohibit Russian imports, it was officially announced early today.

The meeting will be in Windsor Castle because the king is now residing there. It was implied that his majesty himself would preside over the council.

Moscow (Wednesday), April 19 (A.P.).—Two of the six British electrical engineers tried on charges of espionage, bribery and sabotage, early today were given prison sentences, while three were ordered deported and the other was acquitted.

Ten of their Russian codefendants were sentenced to terms up to ten years. One was acquitted.

Three Barred for Five Years.

The three judges comprising the court announced the verdict after 9 hours and 15 minutes of deliberation.

W. H. MacDonald, the only one of the British employes of the Metropolitan-Vickers electrical firm to plead guilty, received a two-year prison sentence.

L. C. Thornton, the company's chief construction engineer in Russia, who was described as a military spy by Prosecutor Andrey Vishinsky, was sentenced to a three-year term.

Allan Monkhouse, the Metropolitan-Vickers director in Russia; John Cushny, an engineer, and Charles Nordwall were ordered deported within three days. They will not be allowed to return to Soviet Russia within five years.

Woman Is Sentenced.

A. W. Gregory, charges against whom were withdrawn by the prosecutor, was acquitted. Y. I. Ziebert, who the prosecutor said had engaged in no serious sabotaging activity, was the only Russian freed of the charges.

The only woman defendant, Anna Kutuzova, blonde secretary of Monkhouse, was sentenced to one and a half years' imprisonment. The verdict carried no death sentences, the severest punishment being the ten-year terms meted out to Vassili Guzev, A. T. Lobanov and L. A. Sukoruchkin, for all of whom the prosecutor asked "the highest penalty."

The judges came in with the verdict at 12:55 a. m. The presiding judge, Vassili Ulrich, kept the entire crowd in the courtroom standing while he summarized the charges

PERMIT ROW FLARES ON BEER FOR GANGS

Dalrymple and Doran Also Clash on Shifting of Administrator.

(Associated Press.)

Three weeks in office, A. V. Dalrymple, the prohibition director, yesterday was the center of a controversy over the issuance of brewing permits to well-known Eastern gangsters and the shifting of a Pacific Coast administrator without the foreknowledge of Attorney General Cummings.

Meanwhile, the Attorney General himself initiated an independent investigation into the issuance of permits all over the country and said that every resource of the Justice Department would be strained toward keeping known offenders and persons with criminal records out of the beer business.

'I believe the decent and law-abiding citizens of the country want decent and responsible people handling beer in a manner free from corruption and graft," Mr. Cummings said, "and the Department of Justice is behind this form of regulation in every respect."

New Jersey Situation.

The New Jersey beer situation which led to the killings last week of two men listed as racketeers and gangsters—one of whom had obtained a brewing permit—was brought to Dalrymple's door early in the day. Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, asserted that some permits were pushed along at the request of the prohibition director.

Later, Cummings told newspapermen that he did not know until he read published accounts that Dalrymple had demanded the resignation of William G. Walker as administrator of northern California and Nevada and had appointed John L. Considine, a San Francisco newspaperman, as his successor.

Dalrymple, in a turbulent session with newspapermen, dictated a heated statement—his first since taking office—in reply to what he termed "slight criticisms" of his office.

He said haste was urged to get revenue to flowing in from beer and that "the object was, of course, to see that no injustice was done to those who had complied with the regulations."

Declines to Be Interrogated.

"We do not intend that any permittee shall be held back and favoritism shown to another permittee," he said, adding that he did not intend to enter into any controversy with Dr. Doran.

Then, flatly declining to answer any questions about his actions since he has been director, he pounded his desk and told those gathered about him that he would not be interrogated and that he was under instructions from the Attorney General to give no interviews.

Dalrymple said that before the permits were issued Aaron Sapiro, also a California attorney, had called on him as the representative of two of five breweries in New Jersey which have been cited by Doran to show cause why their license should not be revoked. Later, Dalrymple said, Sapiro called on Doran.

The prohibition director said that "we have and will instruct our men to expedite issuance of permits where it is demonstrated that it is a proper case for a permit to be issued."

The New Jersey situation grew out of the slaying last week in Elizabeth of Max Greenberg, New York and former St. Louis gangster, and Max Hassel, beer racketeer, of Reading, Pa. Five breweries have been summoned to show their right to hold licenses.

Dr. Doran is given responsibility for the issuance of permits while the prohibition bureau agents investigate possible criminality in connection with applicants.

The coterie of women of the District of Columbia D. A. R. were very handsomely dressed and had important duties at the reception. Mrs. Harry Colfax Grove, State regent was attractively gowned in black lace and chiffon and carried a huge bouquet of flowers. By her side stood Miss Helen Harmon, candidate for vice president general of the District of Columbia, in a dress of blue chiffon, handsomely embroidered in beads; Mrs. John N. Beavers, of the District, chairman of the national committee of buildings and grounds, was in a dress of pale-blue chiffon. With Mrs. Beavers was her niece and personal page, Miss Thornton Magruder, just 16 years old, the youngest page at the Congress and wearing a dress of white material. Other District of Columbia leaders present were Mrs. Wallace Hanger, vice charman of program, in a dress of hyacinth-blue chiffon; Mrs. David C. Caldwell, vice president general, in a dress of bronze cloth and sequins; Mrs. William G. Gary, chairman of platform hostesses, in a dress of plum-colored silk; Mrs. N. Howland Brown, vice chairman of platform hostesses, in pink lace; Mrs. George Barnett, in white satin; Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, in plum-colored chiffon, and Mrs. Frank Hight, in black lace.

The librarian general, Mrs. Frank M. Dick, wore a dress of black and white lace; Miss Emma Crowell, chairman of the resolutions committee, wore black lace; Mrs. Frank H. Parcells, organizing secretary general, had on a dress of pink satin; Mrs. Raymond G. Kimball, chaplain general, black lace and pale pink chiffon; Mrs. Alexander Ennis Patton, honorary vice president general, black lace and chiffon; Mrs. Joseph M. Caley, vice president general, black cut velvet with white lace top; Mrs. E. Thomas Boyd, vice president general, pearl gray chiffon and silver lace; Mrs. Charles Herbert Carroll, vice president general, burgundy velvet; Mrs. James Charles Peabody, vice president general, pink silk and lace; Mrs. Charles E. Herrick, vice president general, light gray chiffon trimmed with silver; Mrs. Herbert Gaffney, black chiffon trimmed with crystals, and Mrs. Henry B. Joy, recording secretary general, pale yellow chiffon embroidered in brilliants.

Mount Vernon Pilgrimage.

Several hours earlier, the president general, Mrs. Magna, her board of management and hundreds of the delegates had made the annual pilgrimage to Mount Vernon to lay wreaths on the tombs there of George and Martha Washington, led by Mrs. Eleanor Washington Howard, honorary chairman of the committee in charge, who was the last Washington born at Mount Vernon.

There, standing in solemn silence at this shrine of a Nation's liberties, Mrs. Magna reminded the D. A. R. that this annual pilgrimage to Mount Vernon was one of the precious privileges of the society from which they could derive deep and lasting inspiration to better carry on the work which lies ahead.

"If we can take a spiritual message from this occasion," declared Mrs. Magna, "we should in their spirit rededicate ourselves to the 'carrying on' propensities of American character.

"In the names of these great Americans, let us be sane, reasonable, rested and normal. Let the Georges of this day and the Marthas, who have the mother quality inherent in woman, administer curative powers to a troubled world by faithful adherence to the daily task—the duties of the home, as the keystone of the Nation and the strongest defense of the Nation—children educated properly in the home, which means an enlightened country."

The delegates, headed by Mrs. Magna, also placed a wreath upon the tomb of American's Unknown Soldier at Arlington. Arrangements for this ceremony had been made by a committee headed by Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, of Massachusetts. At the Unknown Soldier's grave, after she had placed the wreath in the name of the D. A. R., Mrs. Magna recited an original poem in his honor. It follows:

'Tis said you are unknown
And yet I know of none
Whose "name" means more
Or praises are so sung.

'Tis more than just a spirit
You who in sleep can wake
The heart of Nations beating
With life which you pulsate.

Come closer, dear spirit of a boy
Lead us in prayer this day
Guide us who tread uncertainties
Help us to know the way.

O soldier in the nether land
Be with us here today
As we have come in tribute
Our homages to pay.

The world says rather well known
For on the tongues of men
Your name's articulation
Is like a prayer's Amen.

As sunsets fade
And morninga dawn
Sleep well as here you lie
The women of the world are pledged
To see you live—not die.

Senator Barbour Speaks.

Faith in America and support of the President are essential if the war against the depression is to be successfully waged, Senator W. Warren Barbour, of New Jersey, declared yesterday in his brief address.

The President, Senator Barbour added, should be followed when he is right as a leader would be followed in battle, and criticism of his policies should be reserved for the time when the critic is "honestly convinced" the President is wrong.

"If I were to leave one short message to carry with you back to your homes and to broadcast among your neighbors and your friends," Senator Barbour continued, "I would say, 'Have faith in the future of America.' I do not actually believe that any of us have ever lost this faith, but I do believe that at times it has been suffered to lag. Wars are not won by lagging faith."

Echoes of the financial stress throughout the country were heard in a resolution unanimously adopted by the delegates yesterday in which a moratorium on the dues of members was provided and the president general and the executive committee were empowered to use their discretion in all matters relating to delinquent members and chapters.

Urging the society to pay off the debt on Constitution Hall as rapidly as possible, Mrs. Magna, in her capacity as chairman of Constitution Hall committee, proposed a plan for each member to pay a penny a day until the debt had been liquidated.

Cuts and a reductions in the membership have been other signs of the depression in D. A. R. circles, Miss Katherine Nettleton, treasurer general, revealed in her annual report. This membership totals 161,485 with 28,194 members still in arrears for dues.

Nominations for Tonight.

Other reports showed that there are now 2,468 chapters of the society with 8 new ones authorized during the last 12 months.

Miss Myra Hazard, curator general, told of many accessions to the museum and that 75 gifts to it had been accepted during the last year, including a number from the District of Columbia.

Three cases have been given. A lovely mahogany table case with glass top, given by Mrs. Jacob Marshall, of New York, in which to display her Chelsea. A large white wall case, given by the District of Columbia in honor of the State regent, Mrs. Harry Colfax Grove, in which to show the interesting collection of baby embroideries, dresses, caps, shirts and infant accessories. An iron rack for holding and displaying small hair trunks is being given by the chapters of the southwest district of Ohio—Lagonda, Catherine Green, Urbana, Turtle Creek, Jonathan Day, Cincinnati, William Horney, Joseph Spencer, Taliaferro, Piqua, Miami, Washington Court House, George Clinton, Fort Greenville.

Today's sessions of the congress will be given over to reports from the chairmen of national committees, the D. A. R. approved schools and the State regents.

At the night session the candidates for the seven vacancies in the ranks of vice presidents general and two honorary vice presidents general will be placed in nomination.

Cumberland to Stop West Virginia Beer

Cumberland, Md., April 18 (A.P.).—Harry A. Manley, general manager of the Cumberland Brewery, which has been shipping beer into West Virginia, said today that shipments would cease immediately in view of Federal Judge George W. McClintic's statement today that the West Virginia law was unconstitutional.

Andorra for General Ballot.

Madrid, April 18 (A.P.).—The tiny State of Andorra in the Pyrenees is seeking Spain's approval for a universal suffrage law. Hitherto only the heads of families have voted. Official Spanish circles declared themselves sympathetic toward the movement.

C.A.R. OPEN PARLEY WHICH 300 ATTEND

Mrs. Magna Gives Welcome to Children, Who Recite and Show Musical Skill.

With the largest attendance in the 38 years of its existence, the Children of the American Revolution yesterday opened a three-day convention in the National Red Cross Building. More than 300 delegates, ranging in age from 4 to 21 years, gathered from all sections of the country to attend the annual meeting.

The opening session was devoted to addresses by members of allied patriotic societies. The convention was welcomed by Mrs. Russell Magna, representing the D. A. R.; Mrs. Charles S. Groves, the Daughters of the District; Frederick Millspaugh, the National Sons of the American Revolution; Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, the District Sons of the American Revolution, and the Rev. Thomas Green, for the Sons of the Revolution.

Children Recite.

Dressed in colonial costumes, children of the convention presented musical selections and recitations. Little Lydia McAllister, 4, of the Richard Lord Jones Society, drew a round of applause from members of the Marine Band for her presentation of the Star Spangled Banner.

William Tyler Page, great-grandson of the former clerk of the House, recited Page's American Creed and other children rendered musical selections on the piano and violin.

Mr. Millspaugh told of a statement in the oldest known writing which brought laughter when he quoted it as "children are no longer obedient to their parents."

Pleads for Ideals.

Gen. Fries told the children they must hold fast to the ideals of the older generation, and be as militant as their grandsires to keep enemies from overthrowing their Government. Dr. Green brought greetings from the National Red Cross.

A report on work of the society was given by Mrs. Josiah A. Van Orsdel, the national president. She spoke of its major projects, naming the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier of the Revolution in Alexandria, Va., and the Mary Ball Boom in Wakefield, restored house of George Washington's birth.

Mrs. Van Orsdel outlined plans of a mountain school at Tamassee, S. C., founded for the education of underprivileged children.

The convention will continue through tomorrow when the delegates will be presented to Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House.

Uruguay to Take Seat At Economic Conclave

Montevideo, Uruguay, April 18 (A.P.).—The Uruguayan government today accepted the invitation of the United States to participate in the economic discussions at Washington with President Roosevelt and appointed Varela Acevedo, Uruguayan Minister at Washington, as the country's representative.

E. J. Sullivan, Noted Book Illustrator, Dies

London, April 18 (A.P.).—Edmund J. Sullivan, internationally known black and white artist, died today at the age of 64. His work is permanently represented in galleries in various parts of the world, including New York.

Mr. Sullivan illustrated such books as "Tom Brown's Schooldays," Carlyle's "French Revolution," the "Vicar of Wakefield" and "Omar Khayyam."

D. A. R. Groups Discuss Issues at State Meetings

Social Gatherings and Informal Consideration of Current Problems Take Place of Individual Business Sessions.

By VYLLA POE WILSON.

Yesterday afternoon was get-together period for the women from the many States attending the D. A. R. Congress at meetings and celebrations and luncheons. Since the rule has been in vogue that State conferences must be held in the States the meetings of the delegations at the time of the congress are more in the form of social gatherings and discussions of the attitudes the delegations will assume toward various issues.

Many of the delegations hurried from the State luncheons and meetings to the meeting of the National Defense Committee which took place all afternoon in the national officers clubroom in the D. A. R. Administration Building. Some of the delegates found this meeting far too important to leave even to join the pilgrimages to Arlington and Mount Vernon.

Mrs. William S. Becker, chairman of the National Defense Committee presided and declared that she is shocked at the danger which threatens the training of young men for service to their country in the pending consideration of the curtailment of funds for the Citizens' Military Training Camps and the Reserve Officers' Training Corps which at that moment was engaging the attention of President Roosevelt at the White House.

Training Fund Is Cited.

The attention of the members of the committee and the State and national defense chairmen was drawn to the fact that the fund for the training of 37,500 men has already been appropriated, one of the last acts of President Hoover being to sign this bill, but that pressure is being brought on the President, as Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy not to spend this money this way in the interest of economy. Mrs. Becker said that she is in constant touch with the White House by telephone and the members of the D. A. R. authorize her to go to the White House to register a protest against curtailing of funds for military training for young men in camps and colleges.

In the open discussion on the question of pacificism in colleges, Mrs. Vincent Sisson, of Chicago, asserted that she believed the two boys who recently refused to take the military training at the University of Maryland as conscientious objectors were deliberately placed in the university by propagandists against military training. Mrs. Benjamin Frank Wade, of College Park, declared she was very familiar with the case and believed that communistic propaganda was behind the boys' objections.

Speakers at the meeting were heartily applauded. They included Maj. William H. Gill, who spoke on the "C. M. T. C.;" Col. Ralph M. Parker, who spoke on the "R. O. T. C.;" Dr. Thomas H. Healy, who spoke on "Nationalism and Internationalism;" Dr. Leonid Strakhovsky, who spoke on "Recognition of Soviet Russia," and Mrs. E. P. Pendleton, who spoke on "Schools and Colleges."

District Meeting Deferred.

The District of Columbia did not hold a meeting yesterday because most of the State officers, chapter regents and members are serving on important committee of the congress. Mrs. John N. Beavers, chairman of the national committee on buildings and grounds, was the guest and speaker at many of the State meetings. Miss Helen Harman, candidate for vice president general from the District, was also a guest at many meetings.

Many District of Columbia D. A. R. members attended the State meetings of Maryland and Virginia as cooperation between the local chapters and those of the nearby States is very close. The Maryland State meeting was held at the Hay-Adams House with the State regent presiding. The State luncheon was held at the Mayflower Hotel with Sir Willimott Lewis as the guest speaker. The Virginia State delegation held only a short meeting in the afternoon, but had a State dinner at night at the Willard Hotel before the president general's reception.

The State meeting of Georgia was held in the Michigan room of Memorial Continental Hall. The delegates and the Georgia pages will be guests of honor of the Georgia State Society tomorrow night at a reception and dance in the gold room of the Shoreham Hotel. Representative Robert Ramspeck will deliver the address of welcome. Last night the Georgia State banquet took place at the Willard before the president general's reception with State Regent Mrs. Julian McCurry presiding.

Report on Student Loans.

Mrs. Henry B. Joy, recording secretary general, and Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg, wife of the senator from Michigan, were among those present at the banquet of the Michigan delegation held at the Washington Hotel last night. Mrs. James H. MacDonald, the State regent, presided.

Mrs. Russell William Magna, president general, was the guest of honor at the tea given by Mrs. Sydney Perry Cooper, State regent of North Carolina, and the North Carolina delegation yesterday afternoon. The State meeting was held in the North Carolina room of Memorial Continental Hall.

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, of Cincinnati, honorary president general, was guest of honor at the Ohio State luncheon yesterday. Other special guests were the nine pages from the State of Ohio—Miss Roberta C. Baker, of Cincinnati; Miss Caroline H. Collier, of Cincinnati; Miss Helen E. Cooper, of Western Reserve; Miss M. Curtis, of Western Reserve; Miss Mabel Harrison Kaiser, of Lakewood; Miss Romona Kaiser, of Cincinnati; Miss Marion Miller, of Ashtabula, Miss Martha Morris, of Shaker Heights, and Miss Jane G. Sullivan, of Dayton. Resolutions of regret were passed on account of the absence of the State regent, Mrs. Asa Clay Messenger, because of the illness of her husband, Dr. Messenger, in Xenia. Mrs. John S. Heaume, State vice regent, of Springfield, presided at the luncheon and made the opening address. Mrs. Heaume will also make the report of the student loan fund committee, of which Mrs. Walter L. Tobey, of Hamilton, is chairman, on account of the absence of Mrs. Tobey. Mrs. Herbert Backus, of Columbus, will read Mrs. Tobey's report as chairman of the Caroline Scott Harrison Memorial on Thursday. Mrs. Heaume and the delegation were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Ellis at tea on Sunday and sent resolutions of appreciation to their host.

The State regent of Indiana, Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Bryne, presided at the Indiana State meeting held at Memorial Continental Hall. Mrs. O'Bryne displayed the books which the Indiana State D. A. R. have sent to the Constitution Hall Library, including handsomely bound genealogical records for five counties of the State donated by the Marions Benedict Chapter of La Porte in honor of Mrs. A. A. Woodruff.

Furnishings Described.

Mrs. John N. Beavers, of the District of Columbia, chairman of the national committee of buildings and grounds, told of the furnishings of the Indiana room in which the meeting was held. Representative Virginia Jenckes, of Indiana, was one of the guests of honor and invited the State regent and the members of the Indiana delegation to breakfast this morning. The State regent and the delegation will be guests of honor at luncheon of Senator and Mrs. Arthur Robinson, of Indiana, on Thursday as well as Dr. and Mrs. Lucas and Miss Helen Lucas, of Brookville, Ind. Miss Lucas is the personal page to the State regent. Last night Mrs. James B. Cranshaw, of Terre Haute, vice president general, was among the guests of honor at the dinner given by the Wisconsin delegation.

Aid to Students Cited.

The State regent announced that the student fund committee has contributed $3,000 to be divided among 30 students in the State and has sent a gift of $50 to a senior girl in each of the six denominational colleges in West Virginia.

Mrs. Graham Lawrence, State regent of Kentucky, presided at the Kentucky State luncheon. Mrs. J. Stanley Reed, registrar general of Maysville, Ky., was one of the guests of honor. Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, of Cincinnati, honorary president general, was a guest at the meeting after the luncheon.

Mrs. Eleanor Washington Howard, the last living member of the Washington family to be born at Mount Vernon and who was brought up in one of the old Washington family homes in West Virginia, was the honorary chairman of the committee in charge of the pilgrimage to Mount Vernon in the afternoon to put wreaths on the tomb of George and Martha Washington. Mrs. Howard is now 77 years of age, but made the long journey down to the tomb with the president general. Mrs. Howard is an authority on genelogical matters and has written much on the subject of the early history of this country. At one time she was a candidate for president general. She was one of the founders of the Children of the American Revolution and is still very active in that society.

was controlled by the Public Utility Holding Corporation of America, which in turn was controlled by the Chase National Bank interests through the Chase, Harris, Forbes Corporation and the Investors Shares Corporation.

"Instead of calling them the Central Public Service and Albert E. Peirce group, we might better call them the Chase group," he commented.

Mr. Roberts named the trustees of the Washington and Suburban companies as William E. Howard, Sherman Damon and Henry B. Rising, the latter two vice president and treasurer, respectively, of Chase, Harris, Forbes Corporation of Massachusetts.

He declared that the Washington Gas Light Co. is the principal earner of the Washington and suburban companies group which includes the subsidaries of the Washington company, the Alexandria Gas Co. and "certain portions" of the New York & Richmond Gas Co.

Annual Retainer Fee.

Yet with $6,500,000 in bonds and 70,000 shares of 6 per cent preferred stock, in addition to the 5,000 common shares of beneficial interest, the Washington and suburban companies have paid no dividends for the last three pay periods.

Moreover, the Public Utilities Commission is now conducting a valuation of the Washington Gas Light Co., Mr. Roberts pointed out, and this will no doubt lead to a reduction in rates which will prevent an increase in profits of the Washington and suburban companies.

Mr. Roberts also recalled the efforts of the Central Public Service Corporation to collect a $12,000 annual retainers fee, in addition to charges for management service, from the Washington Gas Light Co. and the further attempt of the Public Service Engineering Corporation, a Central Public Service subsidiary, to collect $2,400 a month on a natural gas contract with the Maryland Gas Transmission Corporation and $68,500 for construction of a pipe line between Rockville and the east plant of the Washington company.

Report by Ryder.

The Public Utilities Commission, he said, put a stop to all these attempts of Central Public Service to derive excess profits from the Washington company, and finally Central Public Service withdrew from the local picture entirely before undertaking a reorganization.

Negotiations whereby Washington and suburban companies obtained control of the Alexandria Gas Co. were also disclosed by Mr. Roberts. He said that the former deposited $10,000,000 in common stock of the Washington gas company as a collateral for a $1,000,000 loan used to purchase the plant from the city of Alexandria.

State Lease Asked In Cement Plants

Illinois Governor Makes Proposal After Rejecting Bids for Product.

Springfield, Ill., April 18 (A.P.).—Failure to get satisfactory bids for cement and hearing some of the plants were about to close, Gov. Henry Horner has sent telegrams to four cement companies asking if they would lease their Illinois plants to the State.

The telegrams were sent to the general manager of the Marquette Cement Manufacturing Co., the Alpha Portland Cement Co., the Lehigh Portland Cement Co. and the Medusa Portland Cement Co.

The companies had made identical bids of $1.62 a barrel, 68 cents higher than last year, and the governor had said the action smacked of collusion.

Delaware Calls Election In Prohibition Repeal

Dover, Del., April 18 (A.P.).—Gov. C. Douglas Buck today issued a proclamation calling a special election for May 27 to vote for delegates to a convention to act on the prohibition repeal amendment.

Gov. Buck specified that the convention be held June 24 and that seventeen delegates attend, one from each senatorial district, to be elected at large.

FORESTRY RECRUITS PUT CAMP IN ORDER

All Hands Tired but Happy to Have Found Work in Luray Hills.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Luray, Va., April 18.—The ring of axes echoed through the balmy atmosphere of old Massanutten Mountain, looking down upon this village, today as the peaks of 40 tents pushed skyward in a little clearing forming Civilian Conservation Camp, No. 1, the dream of our new President, striving to relieve the unemployed of the country, come true.

That the reforestation plan will prove a success can be ascertained by conversation with the young men in this camp, which will be a model for hundreds of others throughout the country. Inquiries as to their personal opinion of the movement bring such replies as "I'm glad to get work of any kind," "First job I've had in over a year," "My folks sure need the money," "I don't know where else I could get a job that would pay $1 a day and keep."

Cross-Section of Nation.

These 200 men, officially designated as the 322d Company of the Civilian Conservation Corps, are truly a cross-section of the unemployed of the country. There are boys who have never been away from home; fellows who have traveled "a la box car" over the country seeking work; men who have seen much and little service in the various branches of military service and boys who graduated from high schools at a time when experienced men were being furloughed and never had an even break to get a job.

One can stand at the head of the camp with one of the boys acting as informant—here comes a man who served six years in the Marine Corps, four of them in Nicaragua; there's a boy who hitch-hiked all the way to the West Coast seeking work and walked the streets of a Western city by day picking up odd jobs and attended night school in the evening; that man leading a working detail was superintendent of construction for a number of years, and here comes a lad who never slept under the stars before. Approximately 10 per cent of the company are former service men and their training is a great aid at least in these first days of establishing the camp.

Flood Forces Detour.

The combination of swollen streams, which in one instance covered the floor of a bridge by 4 feet, necessitating a detour, and the narrow mountain road leading to the camp halted the giant vans in which the tents and sleeping gear was being transported several miles from the site, and it was near midnight when the last of the cots and blankets reached camp after being transferred to smaller trucks last night. Cots were set up in the clearing, and the men slept soundly with the star-studded sky as a roof and the moon which came over the mountains beaming down on them. This morning, however, the men were up and about at sunrise and by noon the underbrush covering the camp area had been raked away, the remaining trees felled, stumps extracted and half of the tents erected. By supper tonight all tents had been raised and men assigned to each. By Saturday every minor detail necessary to the establishing of a model camp will have been attended to, and the boys will be more proud of it than if they had walked into a place all ready to receive them, because they can say with just pride, "See what we did."

That's the spirit of the corps right now. Long may it last.

U. S. Sells Wheat In May Contracts

All Stabilization Holdings for Month Sold, Says Henry Morgenthau.

(Associated Press.)

Henry Morgenthau, jr., Farm Board chairman, announced after the close of the grain exchanges yesterday that all of the Grain Stabilization Corporation's holdings of May wheat futures in all markets have been sold.

Morgenthau said that the Grain Stabilization Corporation has now disposed of all of its cash wheat and May futures, but did not indicate whether any wheat for future delivery outside of May contracts have been or are held.

When he assumed office early in March, the board held approximately 30,290,000 bushels of wheat futures which Morgenthau said at that time was largely represented by May futures.

Bellows Asserts U. S. Radio System Is Best

The system of commercially sponsored radio programs of this country is far superior to the European practice, Henry Bellows, vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, told the Civitan Club of Washington yesterday.

The system, he explained, allows a freer opportunity to the public to obtain all sides of a question, whereas in countries where radio broadcasting is owned and operated by the government, the public hears only propaganda favorable to the party in control.

House District Group To Discuss Legislation

A meeting of the full House District Committee to consider pending local legislative matters was tentatively set for tomorrow morning by Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, chairman.

Meanwhile, Representative Loring Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, said hearings will be called late this week to consider the Washington-Georgetown Gas Light Co. merger. He is awaiting reappointment as chairman of the public utilities subcommittee to hold the hearings.

Woman Wins Decision In $9,000,000 Estate

San Francisco, April 18 (A.P.).—The State Supreme Court reversed the decision of the San Mateo County Superior Court which had denied Mrs. Constance May Gavin her claim for two-ninths of the estate of James L. Flood, capitalist, on the ground she was Flood's illegitimate daughter.

Mrs. Gavin sued for a daughter's share of the estate, then estimated as totaling about $9,000,000. She lost the case when Superior Judge George H. Buck instructed the jury to return a verdict against her.

DRASTIC CONTROL OF WAGES IS IN 30-HOUR BILL CHANGE

dictate to industry what its output must be. Only if industries are guilty of unfair competition would an effort be made to limit hours of work beyond the general 30-hour provision, she said.

Summary of Substitute.

Following is a summary of her substitute bill, compiled by The Post from an informal source.

1. Penalties ranging from $200 for first conviction to $1,000 or a year's imprisonment for subsequent guilt are prescribed for shipment in interstate commerce of any commodity except whole milk or cream, produced by workers laboring more than 30 hours a week or six hours a day.

2. In the event of extraordinary need, an exception could be made permitting employment of a worker more than 40 hours a week or 8 hours a day for an aggregate of only 10 weeks. The exigency would be determined by an Hours of Work Board.

3. An Hours of Work Board could be appointed by the Secretary of Labor in any enterprise or industry. It would comprise representatives of the Secretary, of the employes concerned and of the employers concerned. The last named would be appointed jointly by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

Wage Board Provided.

4. The Secretary of Labor, after investigation, could further limit the hours of operation in plants found to be distributing the fair balance of production in their industry by overproduction or unfair competition. If the plants refused to comply, their products would be denied interstate shipment.

5. Where workers in an industry are found not receiving a wage reasonably commensurate with their services, the Secretary could appoint a Wage Board, comprised of an equal number of representatives of employers interested, employes and the "disinterested public."

6. The Wage Board could compel the production of books and records and the attendance of witnesses, with the aid of the courts. Within 30 days they would recommend reasonable wages varying with the nature of the services and the locality of the plant. From these recommendations the Secretary would issue directory orders establishing minimum rates for workers.

Judge of All Questions.

7. If the orders are disregarded, the Secretary may issue a mandatory order and publish the list of employers not paying the minimum wage. Except for willful misrepresentation of facts, she would not be liable for damages.

8. The Secretary would be judge of all questions of fact, could authorize any person to enter and inspect any concern affected by the act, and examine its private records. She would certify articles eligible for shipment, for the guidance of transportation officials.

9. Penalties for violation of the act would extend to transportation agencies, or anyone obstructing entry of a plant for inspection or enforcement purposes. An employer who refused to keep records required and furnish them to the Secretary would be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not less than $25 or more than $100 a day.

10. If any single provision of the act is ruled unconstitutional or otherwise held invalid, the remainder of the act would continue in force.

Bandits Seize Satchel of Currency Being Taken to Postoffice.

Terre Haute, Ind., April 18 (A.P.).—Two messengers of the Terre Haute First National Bank were robbed of $40,000 in currency in front of the Postoffice Building here this afternoon.

The messengers, Kenneth Hickman and Vernon Sparks, reported that four men in a small sedan drove beside their car as it reached the postoffice and two of the men alighted and approached with drawn revolvers. The robbers reached into the car, took a satchel containing the money and then fled with their companions, the messengers said.

The money was being taken from the bank to the postoffice for registry shipment to out-of-town points.

The robber car bore Indiana license plates.

South Carolina Pastor Wounded by Young Son

Spartanburg, S. C., April 18 (A.P.).—The Rev. G. C. Abernathy, Inman minister, was seriously wounded by a shotgun charge at his home today and police arrested his son, Woodrow Abernathy, 19, on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill.

Young Abernathy was lodged in the county jail here. The shotgun charge entered the left side of his stomach. Police said the shooting followed an argument at breakfast.

Rich Gold Strike Revives Old Mine

Delamar Shaft, in Nevada, Yields $300 in Metal at 20-Foot Level.

Caliente, Nev., April 18 (A.P.).—Reports reached here yesterday of a new gold strike at the Culverwell-Bradshaw mine in the famous old Delamar district of southeastern Nevada.

Assays over the bottom of a 20-foot shaft sunk on the ledge averaged $300 in gold per ton, while one picked sample from the heart of the vein assayed nearly $3,000. Sheriff Charles Culverwell, of Lincoln County, is a part owner of the property and said today the ground for a considerable distance around the strike has already been staked.

John F. Hylan to Run For Mayor of New York

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—Former Mayor John F. Hylan announced last night he would be an independent candidate for mayor in the election next November. His administration preceded that of James J. Walker and he is now a Children's Court judge.

Mayor John P. O'Brien undoubtedly will be named by Tammany Hall to run again. Joseph V. McKee, president of the Board of Aldermen, who served as mayor between Walker's resignation and O'Brien's inauguration, has been mentioned prominently as a fusion candidate.

PRESIDENT CONFERS WITH SENOR CINTAS

Assures Ambassador U. S. Will Maintain Usual Cuban Policies.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Roosevelt yesterday invited Cuban Ambassador Oscar Cintas to an hour's conference at the White House on the details of the present situation in Cuba. It is understood that the President assured the ambassador that the United States will maintain its traditional policy towards the Government of President Machado, consonant with the relations between this Government and any other sovereign nation. Following his White House talk, Ambassador Cintas called at the Department of State and was for more than two hours with Assistant Secretary of State Sumner Welles, who will soon assume direction of all Latin-American affairs.

The State Department conversation of the ambassador was more concerned with the economic aspects of the Cuban situation than the political conditions there. However, the ambassador declared afterward that he found the President and Assistant Secretary Welles most concerned about the internal financial situation in the island, which they regard as the chief cause of the present political unrest.

A project is now in process of preparation in the Department of State which looks to the immediate improvement in the cane sugar export from Cuba by permitting Cuba to bring into the United States a fixed quota, approximately 2,000,000 tons, of sugar free of tariff.

Sugar Quota System.

This would be approximately one-third of the exportation which in the year 1930 was only 6,500,000 tons, a very perceptible drop from the previous three years. Since that time, however, the sugar exports of Cuba to the United States have steadily decreased due to the falling off in consumption here, as well as abroad. The fixed quota system, however, is one of the projects which has been mulled over here. The other proposal would be a decrease in the tariff on sugar, to be compensated by a reduction in the Cuban import charges on American manufactured articles. The Cuban government would prefer to have a fixed quota on the free list and then pay the determined tariff rates on the balance of sugar exports, as this would immediately enable them to meet the competition that has reacted so unfavorably to the internal political conditions of Cuba since the sugar industry of the Philippines and the native beet sugar industry assumed their present proportion.

Senor Cintas will be one of the members of the Cuban delegation to come to the United States for an exchange of views with Secretary Hull and the President on the outlook for conditions in Havana. It is believed possible that the Cuban Secretary of State, Orestes Ferrara, will come here on this special mission to act with Ambassador Cintas on the economic discussions they will open in preparation for the World Economic Conference. Cuba is also preparing to send an important delegation to London for this conference at which place it is hoped to consecrate in treaty form the agreements that will have been drawn up in the preliminary talks here with the President and Secretary Hull.

Cudahy Viewed as Choice.

The President has not yet determined on his choice for Ambassador to Cuba to succeed Harry Guggenheim, but it is believed likely that he will finally decide on John Cudahy, son of the millionaire meat packing family in Chicago, who lives in Milwaukee. Mr. Cudahy has an impressive war record and was with the American troops in Russia. He is a millionaire sportsman and a director of many banks and real estate companies in Wisconsin. In addition, he was once a candidate for lieutenant governor of the State on the Democratic ticket.

Senator Ryan Duffy, of Wisconsin, has been active in proposing the name of Mr. Cudahy to the President. The present Assistant Secretary of State, Francis White, is believed to be anxious for a rest from his diplomatic duties and may possibly retire from the department. For the last six years, Mr. White has been adjudicating the tangled affairs of Latin America. His decisions in many of these cases, have been sustained by the best weight of international legal opinion, but they have rendered his appointment to many Latin American governments, particularly where he had previously decided against them, inopportune.

SOVIET IMPORTS BAN LOOMING IN BRITAIN

against the prisoners. For 25 minutes he read from a prepared manuscript and finally announced the verdict and the sentences.

A tense silence gripped the overcrowded courtroom which had been filled to overflowing by privileged Russians.

Property Also Seized.

The prisoners, including the Britons, stood stolidly as Judge Ulrich read from his paper. When the court pronounced the sentences, taking up each defendant by name separately, the defendants showed no emotion, as if the punishments assessed to them were not surprising.

The Russians who received the heaviest sentences also suffered confiscation of their property.

N. G. Zorin, M. L. Kotlyarevsky and V. A. Sokolov, assistant director of the Zlatoust electrical station, received terms of eight years each. M. O. Krasheninnikoff was given a five-year term, while P. E. Olyenik and B. P. Lebedev were given terms of three and two years, respectively.

Firm Voices Confidence.

London (Wednesday), April 19 (A. P.).—Officials of the Metropolitan-Vickers Co., six of whose employes were tried in Moscow on charges of espionage, bribery and sabotage against the Soviet Union, today issued a statement saying the company "reaffirms its complete confidence" in them.

The statement read:

"The company will consider Wednesday the position arising out of the judgment in the Moscow trial.

"In the meantime the company reaffirms complete confidence in the members of its staff, who have been the victims of this travesty of justice, and who are known to the company to be men of the highest integrity. The directors have no faith in the so-called evidence produced, or in the validity of the alleged confessions."

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

PUT A PIN IN THIS

"STATISTICS show"—runs the common phrase—and since they "show," let's have a somewhat-between-us chat about their indications.

Let's dust off the crystal ball and do a little mental gazing; conjecture on what the future—ten weeks hence—may hold in store for the Government employe, especially since the federated groups are an integral part of the local population.

Statistics lately adduced for public consumption by the Treasury Department show that during the first ten days of April the internal revenue receipts of the Government took an upward jump. The receipts for this period exceed last year's figures by more than $4,500,000.

On the basis that $3,000,000-a-day collections can be sustained from now until June 30, when the Federal fiscal year ends, Uncle Sam's pocketbook should be richer by approximately $210,000,000 from this source. Considering that the estimated savings from Government salary reductions has been stated as $100,000,000, is Uncle Samuel to share, in true philanthropic spirit, a part of this increased bounty with his public servants, who have been long faithful to their assigned tasks?

The Presidential edict assigning salary reductions was limited to a three-month period. Since the economy law, designed "to maintain the credit of the Government of the United States," conferred discretionary powers on the Chief Executive, it is a fair assumption that he will exercise a conciliatory right and restore employes on July 1 to their former pay status, or at least reduce the percentage cut, say, in half. Probably such action will come as the "new deal" which, in the hectic vote-getting days of the campaign, was held forth as possible with an administration change.

Economists are now enhancing the Federal ranks, and as they often orally announce that it is poor economics to reduce purchasing power, particularly where improved business conditions are at stake, it follows logically that an "accustomed" wage scale is "good economics" for the employe and for commercial conditions generally.

The Diary advances this thought as of April 18 in order that the Federal employe may not be deprived of a hope for better things, even though the hope is projected into the future. In poetic thought, "'Tis expectation makes a blessing dear."

"In Season" and "Out of Season."

I HAVE been reading your column and eating at the Commerce Cafeteria ever since both started. Monday morning you wrote of an interview with the Mr. Hoover who is head man at the cafeteria. I fail to notice the decline in prices he mentions.

It may be said for him that he cut the price of butter, but he also cut the butter. He does have nickel sandwiches, but he did the same thing to the sandwiches as he did to the butter. Apparently the only vegetables I ever select are "out of season," because I can not remember getting a nickel vegetable.

For lunch Monday I had black coffee, 3 cents; beets, 6 cents; two strips of bacon and two small pieces of calf liver, 25 cents; one slice of butter, 1 cent, and one biscuit, 2 cents. This is 39 cents.

It was a good lunch, well prepared and seasoned, the dining room was clean, and the service fast and courteous. But I think Mr. Hoover is trying to fool all of the people all of the time when he says a substantial cut has been made in the cost of eating at the Department of Commerce Cafeteria. HOYT BARNETT.

P. S.—I'm now in the market for one lunch pail and one thermo bottle. H. B.

While we speak of retirements in Washington after many years of service we should not lose sight of some away from here. There is the case of J. I. Campbell, chief clerk in Railway Mail, District 1, New York, who has just completed 45 years' service.

Mr. Campbell explained he planned no celebration of the fact "because times are too hard and I wouldn't want to have any of the men waste money on me."

Rating Plan

HERE is a plan founded on good authority purporting to outline the plan for dismissals in one of the large departments and which, is said to have gained favor in most of the other departments:

First, the efficiency rating is taken into account.

Second, the number of dependents is considered, with one point allowed for each dependent.

Third, credit is permitted for the first ten years of service.

Fourth, one point credit is added for each year over and above the first ten years. Here is an example of how the plan will work out, if adopted, assuming the efficiency rating to be (for illustration), 95, number of dependents none, and on a basis of 39 years:

Efficiency rating	95
Number of dependents	0
First 10 years service	5
Each year past 10	29
Total	129

Diary Guest Tickets

If your name in this column is followed by (*), or if your contribution appears, call on The Federal Diary editor between 4:30 and 5:15 p. m. and receive tickets to Loew's Fox, "Looking Forward" (Lionel Barrymore), or Loew's Palace, "The White Sister" (Helen Hayes and Clark Gable).

MAY 1 the Government loses the services, through retirement, of two of its veteran employes in the Patent Office and one in the Bureau of the Census, all three men born the same year, 1863, the same month, April, and all within a range of five days. The three men are:

Herman W. Smith. William E. Field.

Mr. Morris was born April 4, 1863. He originally was appointed to service in the Patent Office on July 1, 1875.

Mr. Smith was born April 9, 1863. He served in the Weather Bureau, July 1, 1891, to November 10, 1920, and entered the Patent Office the following day.

Mr. Field, born April 7, 1863, has been in the Census Bureau since June 15, 1909. He also served in War Department from August 18, 1898, to June 14, 1900.

THE other day the National Symphony Orchestra played "The Iron Foundry," that ear-splittin picture of a foundry that makes you think you are in the shop yourself with the floor shaking and the steam hammer going full blast. This same composition had been played at previous performances. At the close Mr. Kindler turned around, all smiles, and asked: "How do you like it? Shall we play it again?" In the instant's hush that followed his words, a white-haired old lady was heard to say, to the delight of the crowd: "What, again! Good Lord!"

Something unique occurred in the recent chess match between James Byler, Interior, and C. C. Bettinger, Veterans Administration. Playing in the Federal News tournament, Byler and Bettinger required a grand total of 19 hours to finish three games, the former winning two. In the third, Bettinger could have had a draw two moves before he resigned, but attempted to win from a drawn position, which experts say is almost always fatal.

The fourth tourney round got under way Monday. Unfinished matches will be played tonight.

PILOT, 19, CRASHES PLANE, KILLING FOUR

Flier, Licensed Week Ago, Dies With Father, Merchant and Mayor.

St. Louis, April 18 (A.P.).—A plane piloted by William N. Gregory, jr., 19, Augusta, Ark., who obtained his transport pilot's license a week ago, crashed near Valmeyer, Ill., today, killing its four occupants.

The dead included the pilot, his father, William Gregory, wealthy Woodruff County planter; Mayor O. W. Martin, Augusta, and Glen Herndon, Augusta merchant. All bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Identification first was made through the plane's log book, made out in young Gregory's name, taken from the burned wreckage in a wheat field near Valmeyer, 25 miles south of St. Louis.

The party had left Augusta at 9 a. m. for St. Louis on a pleasure trip. Engine trouble apparently developed a short time before the destination was reached. The clock in the plane, smashed, had stopped at 10:25, recording the time of the accident.

About three years ago the elder Gregory figured in an attempted kidnaping plot which failed when he and his wife fought off the kidnapers. A similar plot against the younger Gregory failed when he did not meet the would-be abductors in a Little Rock hotel. Five men received prison terms as a result of the plot.

North Dakota Plans End of Loan Bans

Governor Excepts Funds Advanced by Federal Finance Agencies.

Bismarck, N. Dak., April 18 (A.P.).—Gov. William Langer issued a proclamation today designed to hasten the end of the Federal ban on loans in North Dakota.

In it he specifically excepted from provisions of his previous debt and mortgage foreclosure moratorium crop production loans made through the Department of Agriculture, and advances made through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation.

Attorney General A. J. Gronna, jr., immediately communicated with John W. Barton, manager of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation in Minneapolis, who planned to tell Washington officials of the development. The Federal Farm Land Bank System halted loaning in North Dakota because of the governor's declaration against mortgage foreclosures. The Agricultural Credit Corporation did likewise because of his moratorium on payment of debts.

The second big problem, he concedes, is the loosening of the four or five billion dollars still tied up in closed banks. He is optimistic of progress in this direction but is making no predictions.

Wants Hands Free.

The President was reported as keeping an open mind on other "reflation" proposals, but after a two-hour Cabinet meeting yesterday it was emphasized that this problem was still in the discussion stage. He will announce shortly a two or three billion dollar public works plan.

The talk at the Capitol still involves speculation over the devaluation of the gold dollar, but there is no sign of how far Mr. Roosevelt will go if circumstances warrant further action in his opinion. It is becoming increasingly clear that he regards the monetary problem as closely entwined with his impending economic talks with foreign statesmen and prefers to have a free hand for the time being to work things out.

Senate Elders Withdrawn.

Intimations that President Roosevelt was studying inflationary moves filtered through the Senate yesterday and brought the collapse of a growing campaign to add currency-expanding riders to the broad administration farm program.

Leaders of the inflation bloc, Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, and Senator Long (Democrat), Louisiana, withdrew without explanation their proposals for monetary enlargement to raise commodity prices, which they had intended to press vigorously.

Senators then resumed general debate on the far-reaching farm price lifting and mortgage refinancing plan, which was confined largely to attacks by Republicans and Democrats alike. Leaders hoped for a final vote on the bill today.

Boy Hurt in Skylight Fall.

Kenneth Smallwood, 6, of 3621 Prospect avenue northwest, suffered minor lacerations to his face yesterday when he fell from the roof through a skylight at a gasoline station at Thirty-sixth and M street northwest. A passing motorist took him to Georgetown Hospital.

CHARLES F. LANMAN DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

Pioneer of Photoengraving Business Will Be Buried Tomorrow Morning.

Charles F. Lanman, 59, president of the Lanman Engraving Co. of this city, died suddenly Monday at his home, 1310 Farragut street northwest.

Mr. Lanman, a native of Washington, was a pioneer in the photo-engraving business in this city. He was an employe of the old National Tribune and organized and operated the plant bearing his name for more than 30 years. Prior to organizing his own business here, he organized a photo-engraving plant in the Philippines for the Government Printing Office and remained for three years as superintendent of the plant.

He was a member of the Washington Board of Trade, Washington Council, No. 224, Knights of Columbus, and the Washington General Assembly of the fourth degree Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Keller Lanman; two daughters, Mary Alice, Frances Rita and a son, Louis Henry Lanman, all living at home. He is also survived by four sisters, Mary E. Lanman, Caroline L. Lanman, secretary and treasurer of the company; Lulu E. Lanman, and Mrs. J. Paul Ward, all of Washington, and three brothers, Leo A., of Atlanta, Ga., and Frank E. and Maurice H. Lanman, both of Washington.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. at St. Gabriel's Church. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Miami U. Admits Siamese Royalty

Murray Sheehan Sponsor of Princeton Student, Who Transferred.

Oxford, Ohio, April 18 (A.P.).—Transfer of Prasob Mom Chow Sukhsvasti, young Siamese of royal blood, from Princeton University to Miami University here was announced by Miami officials today. "Conditions at Princeton that have made it impossible to do himself justice there," were given as the reason for the change.

President A. H. Upham, of the university here, said that Sukhsvasti, "while distantly related to the reigning family of Siam, is not a prince as we understand the term." He described him as "a courteous, unassuming lad with an excellent record of scholarship."

The youth, he said, was brought here by Murray Sheehan, an alumnus of Miami, who is connected with the Siamese legation at Washington, and was admitted on the basis of a personal telegram from Dean Christian Gauss, of Princeton.

PROTEST IS LODGED AGAINST BRIDGE PLAN

by the Commissioners would appropriate $1,000,000, remaining unspent from prior Municipal Center appropriations, to supplement the school budget, so badly curtailed by the House measure.

Following an airing of the bridge controversy before the subcommittee yesterday, with Engineer Commissioner Gotwals defending substitution of the steel design for Mr. Totten's masonry plans, the local architect reiterated a request that his drawings be followed in a letter to Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York. He said not only economies involved but esthetic considerations should influence the decision.

The Totten masonry drawing calls for a multiple arch structure. The so-called Modjeska steel span would be a single arch bridge. Those defending the Commissioners' action point to an alleged difficulty in locating bed rock on which to erect multiple arches, claiming such a foundation exists in abundance for construction of the single span steel structure.

It was Mr. Totten's contention that the design he prepared in 1917 was practically forgotten by the Commissioners. He said Maj. Gotwals told him more than two years ago he did not know of the existence of his plans, and that the secretary to the board had to have his memory refreshed.

$70,000 to Be Total Cost.

Commissioner Gotwals told the subcommittee that detailed drawings for the steel structure have been prepared, and all is in readiness to let the contract, if the appropriation is forthcoming.

"I want to emphasize that in addition to the $60,000 already paid to the Modjeska Co., $10,000 more will be requested for checking the steel drawings," Mr. Totten said, however, in a letter to Chairman Thomas of the subcommittee.

He said if his design is selected, structural drawings can be completed for less than the $10,000 necessary for checking the steel drawings and a masonry bridge can be built for the cost of the steel structure. He said he received $2,500 as payment in full for the designs he prepared, and has no financial claim against the Government.

In asking $1,000,000 from the Municipal Center fund to be used for school needs, the Commissioners pointed out that it would not increase the total of the bill.

Another Amendment.

Another amendment submitted for the subcommittee's consideration would permit transfers of funds from one item to another within the school system, the Public Library, the Playground Department, the Health Department and Public Welfare.

Two other amendments would permit school officials to assign special teachers to classroom work and allow officials to appoint qualified temporary teachers irrespective of the existing eligible list established by examination.

A still further amendment would make the $1,250,000 emergency relief item immediately available so the Commissioners may spend it at need.

The subcommittee decided to hold no further meetings until Friday, when they will reach a final decision on provisions of the bill.

MRS. JUDD INSANE, DOCTORS TESTIFY

Hanging Postponed Week to Permit Completion of Lunacy Trial.

Florence, Ariz., April 18 (A.P.).—Defense testimony that Winnie Ruth Judd is insane and is not "shamming" her violent outbursts was presented today in her lunacy trial, while the date of her hanging was postponed another week to April 28.

The 28-year-old slayer of Agnes Anne Leroi and Hevig Samuelson, in the "trunk murder" case, showed no interest in the news the State Pardon Board had granted her another reprieve.

She sat stolically in the courtroom, chin cupped in hand, as a State prison matron told her about it.

Her counsel had asked for a stay of execution until May 18 to allow ample time for completion of the sanity hearing and for possible habeas corpus proceedings before the United States Supreme Court. The week's stay was granted by the pardon board this morning and Gov. Mouer signed the proclamation a few hours later.

Mrs. Judd has shown symptoms which complete "a perfect picture of dementia praecox," a form of mental derangement, Dr. Harry E. Pinkert, Coolidge, Ariz., testified.

Both he and Dr. George F. Huffman, Florence, who were summoned by Mrs. Judd's lawyers, expressed belief the condemned woman is not "shamming."

The State alienists are expected to testify tomorrow.

Ben B. Lindsey, former Denver Juvenile Court judge, intervened in Mrs. Judd's behalf in a communication to the pardon board urging a reprieve until May 18. He telegraphed the board:

"In interest of justice and humanity I urge you to grant Winnie Ruth Judd a reprieve until May 18 so her case may be fully and adequately presented to court and allow time for action at Washington.

Mrs. M. A. Kuechle Dies at Home Here

Former Matron of Eastern Star Survived by Two Sons and Husband.

Mrs. Mayme A. Kuechle, well known in Washington lodge circles, died yesterday at her home, 2620 L street northwest, after a short illness. Mrs. Kuechle, who was born in Baltimore, was 51 years old. She has made her home in Washington for the past 30 years.

For many years she has been active in various social organizations here, having served as Matron of the Eastern Star, past high priestess of the Oriental Shrine and past president of the Ladies' Council of Universal Craftsmen and Engineers.

Mrs. Kuechle is survived by her husband, Charles F. Kuechle, engineer at the Y. W. C. A., and two sons, William C. and Fred E. Kuechle, all of Washington. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. from Hines funeral home, 2001 Fourteenth street. Interment will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Bullet-Proof Vest Fails; Victim Dying

Film Stunt Man, Struck in Abdomen, Has Slight Chance to Live.

Los Angeles, April 18 (A.P.).—Little hope was held today for the recovery of Hurd McClellan, motion picture stunt man, whose supposedly "bullet proof" vest was pierced yesterday by a pistol fired by Miss Marian Semmelmeyer for a news reel filmed at Universal Studio.

The last of 40 bullets fired by Miss Semmelmeyer tore through a weak spot in the vest and McClellan fell with a wound in his abdomen.

Capt. H. A. Harding, well-known pistol shot, who was a technical adviser, said the vest had been weakened in spots by continuous firing on it.

Driver of Death Auto Faces Prison Sentence

Tampa, Fla., April 18 (A.P.).—V. H. Purvis, Mulberry phosphate worker, was in jail here today awaiting sentence by Criminal Court Judge W. H. Petteway, following conviction on a charge of manslaughter as a result of the death several months ago of Daniel Price Ward, 33, of Floyd, Va.

The judge yesterday denied the defendant a new trial. Ward was struck by an automobile here and died a few hours later. Purvis admitted striking the man, police testified.

WAGE PROTECTION SOUGHT FOR LABOR

A. F. of L. Official Advocates Minimum Scale of Pay With 30-Hour Week.

Advocating adherence to the plan of President Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Perkins for the creation of a minimum wage scale in connection with the 30-hour week, Edward F. McGrady, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday opened the annual meeting of the Washington Council of Social Agencies.

"If the plan is not adopted, and wages are reduced in proportion to the 30-hour week, woe and misery will follow," he declared.

"Labor would be much more concerned over conditions if we did not know that we have in the White House an able, intelligent and courageous man, willing to meet any issue that may arise. Not only is Franklin Delano Roosevelt the leader in America, but the leaders of the world are looking to him for leadership in bringing the entire world out of the present economic crisis," he said.

Reports were made by Charles W. Pimper, treasurer; Mrs. W. A. Roberts, executive secretary; Miss Fay Bently, chairman of the child welfare committee, and Mrs. Wilson Compton, of the recreation committee. Lewis Meriam, chairman of the research committee; John Ihlder, chairman of the social service exchange committee, and the Rev. Laurence J. Shehan, of the family welfare committee, were also heard.

The nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. Wilson Compton, chairman; Dr. Loren T. Johnson and Mrs. Whitman Cross, submitted the list of names of election of members-at-large for one year. This list included Miss Grace Abbott, Mrs. Whitman Cross, Dr. W. L. Darby, the Rev F. J. Haas, Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, Mrs. Archibald Hopkins, John Ihlder, Robert T. Lansdale, Miss Louise McGuire, Lewis Meriam, Dr. Frederic W. Perkins, L. Corrin Strong, Mrs. Walter S. Ufford and Dr. D. W Willard. They were unanimously elected.

A list of persons for the board of directors was also submitted and unanimously elected. These were Dr. Frederic W. Perkins, Dr. Charles P. Neill, Dr. John O'Grady, Wallace Hatch, Sanford Bates, Mrs. Frederic H. Brooke, and Allen Pope.

Snow Hinders Search For Missing Aviators

Winslow, Ariz., April 18 (A.P.).—Bad weather forced airplanes searching for Carmel Giragi, publisher of the Winslow Mail, and Jack Irish, pilot, to return to their home fields today while the hunt continued on foot and horseback by large groups of volunteers and officers from three widely scattered points.

Giragi and Irish left Winslow in a plane yesterday morning for Phoenix, but failed to arrive. Snow was reported from Prescott and Flagstaff, hindering the progress of the searching parties.

Bowley Proposes New Taxicab Fare

He Would Abolish Zone System and Sell Four Tickets for 30 Cents.

As a means of bringing about a settlement of the taxicab situation in the District, George E. Bowley, former secretary of the Cab Drivers Union, last night outlined a plan for the abolishment of the zone system, with the substitution of a flat 10-cent rate per person, and the issuance of four 10-cent tickets for 30 cents.

He explained that the rate would be applicable throughout the District, but said the plan could not be considered a bus service, as under his plan a cab would not pick up fares along the way while making a drive, unless the person who hired the cab suggested it, as is the practice now.

Bowley also suggested that the tickets could be made interchangeable among the various cab companies, as tokens are now interchanged between the traction companies, and he pointed out that the plan would have the added advantage of not requiring transfers.

Forum Group Asks $50,000 for Center

Columbia Heights Citizens Seek Inclusion in School Budget.

A resolution asking that not less than $50,000 be included in the 1934 public school budget for the continuation of Community Center activities was adopted last night by the Columbia Heights Citizens Forum.

On the ground that it was a political issue, the forum voted down a motion to oppose recognition of the Russian Soviet government by the United States. A motion opposing all-night parking was adopted.

The group asked the cooperation of police in the removal of traffic signs and lamp posts along Monroe street, between Fourteenth and Sixteenth streets. It was pointed out that these signs abut the sidewalk because of the narrowness of the street. The forum voted their approval of April 30 as President's Day.

MOTHER OF FACTOR PICKS OUT SUSPECT

Mrs. Marcus Says She Saw Prisoner Driving Past Before Kidnaping.

Chicago, April 18 (A.P.).—One of two suspects seized today for questioning in connection with the kidnaping last Wednesday of Jerome Factor was identified by Mrs. Leonard Marcus, the youth's mother, as the man she saw driving in the vicinity of her home several days before the abduction.

The man was Archie Brown, 35, who with a companion, Ted Patterson, 40, was arrested in a West Side apartment. Both men are under bonds pending trial in Springfield, Ill., on bank robbery charges. Patterson previously had been arrested and released in connection with two down-State kidnapings.

Points Out Suspect.

Mrs. Marcus viewed the pair at detective headquarters.

"That's the man," she said, pointing to Brown. "He was in an automobile cruising about near our apartment with three others on either April 8 or 9, a few days before Jerome was kidnaped from in front of the apartment."

Mrs. Marcus is a former wife of Jerome's father, John ("Jake the Barber") Factor, internationally known speculator.

A photograph of Brown and Patterson was found last night in a hotel suite occupied by Sam Hunt and Tony Accardo, one-time lieutenants of Al Capone, and four other underworld figures, all of whom Factor admitted hiring "to get my boy back."

Tried to Force Entry.

Earlier, James Cummings, doorman at an apartment building where Samuel Garfield, close friend of Factor, resides, viewed the photograph and said Brown strongly resembled a man who early last Sunday morning tried to force his way into the place, demanding to see Garfield on "a matter of life and death."

The picture of Joseph Varsalous, now in Peoria, Ill., jail facing trial for the kidnaping last fall of Adehemer Huughe, of East Moline, Ill., and Fred De Fillippi, of Spring Valley, Ill., was also discovered in the suite.

Patterson Found Ill.

Patterson, when found today, was recovering from pneumonia.

Police also took into custody Edward Strauss, brother-in-law of Brown, who said the flat where the pair was apprehended was rented in his name and that the two came to live with him three weeks ago.

Gathered in detective headquarters shortly before Mrs. Marcus viewed Brown's picture were principals in the search for Jerome's kidnapers whose activities had thus far followed separate courses.

Police questioned the father, who has expressed a desire to play a solitary hand, and the six erstwhile Capone aids, who Factor said he had furnished with the hotel suite to negotiate for his boy's return.

Sextet Released.

Factor pleaded with Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker that the sextet be released, so they could continue negotiations with Jerome's abductors. Schoemaker booked the men on disorderly conduct charges, and they were released on bond furnished by a professional bonding company. Detectives said the men would be "able to work better on the outside." Whether Factor joined them after their release was not determined, but he could not be reached either at detective headquarters or his hotel shortly after the six were freed.

Before his conference with police Factor declared new negotiations were under way with the kidnapers which he was hopeful would result in "my boy's return."

A third letter purporting to have come from the kidnapers was received by George Cohan, brother-in-law of Factor—a letter reportedly containing definite instructions for payment of the $50,000 ransom demanded. Factor disclaimed knowledge of the letter.

(Associated Press.)

Maj. Daniel B. Brinsmade, medical advisor of the forest conservation camp near Luray, Va., was rushed yesterday to Walter Reed Hospital here and was reported last night to be resting "out of immediate danger."

Medical officers at the hospital declined to say what Maj. Brinsmade was suffering from until "a complete diagnosis has been made." The X-ray officer attending him would say only that "his condition is not now critical." He said a complete report would not be available before morning.

Dam and Nitrate Limits Put in Bill

Muscle Shoals Measure Is Being Rewritten by House Members.

(Associated Press.)

Important limitations yesterday were written into President Roosevelt's program for developing the Tennessee Valley as the House Military Committee slowly plodded through a new plan for disposing of its old trouble-maker—Muscle Shoals.

First, the committee approved a restriction on the construction of dams in the Tennessee Basin. Later, it determined that a fixed minimum of fertilizer must be produced by the nitrate plants on the Government's Shoals property.

"There is every indication that the committee will report tomorrow," Chairman McSwain said, after an all-day session in which the bill was considered section by section.

McSwain said, also, that all amendments made so far were only tentative and subject to revision later.

Private W. E. Atkinson Restored to Police Duty

Private William E. Atkinson, 35, who early last fall ran amuck and terrorized pedestrians and bus passengers at Nineteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, was restored to duty Monday by Maj. Ernest W. Brown and assigned to the police property yards.

Atkinson was freed of assault charges when brought to trial. Subsequently when brought before the Police Trial Board, no disciplinary decision was reached, and his case was finally referred to the retirement board. When the board decided against his retirement, it became incumbent upon the superintendent to assign him to some form of duty.

EXHIBIT INDIAN CRAFTS

An exhibit of Navajo and Pueblo Indian craftsmen at work is under way on the fourth floor of Woodward & Lothrop's. The work will continue through Saturday. The exhibit is sponsored by Wick Miller, Indian trader, of San Ysidro, N. Mex. Blankets are woven by this Indian woman and her two daughters. Pesh-Depah (Hopeful Woman) is seated. Standing—Alkin-Sos-Pah (Victorious Girl), left, and Hlueel-Pah (Light-Hearted Girl). Miller, who lectures on the work, is in the rear.

NAVAL COURT TOLD AKRON WELL BUILT

(Associated Press.)

The naval court of inquiry investigating the crash of the airship Akron yesterday heard expert witnesses praise the workmanship that went into the construction of the craft and describe intricate theories of storm conditions that confronted it.

Even as the court worked, the Senate approved a House resolution for a joint congressional investigation of the Akron disaster. Under it five men each from the Senate and the House would inquire into not only the Akron crash, but other aircraft catastrophes as well. They would pass, also, on the value of lighter-than-air craft for military purposes.

The measure was sent back to the House for approval of minor changes.

Admiral Butler Presides.

Meeting here under the presidency of Rear Admiral Henry V. Butler, the naval court of inquiry called Commander R. D. Weyerbacher, designer of the airship Shenandoah which met a fate similar to that of the Akron over Ohio in 1925. In response to questions by Lieut. Comdr. Ralph G. Pennoyer, judge advocate of the court, Weyerbacher said he considered the quality and workmanship in the Akron to be better than that in the Shenandoah.

Weyerbacher described how two years ago upon the orders of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Ernest L. Jahncke, he made a secret and "thorough examination of the ship from bow to stern." The examination followed receipt by the Navy of written charges that there was "faulty workmanship" in the airship.

Storm Expert Quizzed.

"I found no faulty workmanship which had passed Naval inspection," Weyerbacher said. "There were a few cases of faulty workmanship, but these had not been passed by Government inspectors."

Dr. W. J. Humphreys, Weather Bureau physicist, told the court it was "impractical" to attempt to fly over a vigorous thunderstorm, the height of which ranged from 10,000 feet to 20,000 feet.

"Suppose it was struck by lightning," Pennoyer asked, referring to the ship. "I would not expect it to have any effect," Humphreys replied, "nor would anyone know it had happened."

He explained that the ship was a conductor of electricity because of its metallic construction and the water accumulated on it from the rain.

South Carolina Senate Urges Loyal Democrats

Columbia, S. C., April 18 (A.P.).—President Roosevelt was asked to "immediately remove" all Republican office-holders in South Carolina and replace them with "loyal Democrats" in a resolution the State Senate adopted today.

MASS OF WRECKAGE OF AKRON IS FOUND

Mass of Wreckage Visible.

A diver said he could see a mass of wreckage.

The position of discovery was given at latitude 39:26:30; longitude 73:45:50. The spot at which the disaster occurred was latitude 39:49; longitude 73:50.

A comparison of the figures indicates the wreckage had drifted slightly east and considerably south of the spot off Barnegat Light, N. J., where the Akron, with 76 men aboard, plunged into the sea during a storm two weeks ago tonight.

Ever since then the fleet of Coast Guard and naval vessels has been searching by day and even by night for the wreckage and the missing bodies.

There were four survivors, one of whom died. Five bodies have been taken from the sea, including that of Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of aeronautics for the Navy.

In addition occasional bits of debris have been found.

LEVEE DYNAMITED IN SOUTHERN FEUD

Armed Band Overpowers Guards and Sets Off Seven Blasts.

Sumner, Miss., April 18 (A.P.).—Between 200 and 300 armed men overpowered levee guards at Chute bridge, near Swan Lake, this afternoon and blew out the levee.

The break will flood thousands of acres and is almost certain to create dangerous situations in the already flooded towns of Swan Lake, Glendora and Black Bayou.

A tremendous amount of dynamite was exploded. Seven blasts were heard here, five miles away from the scene.

Only meager reports filtered back from Chute bridge, but it was understood that the men overpowered the guards despite the fact that the guards were armed with machine guns.

Chute Bridge, an old railroad trestle that was dammed up to hold back the Tallahatchie River, has been a strategic point in the flood fight in the delta area of Mississippi. The levee at that point protects thousands of low-lying acres and many little towns.

On April 8 a party of 54 armed men blew out the levee near Tippo, Miss., after overpowering levee guards, and at that time threatened to dynamite the Chute Bridge levee. When the levee near Tippo was destroyed the men told the guards, "We want relief."

In areas where the backwater has driven families from their homes the American Red Cross and other agencies have taken care of refugees. Planters whose lands have not been covered have fed and housed their own tenants in addition to numerous refugees.

Greenville, Miss., April 18 (A.P.).—Levee feuds like the one that flared today in the delta with the dynamiting of a dike near Swan Lake are as old here as they are exciting.

They are wars of preservation, the idea being to destroy a section of a levee at a strategic point to relieve pressure across the river or up the river.

Col. J. H. Willard Dead at Newport

Father of Mrs. Goelet Was Native of Chicago and in Ninetieth Year.

Newport, R. I., April 18 (A.P.).—Col. Joseph H. Willard, 89, Engineer Corps, United States Army, retired, died at his home in Newport today. He was born in Chicago in 1844; was graduated from West Point in 1868, and in his capacity of engineer, played an important part in the upbuilding of the West.

He retired in 1908, but returned to active service during the World War and was stationed at Newport.

He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Robert Goelet, of Newport and New York; Mrs. Richard S. Hooker, widow of Col. Richard Hooker, commandant of Marines at Shanghai, who fell dead there last Christmas Eve, and Miss Natalga Willard, and his sister, Miss Mary Adams Willard.

Ship Blaze Controlled As Vessel Makes Port

Gibraltar, April 18 (A.P.).—Fire which menaced the British steamer Benholm, causing her to race for port, was brought under control tonight.

The Benholm reached Malaga safely and was anchored there tonight. The extent of the damage was not mentioned. The steamer was bound from Suva, Fiji Islands, to London with a load of copra, which caught fire. The British cruiser Leander, which went to the Benholm's assistance, was on her way back to Gibraltar.

SENATE INSURGENTS BLOCK "GAG" PLANS

Force Democratic Leaders to Abandon Rule for Absolute Power.

(United Press.)

A rampant insurgent bloc last night forced House Democratic chieftains to abandon their bold attempt to amend the chamber's rules to give virtually absolute power to the leadership.

The sudden decision was announced by Majority Leader Joseph Byrns, who said the proposed changes in the rules "would not be pressed at the present time."

The parliamentary veteran described the action as a sort of strategic retreat made in the interests of complete party harmony. From other sources it was learned that the titular leadership feared the devastating effects of a real revolt on the remainder of President Roosevelt's legislative program.

It was believed a wide-open split, already threatened over the question of "liberal" versus "gag" rules, might seriously imperil chances of such vital legislation as farm relief, unemployment aid and banking reform.

"We have the votes to change the rules—make no mistake about that," Byrns told the United Press in revealing the sudden shift of plans. "We could change the rules any time we want to. But there is no use creating hard feeling or putting any one on the spot."

The leadership's startling reversal of policy followed a wild Democratic rump caucus in which speaker after speaker denounced the changes.

They predicted the return of "czarism" and decried "rubber stamping" of bills. Currency inflationists led the attack, holding their cause would be endangered if the rules were tightened to give greater control to the leadership.

Senate Approves Probe Of Harriman-U.S. Sloth

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday directed its Judiciary Committee to investigate the delay by the Department of Justice in prosecuting officials of the Harriman National Bank for alleged violation of the banking laws. It adopted without a word of debate a resolution by Senator Costigan (Democrat), Colorado, calling for the investigation.

Joseph W. Harriman, former chairman of the bank's board, recently was indicted on charges of falsifying accounts of the institution.

Army Slash Plan Before President

(Associated Press.)

The War Department's plan for making the $144,000,000 cut in next year's operating expenses demanded by President Roosevelt late yesterday was placed directly before the Chief Executive. Secretary Dern, who presented it, was accompanied to the White House by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the chief of staff, and Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of Army engineers.

Apparently determined to block any backfire against his economy program, the President offered no comment, and the department officers were very silent.

The program now provides for reduction of the enlisted personnel by 12,000 or 15,000 men and the retirement of 2,000 or 3,000 officers. A cut of $90,000,000 in military activities and $54,000,000 in nonmilitary work has been decreed.

Independent Offices Budget Again Held Up

The Budget Bureau yesterday further delayed forwarding to the House its revised estimates on the independent offices bill. The sharply curtailed measure, it was said, has been sent to the White House and will be delivered to Congress this morning.

The measure carries total appropriations in the neighborhood of $565,000,000, it was reported, a little less than half of its former size. The only reference it makes to the President's reorganization plans was said to involve the new farm credit set-up, recently outlined at the White House.

Trio of Suspects Freed In Church Repair Case

Philadelphia, April 18 (A.P.).—Three New Jersey men, accused of malicious mischief in connection with lightning rod repair work on a church here, were discharged today by Magistrate Thomas A. O'Hara. They are Nelson F. Lyon, West Orange; Henry Lyon, East Orange, and Leroy Stager, Caldwell.

Charges which had been preferred by the Rev. Patrick McCabe, who was rector of the church, were withdrawn after counsel for the priest announced that an "adjustment had been made" to put the roof of St. Stephen's R. C. Church in first class condition.

WESTOVER CHOSEN AIR GAME DIRECTOR

California Maneuvers Will Be Held Under Tactical War Conditions.

The appointment of Brig. Gen. Oscar Westover, Assistant Chief of Air Corps, as commander of the large Army air force which will concentrate in California at an unannounced date in the future to conduct extensive maneuvers there, was announced yesterday at the War Department by Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of Air Corps.

Detailed plans for the first phase of the exercise, the movement to March Field, Calif., by the Air Corps tactical units have already been prepared by the Air Corps in accordance with the general instructions of the Army's chief of staff, Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The exact date of the start of the maneuvers is being kept secret so that the entire movement will be made under conditions approximating those encountered in an emergency.

Once the forces are concentrated at March Field the next phase of the exercises, consisting of a number of missions, will be carried out under the direction of Gen. Westover and his staff.

These will consist of reconnaissance problems conducted over land and sea, coordinated simulated air force problems calculated to test the training efficiency of Air Corp tactical units both in the air and on the ground, as well as other problems.

Due to the fact that the maneuvers will be conducted in California, Gen. Westover plans to give considerable attention to problems of coast or frontier patrol and defense.

Gen. Westover's air staff for the maneuvers will consist of Col. H. H. Arnold, chief of staff; Maj. Arnold W. Krogstad, in charge of personnel; Maj. Clarence Tinker, in charge of intelligence; Maj. Ralph Royce, in charge of operations and training, and Maj. J. H. Rudolph in charge of supplies.

Factor Extradition Case Argued Here

(Associated Press.)

John (Jake the Barber) Factor, now under bond in Chicago where he is looking for his kidnaped son, fought in the Supreme Court yesterday to prevent his extradition to England where he is charged with swindling investors out of $6,000,000.

Newton D. Baker, his counsel, told the court the only question for it to decide was whether the laws of Illinois made a crime of the offense with which Factor is charged, receiving money knowing it had been fraudulently obtained.

Franklin B. Overmyer, counsel for the marshal and for the British counsel general at Chicago, contended it was not necessary to show the offense charged against Factor was a crime under the laws of Illinois.

Overcoats Taken From Moth Balls

Snow and Rain Hold Up Early Spring in Region About Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, April 18 (A.P.).—Snow flurries and chilling rains in the mountainous districts of southern California brought overcoats back into use in Los Angeles today.

Light snow fell from 1 to 2½ inches deep along the Ridge route and as far east as Boquet Canyon, but no snow was reported in the high Sierras. Stage drivers arriving in El Centro from San Diego said they had traveled through 50 miles of snow in the mountains lying west of Imperial Valley.

The high point in Los Angeles' temperature today was 59 degrees, but a cold, steady breeze prevailed. Fair and warmer weather was forecast for tonight.

Summerall Vetoes Cadets' Convictions

Court-Martial Action at Citadel Is Reversed by School Head.

Charleston, S. C., April 18 (A.P.).—Gen. Charles P. Summerall, president of the Citiadel, the State's military college, today "disapproved" the recent conviction of two cadets court-martialed for classroom infractions, thereby placing the cadets in the same status as if no court-martial had occurred.

Gen. Summerall's action terminated the case without approval of the board of visitors being necessary. The cadets were Gene Parler, of Barnwell, and Jeff Clark, of Charleston.

The board of visitors yesterday held Gen. Summerall blameless of charges of "railroading" the cadets, as was charged in the State Senate last week by Senator Edgar A. Brown, of Barnwell.

Beer Drinking Called Issue In Babylon by Dr. Cooper

Distilled Liquor Unknown to Romans, But Irish and Scotch Liked It in Middle Ages, Conference at Catholic University Is Told.

Beer created as much consternation among the ancient Babylonians as in our present day of 3.2, the Rev. Dr. John M. Cooper, of Catholic University, revealed in a study of alcoholic beverages at the eighth annual meeting of the Catholic anthropological conference at Catholic University yesterday.

Dr. Cooper said that although the origin of the invention of beer is unknown, the beverage appears in the earliest Babylonian records, also in Egypt and Palestine. Beer drinking was looked down on at that time, he said, and the taverns were associated with immorality.

The earliest type of American beer was made of maize and introduced by Indians. Prior to the coming of agriculture, there was no drinking in the world, the anthropologist showed. Wines originated in Mediterranean countries. Origin of distilled liquors is not known, he said, but it is possible that they originated in the Far East. Distilled liquor was unknown to the ancient Romans, but records of this strong drink can be traced to the Middle Ages in Ireland and Scotland, Dr. Cooper said.

"The Child Among the Mescalero Apache" was discussed at the conference by Miss Regina Flannery, assistant to Dr. Cooper and the only woman lay member of the university faculty. The Very Rev. Max Maarpainter, P. S. M., superior of the Pallattine House of Studies, spoke on "The Child Among the Yaunde of Kamerun." "The Position of Women Among the Arapaho" was discussed by Dr. Truman Michelson, of the Smithsonian Institution.

Mgr. James H. Ryan, rector of Catholic University, was reelected honorary president of the Anthropological Society. The Rev. Dr. James B. Tenneliey, of Sulpician Seminary, was elected president; the Rev. Leopold Tibesar, of Maryknoll, N. Y., vice president. Dr. Cooper was reelected secretary-treasurer.

The following were elected as new members of the advisory board: The Rev. Francis Lambrecht, C. I. C., Belgian minister, now in the Philippines; the Rev. Dr. Michael Mathis, C. S. C., retiring president, and the Rev. Dr. John J. Wolfe.

Flier Skims Housetops To Land in Brush Field

Louisville, Ky., April 18 (A.P.).—Lieut. Jack Catchings, 25, of the 457th Pursuit Squadron, United States Air Corps, and a passenger, Sergt. C. E. Wynn, 27, narrowly averted a crash here today and made an emergency landing on a small bush-covered field near a junior high school building, after skimming housetops.

The field was so small that it was necessary to dismantle the plane and remove it to Bowman Field for a take-off. The fliers were members of a five-plane flight from Atlanta to Louisville. Catchings said his gasoline supply was exhausted, causing the forced landing which drew dozens of police and residents to the scene after a report a plane had crashed.

Grand Jury Will Probe Politician's Income Tax

Chicago, April 18 (A.P.).—Government agents and bankers went before the grand jury today to open another major income tax battle for the Federal Treasury—the prosecution of Moe Rosenberg, former convict and Democratic "boss" of West Side, Chicago.

Rosenberg had built himself a big business in junk dealing before the death of his brother in 1928 opened an avenue to political power for himself. It is upon this business alone that the Government will base its charge of tax evasion, said Federal prosecutors today as they presented the first witnesses.

PREMIERS ARE BUSY WITH SHIP PARLEYS

Herriot and MacDonald, on Different Liners, Talk With Advisers.

S. S. Ile de France at Sea, April 18 (A.P.).—Former Premier Edouard Herriot called in his experts this afternoon and got down to business in preparation for the conversations he soon will hold with President Roosevelt in Washington.

"I have lots of work to do," M. Herriot said.

He spent the morning taking a much-needed rest. The past year has been a hard one for the veteran statesman, and even his robust strength was beginning to feel the strain.

Strolling among groups of persons engaged in deck games, M. Herriot encountered Walter E. Edge, retiring American Ambassador to France, and the two chatted.

S. S. Berengaria at Sea, April 18 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain consulted for two hours today with his advisers about the topics to be considered in forthcoming economic discussions in Washington.

The complete agenda for the conferences between Mr. MacDonald and President Roosevelt is not likely to be ready until the premier reaches Washington late this week.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador to the United States, is in constant communication with Mr. MacDonald, but nothing of definite nature has yet been decided upon.

Mr. MacDonald has prepared a provisional list of subjects to be discussed, but is waiting to learn what President Roosevelt's ideas on the subject are.

Meanwhile, the Britons awaited the result of the trial in Moscow of six British engineers. It was planned that the British cabinet would communicate with the prime minister regarding developments in the case.

$75,000 Sawmill Burns.

Hertford, N. C., April 18 (A.P.).—Fire destroyed the Major-Loomis sawmill here early today, throwing 150 men out of work and doing damage estimated by mill officials at $75,000 to $100,000.

THREAT OF INFLATION.

Hope that Congress might successfully resist schemes to debase American money has been virtually abandoned. The sentiments expressed in the Senate prior to its vote on the Wheeler 16 to 1 silver nostrum, and the movement of the House toward inflation, indicate that some sort of measure to degrade the dollar will be passed within the next few weeks—unless it is stopped by President Roosevelt.

Amazing as it seems, Senator Wheeler's proposal to remonetize silver at a ratio of 16 ounces of silver to 1 ounce of gold failed by only 10 votes. A change of six votes would have written the silver scheme into the farm relief act. A number of prominent inflationists voted against the proposition only because President Roosevelt indicated through Senator Robinson that he did not wish to have the farm bill cluttered up with monetary legislation. Senator Borah announced that he would support any measure embracing the principle of inflation. Yet he voted against the bill. Senator Connally, sponsor of the movement to reduce the gold content in the dollar, and Senator Sheppard, a silver advocate, also voted against the 16 to 1 proposal. These votes and several others will doubtless be changed in favor of inflation when the Senate considers that issue alone.

In the House inflation has not come to a direct vote, but Speaker Rainey is boldly proclaiming that inflation of some type will be approved. Since the House is only a rubber stamp for its leaders' views, it may be assumed that it will fall into line with the move to debase the dollar.

The absurdity of adulterating the currency when the Treasury and the Federal Reserve banks have an abundance of gold and the volume of paper money is more than sufficient to meet every demand, is recognized by every economist. Great Britain and Japan went off the gold standard because they were forced off. The United States can not be forced to a debasement of its money. If the value of the dollar is destroyed, it will be because Congress is too spineless to resist a misguided demand for cheap money in the farm belt.

The painful history of the United States after the Civil War, and of Germany after the World War, should be enough to make Congress take a sober view of this stampede toward cheap money. But apparently reason has been suspended. Congressmen listen to ignorant assertions that a lack of money is responsible for falling prices (in spite of the fact that there is no shortage of either currency or gold) and decide to strike out blindly against the monetary system. Common sense plus a superficial study of the subject should convince them that it is purchasing power and not the medium of exchange that has failed, and that purchasing power can not be restored by destroying the value of money and thus demoralizing business and industry to a still greater extent. But political pressure from deluded groups back home is the dominating force in Congress.

If there has ever been an hour in American history when the country needed wise counsel and leadership in financial policies it is the present. If Congress descends into the bog of adulterated money it may be ten or twenty years before the country can regain its equilibrium and go forward on a sound economic basis. All history cries out against the crime of debasing monetary values to cure a weakness of commodity prices resulting from overproduction. Yet leadership in the Senate is pitifully weak. The Democratic party was saved from the Wheeler nostrum only by the united votes of every conservative Republican who was on the floor. And yet the Democratic party is pledged to sound money.

President Roosevelt is the only man who can save the situation. His influence would be sufficient to maintain sound money even though many of his supporters in Congress have thrown the sound-money plank of the Democratic platform into the scrap-heap. At this moment Congress is running away from the influence of the White House. Members are rushing toward debasement of the dollar regardless of what Mr. Roosevelt thinks. But the stampede could be stopped by one decisive sentence from the President. Realization that the President would veto any unsound money nostrum that Congress might pass would put an end to this disastrous movement on Capitol Hill. The issue is in the President's hands. President Roosevelt himself must decide whether he will save the country from a ruinous orgy of adulterated money.

LABOR AND BUREAUCRACY.

The attitude of organized labor toward bureaucratic control over private enterprise is astonishing. The American Federation has been led by the present deplorable conditions among thousands of unemployed workingmen to support socialistic measures that would bring labor itself under bureaucratic domination. Mr. Green, president of the Federation, is quoted as having favored further invasion of the Government into many lines of private enterprise to meet the existing situation.

Organized labor's concern over the present situation is not difficult to understand. But it is hard to realize that the keenly intelligent labor organizations of America, which elevated workingmen to the highest standard of living ever known, are now pleading for legislation to fix the hours of labor and minimum wages. Every one joins with labor in advocating shorter hours while the emergency lasts. But the most accurate information available indicates that the average number of hours worked per week is now only 32.6. If this estimate is true, the Black 30-hour week bill would probably put only about 1,000,000 men to work. Is labor willing to place itself in the power of a Federal bureaucracy for such a measure?

Furthermore, it is well known that many corporations are carrying more men on their payrolls than are actually needed to do the work now available. In such cases a 30-hour week act would enable them to reduce their total payrolls, by maintaining the same hourly wages, requiring employes to work harder and hiring no additional help.

It seems incredible that labor is willing to surrender its independence for the theoretical advantages of hours and minimum wages regulated by law. The tendency of such legislation is always to reduce the most efficient to the level of the incompetent. Furthermore, what is a reasonable wage in one section of the country is unreasonable in another. Injustice and dissatisfaction inevitably result from an attempt to prescribe by law working conditions for all industries and all sections.

Has organized labor lost its vigor that it must plead with Congress to fix wages? What becomes of collective bargaining if workingmen surrender to a governmental agency their right to contract with employers? In view of its past success and its present efficient organization it is surprising that labor is asking the Government to curtail the rights which have been acquired with such long and arduous effort.

THE "EMERGENCY BUDGET."

In announcing its plans for reduction of expenditures by the War Department the Bureau of the Budget intimates that part of the savings to be effected by the curtailment of river and harbor works may be nullified by the inclusion of some of these projects in the "emergency budget," to be created for items that are designed to relieve unemployment and otherwise to alleviate economic conditions. This budget will be balanced by an increase of the public debt.

It is obvious that the Budget Bureau is straining every nerve in an effort to make a record for economy, for which it deserves high commendation. But the value of lifting items for which Congress has already appropriated money out of the War Department budget and classifying them as special public works is difficult to understand. No money can be saved by transferring expenditures from one agency to another. So long as all Government expenditures must come ultimately from the pockets of taxpayers, what possible advantage could be gained by putting public works in a class by themselves?

The budgetary system was adopted to give Congress and the public a comprehensive view of the Government's expenditures. When items were treated separately Congress had a tendency to pile one expenditure upon another without regard for expected revenue or for the total of all expenditures. The result was chaos. It was difficult for the public to realize the cause of increased taxation, because no relationship between the different items of expenditures was systematically maintained. Coordination of expenditures into a single budget has been a great help to Congress and to the public.

It seems incredible that the Budget Bureau itself should try to abolish this wise practice. If some items of expense recommended to Congress are to be eliminated from the budget, then there must be two budgets, or else the unclassified expenditures will just run wild and the public will be left in the dark as to the status of the Government's finances and credit.

Is it possible that the Budget Bureau is not familiar with President Roosevelt's views on this subject? During the campaign Mr. Roosevelt gave a pledge to the people that there would be no concealed deficits in his administration. Above all else, he said, the people are "entitled to complete frankness." He promised to give the people the "true facts" as to the Government's financial situation at all times and to bring about "a complete and honest balance of the Federal budget." It would be well for officials of the Budget Bureau, who seem to be contemplating an "emergency budget" for all expenditures above the Government's income, to read the address delivered by President Roosevelt at Pittsburgh last October. If they follow the spirit of this address, they will not be led into any attempt to conceal the increase of the national debt.

ANTI-SOVIET PROTESTS.

If there was any doubt in the administration as to the attitude of the American people on the question of recognizing Soviet Russia, it must have been cleared up by the mass meeting in Constitution Hall last night. Representatives of more than 150 patriotic, labor, fraternal, religious, veteran and business organizations registered their emphatic approval of the present policy of nonrecognition. The meeting was a powerful demonstration of American opposition to Communism.

Speaking for organized labor, President William Green had this to say:

> Labor holds that the preservation of the principles of self-government, the right to live unmolested, without the threat and menace of world revolutions, is of greater value than the creation of material wealth or the enjoyment of profits gained through the sale of goods to a foreign nation.

At the same time Mr. Green recognizes that the plea for recognition of the Soviet as a stimulus to trade is a snare and a delusion. The Soviet bought goods in the United States without recognition so long as it could obtain credit. Now American business men have no more money to lend the reds. Consequently trade goes to Germany. The Soviet is impoverished and its people are starving. It has no money to buy foreign goods. Where purchases are made they must be paid for by the exportation of raw materials produced by slave labor. It is this aspect of the Soviet trade visions conjured up by red sympathizers that strikes fear into the hearts of American workingmen.

Another childish argument for recognition of the Soviet was smashed by Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University. It is said that the United States ought not to withhold recognition merely because it disapproves of Communism. Dr. Walsh answered as follows:

> We have never questioned nor do we now question the right of the Russian people to set up any form of government they see fit to endure. All such accusations are either sheer ignorance or malicious attempts to deceive the simple minded. What we do question and refuse to tolerate is the insupportable arrogance of the Communist party which assumes to dictate to us the form of government we shall have in these United States.

Protests against recognition of the Moscow regime are rising in all parts of the country. The people are alarmed by the rumor that a Communist may soon be received as Soviet Ambassador at Washington.

Since no man could possibly do the job, it is fitting that Secretary Perkins should be made dictator of American industry.

Applicants outnumber jobs by 10 to 1, says Jim Farley. The ratio is rapidly rising to 16 to 1.

WAR SABOTAGE

From the New York Times.

One reason that Russian soldiers sometimes stood unarmed, as they did in the marshes of Tannenburg trying to fight off the efficient German advance with clubs instead of bullets, was the campaign of sabotage carried on here in Manhattan under the direction of Capt. Franz von Rintelen, according to his book, "The Dark Invader."

Capt. von Rintelen was a German naval intelligence officer who was sent here early in the war, while the United States was still neutral, to try to slow the swift flow of ammunition and army supplies from the United States to the allies. The seas were dominated by British, French and Russian cruisers, and it was impossible for a munition transport from America to reach a German port.

The first part of the book is a tale of good fortune, but for the author the adventures had an unhappy ending. He fomented strikes and disaffection in factories, smuggled arms to Ireland, was responsible for many fires at sea and intrigued to cause unrest in Mexico that might delay the entry of the United States in the World War.

But he was captured in England while on his way back to Germany, was sent back here and served a term in Atlanta Penitentiary. Now his book, in which he says that Von Papen, vice chancellor, was in part responsible for his capture, is banned in Germany.

For a time he ran a bogus export business here. By some judicious flattery and social pressure he obtained a huge contract from the Russian government for ammunition and war supplies. He sent out loaded ships and was paid, but the ships carried "fire fingers" in the cargo holds. Fires at sea caused the flooding of munition holds.

German and Irish dock workers carried these "fire fingers," detonators adjusted to flame at set times, into the holds of many munition ships, and there were other times, according to the German captain, when an invention designed to wreck the rudders of ships was used.

In his book he also tells how a forged telegram sent by the English, with official German forms and in German code, brought Admiral von Spee's squadron to ruin in the Falklands. British guns sprang the trap and sank the squadron off the Falkland Islands on December 8, 1914.

POST HASTE.

M. 'errio' is an eliminator at both ends when it comes to the pronunciation of his name, also.

If Japan is left-handed, color-blind and has a poor sense of direction, it still doesn't excuse her broken promises north of Mukden, west of Manchuria and south of the Great Wall.

The postal budget can use as a slogan: Save hours by air mail and lose them by reduced deliveries.

The Senate's idea of omitting imported goods from the restrictions of the 30-hour week would make it possible for foreign nations to pay their debts, even if American factories have to go out of business.

Senators Wheeler and Long rejoice that free silver was beaten by a smaller margin than last year. It wasn't beaten very badly in 1896, but it has lasted 36 years.

"League officials say French will hail American leadership." How big are the hail stones?

Agriculture, banks, real estate, railroads and industry have been chosen, but if there is anything else Cabinet members would like to run now is the time to make their pick.

The history of inflation is that it does increase prices—to the point where the money is thrown away as valueless and a new start made with something tangible.

While Congress dallies with the farm bill unfeeling farmers are planting earlier than usual an increased acreage.

It seems hard to convince some of the hijackers that beer has become the legal ward of Uncle Sam.

Americans are used to a discount for cash, but they have a premonition that the Herriot lump-sum debt offer will be half of the discount for full settlement.

It is probably just a happenstance that the new slice of China cut off by the Japanese surrounds four seaports.

It may soon be necessary to consider how many Democratic votes it will take to call Mr. Steagall out of committee and on the carpet.

The House mutiny is due to the fear of new members that if they remain rubber stamps until time to go home they will be bounced.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

TRUE ARISTOCRACY.

It was a sad day for the earth
When money stole the stamp of worth
And man began to judge a friend
Merely by what he had to spend,
And make his motor car and dress
Badges of genuine success.

True aristocracy requires
Descendants who reflect their sires
In courage and in purpose true;
Who, whether dress be old or new,
Still meet the simple moral test
Of holding fast to what is best.

A dozen poverties are worse
Than is the poverty of purse.
Poorest of all on earth is he
Who lacks the thought to kindly be
Or lacks those beauties of the mind
Which mark a mortal as refined.

Once more we turn again to see
How lasting graciousness can be;
How great is honor and how fine
A faith in joys that are divine;
That using well the gift of birth
Is the eternal proof of worth.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE virtue of temperance doesn't consist in doing without. It consists in moderation. And it isn't limited to the use of alcoholic beverages.

The temperate man is one who does all things in moderation.

He drinks, if he so desires, but he doesn't get drunk.

He enjoys food without being a swine, or limits his diet without risking his health to please his vanity.

He believes in himself and respects himself without assuming that he is made of finer clay than other men.

He respects other men without being servile.

He feels a friendly interest in others without meddling in their affairs.

He works when he must without thinking leisure an evil, or enjoys his leisure without scorning those who work.

He scorns the things that are vile and degrading without being a self-righteous prude.

He stands up for his convictions without being an opinionated ass.

He professes and practices the religion of his choice without becoming a fanatic and a nuisance to others.

He feels a decent patriotism without being blind to his country's faults or the virtues of other lands.

He expresses a natural preference for the region of his birth without asserting that the people of other sections are imbeciles or rogues.

He supports the candidate or cause of his choice without assuming that all who disagree with him lack sense and honor.

He makes all the money he can without losing his sense of values and sacrificing everything else to get money.

He is thrifty without being a miser and generous without being a waster.

He is kind and generous to his family without being a self-made martyr or an over-indulgent Santa Claus.

He praises when praise is due without descending to the level of a yes-man, and criticises without being a common scold.

He demands his due of respect without continually watching for something to be offended about.

In short, he does all things that nature and reason prompt him to do, but imposes upon himself the restraints required by good taste and the rules of civilization.

And if he doesn't do these things, he isn't a temperate man, though he finish his days without knowing the taste of alcohol.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Ike Ashburn's Party.

Houston Post.

An urgent call is being broadcast to all good Democrats by Chairman Jim Farley to consolidate the great November victory by paying off the party's deficit of $750,000 and putting it in the sound financial position it should be to carry on in support of the administration.

It is being relayed through the district and State finance chairman, who, in their turn, are extremely anxious that the faithful rally around. Quotas have been set up on a basis of 10 cents for every vote cast in favor of Roosevelt and Garner in each State. Texas' quota is $75,000.

Ike Ashburn, who is chairman for the Eighth Texas Congressional District, advises that the quotas for each county in the district are as follows: Fort Bend, $310.90; Grimes, $206.80; Harris, $4,688.60; Waller, $118, or a total of $5,324.

Ten cents is certainly a very small assessment on votes that won such a great victory. Of course, Col. Ashburn is in hopes that those who can will make their contributions a little larger to make up for the dimes that may be missing. They should be sent to him at 612 Chronicle Building.

Second Term Presidents.

Nebraska State Journal.

A second term President is a bold President. A newly inducted one is timid. He does not know the ropes. He does not want to make a mistake or lose a vote because he wants to be reelected. But a second term man is not so circumscribed and handicapped. He need not worry about making enemies or losing votes. His sole interest is in the conduct of the government in the most efficient manner possible. He strikes out boldly. The country suffers no setback when an able President is returned to office.

The World's Hope.

Detroit News.

President Roosevelt is inviting the leading statesmen of the world to come to Washington to discuss world conditions with a view to finding ways to pull out of the depression. And the invitations are being accepted with alacrity. There is not a people that can say, "We are getting along well enough by ourselves; we can get along without cooperating with other nations."

There is good reason for the eager willingness to get together and talk business. Unless something of world-wide scope is done pretty soon, there will be no business transacted internationally. During the past year world trade has slumped more than $10,000,000,000 and it was off to a bad start at the beginning of this year. For since the high point of 1929, when world trade amounted to the huge sum of $52,895,000,000, there has been a decline of more than 62 per cent.

The Treaty Power.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

It is frequently supposed that the President now possesses the powers necessary to conclude reciprocal tariff agreements with foreign countries, in pursuance of his program of economic recovery. This, unfortunately, is not the case. Any agreements he signs with foreign countries must be ratified by two-thirds of the Senate, a very difficult provision, since a handful of Senators can block a treaty.

In addition tariff treaties probably would not be self-enforcing. That is, they would require passage of a statute later to give them the force of law. Thus the President does have power to "negotiate" a tariff treaty. But to make that treaty effective he must have in addition the concurrence of two-thirds of the Senate, and then an enabling act approved by a majority of both Senate and House.

Why Shouldn't Baseball Magnates Voice Their Hunches, If They Have Any?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Every year with the return of spring I have to laugh at the way the baseball experts shy when it comes to sizing up how the different teams will stand next fall.

That is when the "ifs" and "buts," &c., are conspicuous. It is especially so when any old familiar line-ups have been much revamped between seasons. It seems to me it would save brain fag and be just as interesting if they would more frequently entertain us with a good, honest hunch.

Take the case of the Athletics. With Simmons, Dykes and Haas out of the line-up, that club is what you call an unknown quantity. Recruits Johnson, Finney, Higgins and Cihocki may be all Connie Mack says they are, but that's guessing. Well, what of it? Even if the experts just now haven't the midseason courage of their convictions, I think it would do no harm and might help their control as the weather gets warmer if they would loosen up with the hunch that the Macks will be in the forefront of battle as the season progresses. That is my hunch anyhow.

The Macks didn't look so awful bad to me when I saw them in action, and Good Old Connie, who never was much of a baseball dreamer, says they will be all right "when they get set" shortly. That's a good enough background for any fan's hunch. If mine is in the money next fall, I might happen to mention it. If it's a dud, we'll forget it. I expect it might add joy to their daily stunt if the baseball technocrats could now and then indulge in regular hunches like ordinary fans. OLD POP BOTTLE.

"Civis" Stands With Senator Borah for Recognition of Soviet Russia for Business Reasons.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The frenzied state of mind that apparently has taken possession of certain well-meaning individuals over the proposed recognition of Soviet Russia borders on the ridiculous. The great benefits that would accrue to the United States from open channels of trade with a great country like Russia has no bearing whatever on the position taken by those opposing recognition.

The talk about vicious Soviet influences is mere cant. These critics seem to be so absorbed in this one thing as to be oblivious of propaganda going on around them in other ways which is far more subtle and destructive of our free institutions than anything Russia could do, even were there any truth in the statements so glibly uttered against Russia.

A revival of American business and industrial activities is imperative. If dire consequences are to be avoided. A large increase in our foreign trade must take place to start the wheels of industry. It is business, not hypothetical questions of religion or form of government and conditions existing thereunder, that is essential at this time. The American people should not be made the victims of anti-Russia propaganda against their own best interests in international trade relations. Senator Borah is right in urging recognition of Soviet Russia by our Government.

CIVIS.

Thinks Day's Work Should Not Be Confined to Six Hours.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Congress has before it the bill regulating hours of work in industry—30 hours a week.

It may be wise to cut hours to 30 a week, but it is certainly very unwise to make it six hours a day for five days. This would defeat the best possible results of such a move—to give workingmen the benefits they should have. Let them have the 30 hours, but let them have the benefits of using the balance of the time to some good use.

If a man could work three days at ten hours he could then have the other three days for himself. He could live farther away in the suburbs or rural districts. He could have a garden and work it, or keep a few chickens, or a few acres and some cows; raise flowers or go fishing, keep his house repaired, or do many useful and helpful jobs in his three days.

In the other way his balance of time is wasted, and he only loafs for five or six hours a day, and is apt to spend money wastefully, and still has to hang around to keep his job.

Also the plan is wasteful for industry and the proper use of industrial plants. In times of better business they should have the right to get the best use of their property and run two sets of men at 30 hours to each set, and so employ twice as many men. Otherwise the country would see the wastefulness and expense of too many plants running only part of the time, when the time comes that they are needed. C. E. LLOYD.

Must Be a Reform in Savings Bank System, Says Correspondent.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It may sound startling, but I have come to the conclusion that the old-fashioned savings bank system is a failure beyond the hope of any satisfactory amendment.

The suggestion of one of your correspondents that banks dependent on small savings deposits should pay no interest thereon, and that the business of such banks should be specially restricted, is a good basis for study of the savings problem.

A high-percentage reserve fund to protect savings bank deposits would lessen the timidity of depositors and make a national guarantee of deposits unnecessary. It would cut off considerable private profit from the banking business, but would hold the people's savings safe and liquid enough to serve their proper public purpose, which is, the bankers assure us, "to keep the wheels of industry in motion."

Certainly the exploitation of this country's vast accumulation of savings, protected only by a low-percentage reserve fund, does not, from the viewpoint of the general welfare, look like a good fiscal arrangement in these days of billion-dollar ramifications of big business. THRIFT.

FEATURES FOR WOMEN

The Meanderer

Writes of Freckle Creams, Bleaching Creams, White Shoes, Wide Hats.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Annoying freckles on fair skins are registering with the premature warm weather. Take warning, all those who are victims of the annual freckle blight and begin early to prevent the annoying spots from appearing, says a beauty expert from a famous New York, London and Paris cosmetics house, who is the guest of a big F street department store. Two preparations for fighting freckles are recommended. The first is a bleaching cream. After the bleaching cream is used a foundation cream which protects the skin from the effects of sun will absolutely prevent freckles, the beautician says. Sunburn, windburn and other ill effects of skin exposure are prevented by the special foundation cream.

Shiny noses need not be the bane of many lives. A new liquid preparation, particularly good for oily skins, used before applying face powder, will positively eliminate the shine from noses, promises the cosmetician featuring the freckle cream just mentioned. This liquid preventive of shiny skin will not clog the pores as do many creams recommended for the purpose.

"Garden prints," they call them—a festive group of washable, pure silk dresses showing for the first time in a shop on F street. Bright garden flowers on light backgrounds make the patterns for these new dresses, made in fashions to take one all through the day. Plain, tailored morning garden-printed frocks, in waistcoat and cape fashions, flower trimmed afternoon frocks and even garden printed, washable evening gowns are showing. One of the garden print evening gowns in the little preview allowed the Meanderer was effectively finished with large shoulder bows of filmy yellow mousseline de soie, with the bows' edges meticulously hand finished.

Now that it is time for another hat to follow the hat bought for early spring, the Meanderer suggests your seeing some modestly priced, modish hats in a G street shop. Some of the best looking, genuine Balibuntis to be found for $5 are in this shop—in beige, grey, brown, navy and white. Their new wide brims are becoming and durable. Wide rough straws, too, that are snappy as the Balibuntis, cost as little as $1.95. The knitted "smarty" hat trimmed with jaunty tassels, is just $1.95 in this shop, and pill-box hats, also among the favored small hats—in almost any color sell there for $1.95.

White shoes for Washington—always. A shoe dealer on F street who has served Washington women for many years with his recognized quality brand of shoes, says it is not too early to consider white, for he has white shoes ready by the thousands. Among the newer leathers effective in white is a pattern known as "Spanish lace," a perforated leather in neat all-over conventional floral motif. The "Spanish lace" shoe—also in blue and beige, as well as white—is showing in oxfords, opera pumps and center strap styles. Prices in this store of well-known shoes are from $3.95 up.

Yellow frocks, even for day wear, are being welcomed with the warm days. One yellow silk crepe frock for $9.95 has tailored collar and tailored bows of white organdy. One of the smartest of the small F street shops is showing the yellow frock.

Navy, beige or gray silk suits, with the wanted full-sleeved jackets, plain matching blouses finished with white lingerie Ascot ties, and a straight, pleated skirt, are just $9.95 in the shop mentioned just above.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

VERNAL CONJUNCTIVITIS.

SOME months ago this column had an article on vernal conjunctivitis in which use was made of reports by Dr. Louis Lehrfeld, who has devoted special attention to this troublesome disorder.

The season for spring hay fever approaches. The air will shortly be laden with pollens—first, that from trees; second, that from grasses, and, finally, the pollens of weeds will overshadow all others. These pollens will cause the nose to run and the eyes to itch, water, and become red and uncomfortable. Most of these cases will not have eye symptoms that go beyond those of hay fever. Some will go on to other stages of vernal conjunctivitis.

In addition to the pollens the air is polluted by smoke dust, bacteria, and other foreign matters. Irritation of the eyes by these substances is responsible for a considerable part of the trouble. Dr. Lehrfeld suggested the proper treatments for the several varieties and stages of vernal conjunctivitis in his earlier publication, and our story quoted these methods. He now writes of a simplification of treatment that works very well in certain cases.

One of these sources of discomfort in vernal conjunctivitis is the sticky matter which forms on the eyeballs and accumulates in the corner of the eyes. It may glue the lids together in the night. This sticky matter is hard to wash out and until it is washed out it causes itching and a sandy feeling.

His method consists in washing out this matter with a solution of carbonate of soda of the proper strength, and then treating the cleansed eyes with drops of boric acid solution. Carbonate of soda is best known as washing soda, but the preparation to be used must be the purer product sold in drug stores as medicine rather than the chemical sold by grocers for washing purposes.

When the solution is put in the eyes it dissolves the sticky material enough to make it wash out easily and permit the boric acid to get at the inflamed places. The itching is quickly relieved.

The method is of service in itching of the eyes due to hay fever. The proper plan is to have a physician examine the eyes to determine whether the case is one of hay fever, vernal conjunctivitis, or something else. If it is vernal conjunctivitis, to decide what variety it is, what stage it is in, and whether the soda and boric acid solutions are proper and, if so, to set the strength to be used. The next step is to show the patients just how to use them. The actual washing of the eyes several times a day is the job of the patient.

Today's Recipe

BABY RUGGLES HAS FILM HERITAGE

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A lovely dinner dress of black, with sleeves fashioned of pleated chiffon edged in net, and oversleeves of the pleated net. The high collar and white belt are interesting.

REMEMBER the sheath line evening gowns of several years ago? Straight from the decolletage they hung, to just below the knees—and of glittering beads or of fringe or whatever were they fashioned. Well, an important couturiere has revived them—the new ones hang straight from a higher decolletage, and are much longer than those of other days, of course. But sheath lines they certainly are!

This is a style that is for the moment a bit advanced, but quite in keeping with the trend toward a straighter silhoutte. If you would buy a new evening gown wisely, you would do well to buy one on fuller and straighter lines—for it will stay in style longer than any other type.

• • • •

Speaking of embroidery—it is making its appearance in the most unexpected places. As a wide band on the hem of an evening gown—on net or tulle evening jackets—on tiny velvet boleros. And this embroidery can be enhanced with beads or paillettes, or show fascinating designs which end in fringe.

• • • •

Ardanse is always up ot something. Now she thinks that one very good way to be sure of not losing your jewels is to have them fashioned into buttons. She buttons the back or the front of the sleeves of lovely velvet evening gowns with real diamonds and pearls. In direct contrast to this idea is the statement of a famous ex-dancer who recently made a visit to America. She stated that all wealthy women were having copies of their jewels made and wearing the imitations, in order not to flaunt their wealth in the face of the poor and depressed people. There is much wisdom in this idea, but one wonders whether the reason is quite as altruistic as stated.

• • • •

What kind of lingerie do you favor? There is the all-in-one—consisting of brassiere, panties and chemise all in one garment—with the brassiere back adjustable for evening decollete. Then there are those scant, scant shorts which one can make out of half a yard of material; or the bias fitting bloomers one makes from one yard of material—and hasn't enough scraps left over to feed a canary with, should the canary be inclined to dine on georgette. And—but well, all the directions for cutting and making these are in this week's leaflet—a complete resume of Dah-ray designed underwear. You can send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Post for it if you wish it—and I think you would do well to do so, too.

• • • •

What one can't do with pleated tulle. I sketched the loveliest frock for you today, black, with the nicest high neck, and a white belt—oh, the top is white, I forgot to tell you. And then the sleeves are of pleated white chiffon edged in black net—and the oversleeves of pleated black net. Can't you just see it on a stately brunette? Meaning me—ahem. Because I am having this dress made.

Au revoir.

A SPLENDID SACRIFICE.

WHEN two players reach an almost unbiddable contract of three no trump, which can be made, it is a little discouraging to hear their opponents indulge in an equally fine sacrifice bid. This experience overtook Mr. Jacoby and Mr. Watson in the finals of the Eastern Championships in New York City when playing against Mr. Schenken and Mr. Lochridge.

North, Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	Mr. Jacoby

3◇(7)	Pass	3NT(8)	Pass
Pass	4♡(9)	Dbl.	4♠(10)
Pass	Pass	Dbl.	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—An absolute minimum, justified only by the six-card suit.
2—An immediate bid of two notrump might have worked out better, but the Approach response can not be criticized.
3—A sound Overcall, even though the suit contains no honors.
4—Not a very good free Raise, but the result proved that it was justified.
5—Trying to make the bidding difficult for North and South.
6—Certainly the stoppers in spades are all that can be desired.
7—Mr. Jacoby, at this point realized that he had overbid and tried to "sign off."
8—Refusing to accept the "sign off."
9—At this point Mr. Lochridge felt that three notrump could probably be made and consequently decided to attempt the sacrifice.
10—Returning to the suit which was already supported.

In the play Mr. Schenken lost 2 diamond and 3 spade tricks, going down 2—an excellent sacrifice, as North and South could have made their three notrump contract. This latter contract was very difficult to reach. Only fine bidding defense robbed them of an excellent result.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

What should be the proper steps by North and South in reaching the correct contract on this hand, whether or not East and West enter the bidding?

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

What Today Means

"ARIES."

IF April 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a. m. to 11:15 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 1:50 p. m., and from 7:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:50 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

A stillness will seem to permeate the atmosphere on this day and much activity of a quiet but progressive nature will result. Executives and leaders of all activities will find their subordinates unusually willing to follow them; many splendid ideas and suggestions may be passed up from the lower ranks.

The child born on this April 19 will have a good deal of physical endurance and will go in a great deal for all sorts of healthy sports. You will find this child possessed of an easy going nature. He will be lumbering rather than agile in both his thinking and movement.

If April 19 is the date of your birth, you are an active person physically as well as mentally. At the same time you know fully the great good that comes to one from repose and quiet meditation and reflection. You are not one to scratch lightly the surface of life; from every person you meet and from every situation or problem with which you find yourself confronted, you draw much of value. You do not often allow your emotions to creep to the surface, but within yourself you know many turbulent emotional moments.

If you were born on April 19, you radiate a very friendly nature and have the happy faculty of making people feel very much at ease in your presence and very much at home when they call on you. This you do not do through the means of particularly amiable and gracious conversation, for you are a most reticent person; rather it is your general air of affability and good humor which draws people to you. When it comes to making a living you have little to worry about. You will never make a great deal of money but you always will have work of some sort or other to do and you will be able to take care of your family comfortably. You will probably marry before you are thirty. Divorces are rare among those born on this date.

Wayne MacVeagh, lawyer and politician.
John Uri Lloyd, chemist.
Roger Sherman, statesman.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

IN the life of the small child routine operations often seem to occupy most of his waking hours. This is not as it should be.

Most of the child's day should be spent in play that is not interrupted or interfered with, that affords long periods of whole-hearted absorption in activity.

To this end all the morning chores, washing, dressing for the day, the brushing of teeth and attending to the toilet should take place in prompt succession, so that once they are out of the way the child has the morning completely to himself.

The afternoon nap or rest period should not be prolonged even if the child is able to rest or sleep longer than the usual period. He should be gotten up at the schedule time, helped into his play clothes and taken outdoors to play while there is still good sunshine.

The over-long afternoon rest not only deprives the child of good hours of activity but also results usually in his being unable to go to sleep promptly at bedtime.

When the child resists his routine in the bathroom and elsewhere, he is spending a good deal of time and energy over them which might far better be used in happy play.

It is important, therefore, that the child find his routine pleasant and acceptable and this depends entirely upon how skillful and conscientious his mother is during the long process of habit-training which begins at weaning.

It is not well often to take the child visiting or shopping (except for short neighborhood marketing excursions, which are often valuable and interesting). Longer trips offer the child very little, while they keep him from his rightful occupation of play.

National Park Dinner Tonight at Y. W. C. A.

The annual National Park dinner of the American Civic Association will be held at 7 o'clock tonight in Barker Hall, Y. W. C. A. Building. Guests of honor will be Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park Service.

So lovely and so beautiful, they go on sale in our Second Floor Gown Salon.

Women's and Misses' Garden Prints $19.75

Important new fashion highlights are these exceedingly stunning daytime dresses of gorgeous multicolored garden flowers on backgrounds of white crepe. Washable, and guaranteed sun and tub fast—these dresses are lovely as any we've seen—and the price is only $19.75. The style pictured is particularly becoming—youthful lines—dainty cap sleeves piped in white, organdie jabot with flower appliques—surplice tieback, and kick pleats in skirt.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

New York—Hurrying off a liner that was almost ready for its midnight sailing, I bumped into Raymond Barbas, whose practice is to become expert in a profession and then throw it overboard for some new interest.

He used to play tennis with Cochet and La Coste, but he gave that up after serving as a member of the French Davis Cup team in 1923. He is now so adept at golf that he is planning to give that up, too.

Ping Pong Chump.

He has been in New York for several weeks scouting American style fancies for his famous brother-in-law, Jean Patou. That isn't his only occupation at the moment. He still clings to his ping pong—as a transatlantic champion with nine cups to his credit.

He has a passion for traveling, and drops into New York every few months. He also has a passion for motor boat racing, hunt balls and aviation. In his idle moments he thinks up names for perfumes—says it's a difficult job because the name must not only have sex appeal, but must also suggest the mood of that particular odor.

What a Party!

Cobina Wright has achieved a reputation of her own for the unique parties she stages for the crowned heads of the Social Register. Her newest one will be a circus on Park avenue—and it will be a real one.

She has borrowed sawdust rings and wild animals from Ringling Brothers, but the performers will be society and theatrical celebrities. Beatrice Lillie and Noel Coward, in tights, will do a trapeze act, Jimmie Durante and Lupe Velez will act as animal trainers. Debutantes will perform as bareback riders. George Gershwin and Paul Whiteman will lead the bands.

Even the imaginative Elsa Maxwell never put on such an ambitious affair as this one, which is, incidentally, being staged for the Boy Scout foundation.

The elephant trainer at the circus will be Dwight Fiske, a handsome young fellow, whose lampooning of Wall street and Park avenue celebrities so delights his victims that they invite him to their homes to repeat his performances.

When not engaged in such satiric tomfoolery, he does serious composing. His symphony, "L'Amoureaux," is now being played in Paris. He's also working on a musical play with Philip Moeller, the lyrics to be written by the poet, Louis Untermyer.

Tullio Carminati, Broadway matinee idol, discovered he could sing only this season when he was offered the leading role in an operetta.

Fifth avenue merchants are protesting against so many parades along that thoroughfare, claiming it hurts business. Which may mean that all parades will begin at Fifty-ninth street, the northern boundary of the shopping district.

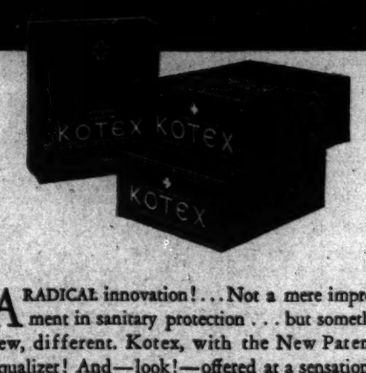
Dr. W. G. Carr Speaks Tonight.

Dr. William G. Carr, head of the research department of the National Education Association, will speak on "The Present Educational Crisis in America" tonight at 8 o'clock at American University, Nineteenth and F streets northwest.

KOTEX ANNOUNCES

Patented* Equalizer in great offer

3 BOXES for 59c



A RADICAL innovation!...Not a mere improvement in sanitary protection . . . but something new, different. Kotex, with the New Patented Equalizer! And—look!—offered at a sensationally low introductory price.

Step into any drug, dry goods, or department store. Get three boxes of Kotex with Patented Equalizer, all for 59c! Try the new idea in sanitary protection at a lower price than you pay for ordinary pads!

Insured safety

Kotex, with the New Patented Equalizer, gives 20 to 30% greater protection. The center equalizer not only thickens protection but makes it more adequate, more comfortable—because edges stay dry, removing possibilities of irritation through chafing. An intimate explanation of the new equalizer is given you on the direction sheet inside the package.

Ends must be "phantomized"

Mere rounded ends are not enough. They must be flattened, embossed. Kotex—and Kotex only—offers this special shaping, making it possible to wear the closest-fitting gown without the slightest revealing line. Absorbency, softness, disposability—those qualities for which Kotex is famous—remain unchanged. Remember, too, that it can be worn on either side with equal protection.

Now you can buy Kotex with Patented Equalizer at less than you pay for the usual sanitary pad, at any drug, dry goods or department store.

Yes, it looks simple, but this device took 2½ years to perfect. Imitations can be made, they will be made, but it cannot truthfully be said of any other pad that it is like the New Kotex with Patented Equalizer...and this is why:

1—it took two and one-half years to perfect.
2—a board of three hundred women tested it.
3—medical authority of high repute checked their findings.
4—★AND, the United States Government granted Patent No. 1,863,333 to protect it for use of Kotex, exclusively.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

MRS. FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT will be the chief speaker at the annual luncheon of the women's division of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies to be broadcast over WJSV and WRC from 2:30 to 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Mrs. Roosevelt will speak on the subject of "Government Aid—Federal, State and City."

The general topic of discussion during the meeting will be "Social Service in a Changing World." Mrs. Herbert H. Lehman, wife of the Governor of New York, will act as chairman.

The other speakers will be Mrs. August Belmont, who will discuss "Emergency Relief," and Mrs. Alexander Kohut, who will speak on "Permanent Private Relief Agencies."

OSWALD F. SCHUETTE, who was president of the National Press Club in 1913 and went to Europe a year later as a war correspondent for the Chicago Daily News, will tell the Columbia audience (WJSV) on the "Going to Press" hour at 4:45 this afternoon about the exciting events in Berlin in February, 1917, when Count Bernstorff was given his passports in Washington and Ambassador Gerard was recalled from Berlin. Instead of returning to the United States with Mr. Gerard, Mr. Schuette was ordered by the Daily News to remain in Germany "as long as the Germans would let him." As a result he was the last American correspondent to leave Germany after we entered the war, sending daily dispatches to Chicago via Amsterdam and London until July, 1917.

Schuette is the first of the past presidents to speak in the new series, arranged in connection with the club's twenty-fifth anniversary year.

In the electron, tiniest entity in the universe, the engineer has found a new and powerful tool, with which he can control vast machines from faint impulses. Modern applications of this new instrumentality will be described before the Washington, D. C., Society of Engineers at its meeting tonight, by Orestes H. Caldwell, president of the New York Electrical Society, editor of Electronics, New York, and former Federal Radio Commissioner, during an illustrated address on "The Engineer's New Tool—the Electron."

JOSEF LHEVINNE and his wife, Rosina Lhevinne, will complete the playing of the Mozart "Concerto in E Flat Major," for two pianos, in their program tonight.

This follows their performance last week of the first movement of the concerto, the original intention of playing the entire work on that broadcast having been altered because of Lhevinne's desire to bring varied types of music to the radio audience in each program.

Continuing that plan, the two artists will follow the Mozart number with the contrasting music of Rachmaninoff in their recital, which will be heard at 9:30 p. m. over WRC. They will play Rachmaninoff's "Romance," from his second suite for two pianos. Josef Lhevinne will conclude the program by playing the "Staccato Etude" by Rubinstein, his former teacher.

Don Bestor has departed from the airways for a week to answer invitations to college proms. The Bestor Orchestra will play at the Washington and Lee University dance, and later in the week at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville. They will return to New York on April 25.

"WHO writes Vic and Sade?" is the question asked by many letters written to N. B. C. concerning the popular program heard each night except Saturday and Sunday at 10:15 o'clock over the WJZ network, and heard locally through WMAL three nights weekly. The program, one of the best of its kind, is written by Paul Rhymer, 36-year-old staff continuity writer at the Chicago studios.

But let Rhymer tell you his life story in his own words, a brief biography he wrote to accompany a story he sold to College Humor in 1928:

"The place of my birth was Fulton, Ill." says Rhymer. "I tarried there a week. My family then moved to Bloomington, where I attended school for fourteen years, at the end of which time I was a junior at Illinois Wesleyan University, wore wide pants and said 'Hey Hey' conservatively on occasion. It was at Wesleyan that I broke the intercollegiate record of having four dates in one day.

"I have driven Yellow cabs in Chicago, sold magazines in Cicero and dived off the highest tower at Lake Nokomis in Minneapolis. I've had my hair cut in Michigan City, my fortune told in St. Louis and my wallet swiped in a Wisconsin mining town.

"I was a signal maintainer's helper on the Chicago & Alton Railroad and I used to pull my little green motor car out from under the noses of mail trains on stormy nights. I have been in love three times and playing the piano is my secret vice. Like George Ade and Harry S. New, I am a Sigma Chi.

"I have been writing stories very earnestly ever since I was in high school and I shall probably continue to do so."

To draw his biography to date Rhymer confesses, "I was pulled into radio four years ago, come July, and have since learned to write continuity, I hope."

HARKING back to the days when mammy held her little pickaninny in her arms and sang him to sleep with the songs handed down through generations, the Southernaires will present a series of "Rocking Chair Memories" over WRC at 9:15 p. m.

A special arrangement by James Haupt, tenor in the Mastersingers chorus, of the Andante from Tschaikowsky's "Pathetique" Symphony will be featured on the Mastersingers' program at 11:30 p. m. over WMAL. Two compositions by Edward MacDowell, "Crusaders" and "Midsummer Clouds;" Nessler's "Ave Maria," "Swing Along" (Cook) and "Forsaken" (Koschat) also will be included.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, now en route to the United States to confer with President Roosevelt, will be heard twice over N. B. C. networks during his brief stay here. The first address will be made at a luncheon given in his honor at the National Press Club Saturday, April 22, at 2 o'clock. Mr. MacDonald's second address will be made before the Pilgrims' Society in New York a week from tonight.

Col. Louis McHenry Howe, President Roosevelt's secretary, will appear with Edwin C. Hill on the "Inside Story" program over WJSV on Friday, April 28.

REALISM in radio drama hit a new high when Guy Bates Post, cast and dressed as Gen. U. S. Grant in the "Roses and Drums" series, appeared at the studios in authentic uniform, Civil War sidearms, and whiskers which required three and a half hours for reproduction from old photographs.

Johnny J. Jones Circus Here Today

Veterans of Foreign Wars Sponsoring 10-Day Exposition.

Johnny J. Jones Exposition Shows opens a ten-day stand here today—auspiciously for youngsters on Easter holiday from school to view the first circus arriving in the Capital this spring.

The circus is being sponsored by Veterans of Foreign Wars, Advance Post, No. 1294, and in addition to the show music, the Overseas Band, Drum and Bugle Corps of the District department, V. F. W. will provide plenty of instrumental tunes.

Georgia avenue and Underwood street northwest will be the circus location for its entire stand. This year is the thirtieth anniversary of the Jones shows.

Lodge Will Meet Tonight.

The meeting of Public Buildings and Public Parks Lodge, No. 11, of the American Federation of Government Employes will be held tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in the conference room of the Navy Building.

Stocks Take Higher Stand In Spite of Hesitant Trading

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—The inflation bee buzzed about financial markets today, getting a particularly warm reception from commodities and a generous welcome from stocks.

Shares made a rather hesitant start, but plucked up courage in the last hour when the staple markets gathered strength. Net gains of fractions to more than 2 points were general, though prices mostly finished under their highs. Sales totaled 1,434,940 shares.

Silver, steel, sugar, farm implements, copper and food issues went ahead smartly on the buying flurry. U. S. Smelting, International Silver, Great Western Sugar, Gulf States Steel, U. S. Steel preferred, Case, Harvester, United Fruit, Goodyear, Cerro de Pasco, South Porto Rico Sugar and Youngstown Sheet & Tube were up 1 to better than 2 points net. Corn products, Bethlehem, National and U. S. Steels, Westinghouse, American Telephone, Union Pacific, American Tobacco "B", DuPont and Western Union firmed a point or thereabouts. American Sugar's extreme gain of 6 was cut to 4½. Net gains for most rails were fractional.

Though trade news was meager, the tenor of statements made to stockholders at a number of annual meetings was cheerful.

Some observers are pointing out that movement of goods into consumption may well be stimulated by anticipation of higher prices and that such purchases should stimulate operating schedules in many industries. In the past couple of weeks the business pendulum has been swinging higher, in some cases more than seasonally.

News that $7,000,000 in gold was going to France found the dollar heavy. This movement of metal, however, was accepted as further evidence that the Treasury was prepared to support dollar exchange; with dealings tightly restricted, the market is extremely thin, and wide fluctuations appear inevitable.

American Metal Market suggested that although the steel industry looks brighter, "there is no precise assurance that gains in production will continue in market fashion, for orders are being filled as fast as received and some of the recent buying may simply represent business suspended during the worst period of the banking troubles."

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Tues.	Mon.
Advances	399	144
Declines	103	308
Unchanged	133	127
Total issues	635	579

Stocks.

Inflation talk and commodity price gains inspired stocks to push higher in spite of hesitancy in earlier dealing. The average rise was 1.1 points. Sales increased to 1,434,940 shares.

Bonds.

Hopes and fears divided the market and trading failed to develop a definite trend. The average loss was .1 point. Sales volume increased to $9,513,000.

Curb.

Trading was moderately cheerful and some gains were recorded. Prices changed narrowly. Sales volume increased to 148,000 shares.

Wheat.

A new outburst of speculative buying sent wheat to 67 cents at one time—the highest price since February, 1932. All grains advanced. May wheat sold at 62⅛ to 62¾ cents.

Cotton.

The trend was reversed and recent losses were regained. Renewed buying boosted prices. July sold at 6.88, with the general market up 13 to 16 points. Liverpool reported a steady market.

CURB RECORDS GAINS IN CHEERFUL SALES

Price Changes Are Narrow as Trading Climbs to 148,000 Shares.

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—The curb market was moderately cheerful today, particularly in the industrial division.

On the whole, price changes were narrow, and utilities and oils were mostly sluggish, but the inflation agitation, together with firm commodity markets, aided a number of the industrial issues. The turnover of 148,000 shares was a little larger than yesterday's.

Deere pushed up a point, in sympathy with wheat. National Sugar gained 2 points and other shares up a point or two included Seton Leather, Glen Alden Coal, Western Air Express and Montgomery Ward "A." Great Atlantic and Pcific mounted 4 in a small turnover. Mining issues were mixed, with Lake Shore off a fraction. In the utilities, American Gas gained a fraction; while Electric Bond and Share eased. Oils moved narrowly.

TRADE TRENDS.

(Associated Press.)

Bag industry—Legalization of beer and improvement in the sugar industry have brought a considerable improvement in business to those sections of the cotton goods trade which produce bag constructions, trade interests assert.

Dried fruits—Latest price lists of jobbers show some moderate price gains. Peaches, prunes and raisins continue generally firm.

Jewelry—Improvement in trade in the first two months of the year was largely canceled as a result of the bank holiday in March, says Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. Several manufacturers, however, reported a fair volume of pre-Easter buying in April, and sales in the middle Western territory were said to have indicated a better buying sentiment.

Carpet wools—Imports at Philadelphia last week were 383,161 pounds, compared with 274,151 in the previous week.

Dress goods—Figures received by selling agents indicate that frocks of printed sheers, woven of synthetic yarns, are leading in retail demand at various centers.

New Investment Plan Seen As Outcome of Trade Ills

Special to The Washington Post.

Philadelphia, April 18 (A.P.).—A new theory of saving and investment, more resembling the British idea than what has been our own, is likely to emerge from the present depression and shrinkage of investment values, in the opinion of William A. Law, president of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. here.

Mr. Law suggested that the new theory would be based upon security of principal and the certainty of a moderate yield, rather than upon the hope of quick appreciation in the value of principal—a hope that has been responsible for the collapse of many fortunes and the wiping out of countless lifetime savings.

"So many of our well-established forms of savings have collapsed or have been seriously impaired," Mr. Law said, that in many of us the belief in saving itself has been almost destroyed. Why should we persist in believing that it is wise to save? We see those who have denied themselves present luxuries and pleasures not a bit better off than those who spent what they had when they had it. In instance after instance, those who took the hard path and those who took the easy one have arrived at exactly the same destination.

"Yet, though we may be disillusioned, we will certainly continue to save, for to save is as instinctive with a great number of us as it is for the squirrel to store up nuts for the winter. But those of us who have learned our lesson, as I am sure millions have, will save and invest far more carefully and intelligently than we have in the past. We will think not so much of a quick upturn and big profits as of whether we are going to get what we invest back again, and in the meantime are going to receive a fair return.

"Our first consideration will be whether a dollar invested today will still be a dollar tomorrow, next week, or ten years from now. Second only to this will be a systematic plan of investment that will have two main objectives. It will provide for a type of investment that can be drawn upon quickly in case of emergency, and that will ultimately provide against old age and the needs of dependents in case of death or loss of earning power for other causes.

"The growing use of life insurance as a form of investment—as distinguished from the conception of it as solely a protection against death—is very largely due to the fact that in an era of insecurity and crashing values it has met these requirements. In fact, a description of a modern life insurance policy—with the exception that it provides not ultimately, but immediately, against death—is very nearly an outline of the theory of investment which I believe will be dominant in the future.

"It is true of life insurance as of few other forms of investment that a dollar invested during the boom era is still a dollar today—a dollar that will buy far more than it would when it was invested. In a world of bankruptcies and defaults, American life insurance companies during 1932 paid out to policyholders and beneficiaries more than $4,000,000,000, over $3,000,000,000 of which was distributed to living policyholders in matured endowments, annuities, surrender values, dividends, disability payments, and loans on policies in force."

Adams Named to Board Of General Electric Co.

Schenectady, N. Y., April 18 (A.P.).—Charles Francis Adams, former Secretary of the Navy, today was elected to the board of directors of the General Electric Co., at the annual stockholders' meeting.

Gerard Swope, president, reported that sales for the first three months of 1933 were more than $11,000,000 under the first quarter of last year, and that orders for the same period were almost $8,000,000 under the first quarter of 1932.

Bank of England Buys $21,670,000 Bar Gold

London, April 18 (A.P.).—The Bank of England announced today the purchase of bar gold amounting to £4,468,121 (about $21,670,000). The source of the gold was not revealed.

GOODS MARKET.

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—Cotton goods, unfinished, were quiet today with prices barely steady. Finished goods were in fair demand for early shipment. Burlaps were steady.

Rayon yarns for May delivery are in moderate demand. Firmer markets are reported in men's wear, but business is light.

BOND MARKET SAGS FRACTION AT CLOSING

Several Leaders Stage Gains as Turnover Rises to $9,513,000.

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—Hopes and fears were about evenly divided in the bond market today and prices generally failed to exhibit any definite trend.

Trading volume expanded somewhat, owing to the activity in a few issues. Sales totaled $9,513,000, par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was one-tenth of a point lower.

While prospects of inflation held the attention of some traders and investors, highest grade maturities, as a whole, displayed little concern over talk of dollar depreciation or undue broadening of credit. United States Government securities were moderately easier, but they apparently were not under any great pressure.

There were several outstanding gainers in the corporation groups. American beet sugar 6s were up 4 points; American Type Founders 6s up 6; Goodrich 6s up 2½; Hudson Coal 5s up 3; International Cement 5s up 2; Remington Arms 6s up 2; Republic Steel 5½s up 4; Warner Bros. 6s up 2½, and U. S. Rubber 5s up 2½. The U. S. Rubber loan was the heaviest traded of the corporation groups, probably reflecting moderate optimism voiced at the company's annual meeting today. Some of the secondary rails gained a point or more, while others suffered similar losses in different trading.

The foreign list was erratic. German government issues rallied around a point, but other Reich loans were irregular. The Argentines, Austrians and Australians were 1 to 2 points higher. Japanese bonds were rather heavy and Canadian government 4s lost 1¼ points.

GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—The Guaranty Trust Co. today announced the shipment of $3,000,000 in gold to France on the steamship Paris. The bank announced on Saturday that the United States Treasury had licensed it to make an export of gold.

This license, together with a permit for a small export of gold to Holland last week, were understood to have been permitted to strengthen the dollar in the foreign exchange markets.

After sharp advances in European gold currencies late last week, they subsided substantially when it was learned that the Treasury had licensed certain exports.

Later it was announced that the Chase National Bank would send $3,000,000 in gold to France Friday on the liner Mauretania.

The Irving Trust Co. also shipped $1,000,000 in gold on the Paris.

(Associated Press.)

London—German bonds were weak. kaffirs easy and home rails and industrials harder on the stock exchange today. The market was in a holiday mood and business was moderate with prices closing irregular. Sterling dollar exchange opened quiet at $3.48 and closed at $3.47¾.

Paris—Prices on the bourse were cheerful with fluctuations narrow. Wall street advices scarcely influenced the market which was more interested in the coming international conversations at Washington. The close was well sustained.

Berlin—The tone of the boerse was dull and trading was inactive. The closing was quiet.

WHEAT VALUES GAIN UNDER SPECULATION

Chicago, April 18 (A.P.).—A fresh outburst of speculative buying swept cash wheat skyward today to 67 cents a bushel, a price unequaled since February, 1932.

The rise of wheat accompanied a jump in British exchange to the highest figures for many months, and was simultaneous with news that wheat crop damage in Kansas and Nebraska had spread to sections where prospects heretofore were good. Barley and oats, also outdid season high price records.

Wheat Closes Strong.

Wheat closed strong at the day's top quotations, 1½ to 2 cents above yesterday's finish; corn, ½ to ¾ up; oats, ⅜ to ⅝ advanced, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

The apex figures on wheat were paid for immediate delivery of a carload of No. 2 red winter grade, and represented a premium of 6½ cents a bushel over wheat deliverable in May.

This indicated that domestic milling demand for wheat was even keener than that from speculators in future deliveries. Speculative dealings which had lagged yesterday and during the earlier hours today expanded to the broadest general trade in months.

East Leads Buying.

Eastern interests led the buying of wheat, and took advantage of early price setbacks resulting mainly from the fact that the Liverpool wheat market had ignored Easter holiday upturns here.

Speculative purchases of wheat in Chicago, however, broadened out when British exchange rates ran up rapidly 7 points, and new reports of crop damage began to pour in from areas Southwest and West that had been regarded as promising. Further stimulus to buyers was found in Washington reports that consideration of the farm commodity bill would be finished in the Senate this week, and that Secretary Wallace had promised the various trades would be permitted to draft their own administrative rules, if done in a spirit of coöperation.

Corn, oats and barley owed their advance largely to buoyancy of wheat. Provisions averaged lower with hog values.

Gillette Safety Razor Profit Is Cut to $957,778 for Quarter.

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—National Biscuit Co. today reported net income of $3,082,828 for the quarter ended March 31, equal to 42 cents a share on the common stock. This compares with $4,219,958 or 60 cents a share in the first quarter of 1932.

Gillette Safety Razor Co. reports net profit of $957,778 for the quarter ended March 31 compared with profit of $1,714,049 in the first quarter of 1932.

Cincinnati, April 18 (A.P.).—The Procter & Gamble Co. today reported earnings of $2,452,052 after charges, interest and taxes, for the three months ended March 31. This is equal after dividend requirements on preferred stocks to 34.2 cents a share on common stock.

New York, April 17 (A.P.).—The Delaware & Hudson Co., holding company for the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, and affiliated companies, reports for 1932 consolidated net loss of $5,424,899 after all charges. No comparison with 1931 is available because the company did not present a consolidated income account for that year.

Net income for the Delaware & Hudson Co. alone for 1932 was $3,308,827 against $3,234,241 in 1931.

Richmond, Va., April 18 (A.P.).—Officers and directors of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad were reelected today in the annual meeting of the road's stockholders.

The annual report of the company showed that its operating revenues for 1932 were $37,268,563.65, compared with $54,088,004.97 for 1931, a decrease of $16,819,441.32, or 31.10 per cent.

Freight revenues were reported to have decreased 30.74 per cent, and passenger revenues were reported to have decreased 38.26 per cent from similar revenues for 1931.

Operating expenses for 1932 amounted to $32,270,877.01, and in 1931 they aggregated $43,188,470.55, a decrease of $10,917,593.54, or 29.28 per cent.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON RENEWED BUYING

July Closes at 6.88 as General Market Gains 13 to 16 Points.

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—Cotton reversed its trend today and recovered all of the previous day's loss.

One or two months made new high ground for the movement on a renewal buying promoted by the action of grain and stocks and accompanied by further talk of inflation.

July contracts sold up to 6.94 or even with the high point of last Thursday and closed at 6.88 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 13 to 16 points.

Initial Sales Higher.

Initial prices were 6 to 9 points higher on a fairly active trade and commission house demand which included considerable foreign buying. After buying at the start, Liverpool was a seller of late months on the differences.

The Southern selling was light. The market reaching the best levels in the late trading. May sold at 6.78 and October at 7.16. Closing quotations were 4 to 5 points off from the best under realizing.

Liverpool cables did not fully meet yesterday's decline in the local market and cable advices reported a steady market there, with trading interest centered mainly on Washington.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was steady today with sales of 26 contracts or 3,900 barrels. Prices at the close were unchanged to 3 points higher, reflecting firmness of grains, steadiness of lard and firmness of crude oil. Bleachable spot closed 3.90; May, 4.05; July, 4.24; September, 4.41, and October, 4.44.

Dried Fruits Steady.

DAILY OUTPUT OF OIL DOWN 287,350 UNITS

Production for Week Totals 1,934,000 Barrels Up to April 15.

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 287,350 barrels in the week ended April 15, totaling 1,934,000 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California decreased 296,250 barrels, to 1,463,500 barrels.

Refineries representing 91.6 per cent of estimated total capacity, operated at 62.3 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average runs of crude oil to stills as 2,201,000 barrels. Daily average the previous week for refineries representing 91.6 per cent of total, operated at 57 per cent of capacity, was 2,013,000 barrels.

Daily average cracked gasoline by refineries representing 95.4 per cent of total charging capacity was 437,000 barrels. Daily average the previous week by refineries representing 95.4 per cent of total was 408,000 barrels.

Imports of crude and refined oils at principal United States ports totaled 969,000 barrels, against 945,000 barrels.

Dollar Loss Laid To Inflation Talk

Plans of Money Increase Are Blamed in Paris for Decline.

Paris, April 18 (A.P.).—Talk of inflation in America was blamed by French newspapers and bankers today for the weakness of the dollar on the bourse. The uncertainty of the situation was said to aggravate conditions causing wide fluctuations. The dollar closed at 25.25 francs on the bourse, but dropped unofficially later to 25.13.

The Nationalist Journal des Debats said that "the dollar crisis continues," and added that talk of inflation had never been so persistent in the United States as at present. The journal maintained that there is confusion as to what policy will be followed in Congress, in the presidential entourage, and in the relations between President Roosevelt and Congress. The newspaper declared the prediction today by Speaker Rainey that a currency inflation bill would be passed at this session of Congress and the passage of the farm relief bill hold a threat to American currency.

The American government faces the dilemma of maintaining the dollar on the gold standard, thereby risking withdrawals from the United States, or of permitting the currency to fluctuate, which would mean that the dollar would be off gold, the journal added. Liberte, an extreme Nationalist organ, said that partisans of inflation in America were launching a new offensive. This paper declared that the conversations between Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and President Roosevelt would have a vital influence in the fight between the British pound and the dollar.

POWER COMPETITION URGED IN ARLINGTON

K. of C. Annual Revue Plays to Audience of 400 at Clarendon.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Following the receipt of a preliminary report from the subcommittee of the Arlington County Public Utilities Commission on the electric light and power situation in the county, the commission has invited the Potomac Electric Light & Power Co., to extend its lines throughout the county in competition to the Virginia Service Co. The committee says that it is strongly of the opinion that the Potomac Electric Light & Power Co. would extend its lines throughout Arlington County if assured of an adequate demand for such service.

Before an audience of more than 400 persons, the Edward Douglas White Council, Knights of Columbus, gave its ninth revue and annual minstrel show last night in the auditorium of St. Charles School at Clarendon.

The cast included: Revue, Dorothy Bowden, Theresa Childs, F. Deppert, A. Youngs, F. Madigan, A. Toulotte and Gordon Gonyea; interlocutor, J. R. Mulligan. Robert Raeburn, Bert Toulotte, Russell Handley and Gene Shreve as endmen; soloists, A. A. Moore, P. King, M. Mattare and A. Hutchinson.

The chorus included: W. Cavanaugh, F. Madigan, A. Youngs, F. Deppert, W Zimmerman, J. Sherwood, B. Toulotte, jr., B. Holfert, G. James, H. James, A. Cyr and C. Druckenmiller. Musical directors, Mrs. H. Cyr and Stephen Garrity.

The proceeds will be applied on maintenance of the new clubhouse. The show will be repeated tonight at 8.

Hamline Players Give Spring Revue Tonight

The annual spring revue presentation at Hamline M. E. Church, Sixteenth and Allison streets northwest, will take place tonight at 8:15 o'clock, with "Sweethearts on Parade" as the main vehicle and two vaudeville skits, "Nothing But Nonsense" and "A Bargain's a Bargain," in addition.

A chorus of 50 is included in the revue, which will include conceptions of the "Floradora Sextette" and other famous stage attractions. Miss Orrel Belle Claflin is director.

Impounded Dogs Keep Alexandria Up at Night

Property owners in the vicinity of the Alexandria Jail are protesting against the use of the jail yard as a city pound for unlicensed dogs caught by the city dog catcher and at present kept in the jail yard for the required length of time to allow owners to redeem their canines.

The nearby residents complain that the whines and howls of the dog prisoners disturb their night's rest.

Senator Reynolds Addresses Rotary

Senator Robert R. Reynolds, of North Carolina, was the principal speaker at the intercity meeting of Rotary Clubs in Alexandria last night at the George Mason Hotel. Rotarians from Leesburg, Fairfax, Arlington and Warrenton were present.

Senator Reynolds spoke on the observations of a new senator, giving his hearers interesting and entertaining insight into affairs at the Capitol.

Ed Johnson, of Roanoke, district Rotary governor, was also present, and gave a short talk.

Francis H. Fannon, president of the Alexandria Club, presided. The committee in charge of arrangements included Lawrence E. Roland, Robert H. Bogle, Blair McLeod, Everett Swan, Alfred Thomson, Talbert Haslett and Joseph Everly.

The Rotary Anns, headed by the chairman, Mrs. S. S. Brooks, were guests of the club.

Legion's Auxiliary Holds Anniversary

Victory Unit Gives Dinner and Dance to Honor 13th Birthday.

Members of Victory Unit, No. 204, of the American Legion Auxiliary, celebrated the thirteenth anniversary of the unit last night at a dinner dance at the Madrillion.

Guests of honor included Commander and Mrs. Norman Landreau, Mrs. Dorothy B. Harper, chapeau national of the Forty and Eight; Mrs. Marie Dyer, acting department president, and Miss Lillian Reagan, president of the Henry Spengler Union. Mrs. V. J. Doleman, president of the Victory Unit, was the hostess of the occasion. The committee in charge included Miss Edna McIntosh, chairman; Mrs. Marion Martin, Mrs. Gottfried August, Mrs. Claudia Hanson, Mrs. Rose Levy, Mrs. R. T. Turner, Mrs. Joseph P. Mims and Mrs. Edith Sadler.

Among those entertaining were Mrs. Howard S. Fisk, department chaplain; Adjt. Eleven Druggists Obtain Permits.

Richmond, Va., April 18 (A.P.).—With eleven permits to bring beer in Virginia granted to Virginia druggists today the number of permits for the importation of the brew for sale upon doctors' prescriptions reached a total of 765. Requests for the permits are coming in almost constantly.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the arrival in Washington of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, and M. Herriot, of France, one of the most unusual of modern talking pictures may be given its American premiere in the Capital.

I say "may" because the exact date and circumstances of the premiere presentation of this epochal film in this country are still conjectural. However, the last sentence in a personal note concerning it from Oliver M. Sayler, authority on both stage and screen and author of numerous books relating to the theater, is as follows:

"Although I can not say anything definite yet, the news of the premiere may be of especial interest to you when it breaks."

Mr. Sayler is referring to the first sound film to treat the ominous subject of war from an international, rather than national, point of view, which is now assured a showing soon in this country through the acquisition of the American rights to Victor Trivas' "Hell on Earth" by the newly formed Aeolian Pictures Corp.

Already displayed in Berlin under the title of "Niemandsland" and in London as "War Is Hell," this picture with its international locale and cast, and its international plea for tolerance, mutual understanding and peace, has already fallen afoul of the Hitler restrictions in Germany, being one of 67 films, previously passed by the censors, which have been denied release or further showing. In addition, its director has been banned from returning to Germany from Paris where he has been working on a new production.

Produced in Germany, France and England by Victor Trivas, in association with Georges Shandoff, "Hell on Earth" is based on an idea and scenario by the novelist Leonhard Frank, author of "Karl and Ana," produced in New York by the Theater Guild. The five outstanding characters in the story are a Frenchman, a German, an Englishman, a Jew and a Negro with no national attachment. Two of the players of this quintet of characters are well known in this country—Vladimir Sokoloff, one of Max Reinhardt's most celebrated players, who has the role of the Jew, and Lewis Douglas, born in Harlem and associated with a number of Negro productions both in the United States and abroad for the past three decades.

An innovation in the treatment of 'Hell on Earth," growing naturally out of its story and theme, renders unnecessary the distraction of written captions or subtitles. Although each participant speaks his own language, the directors have managed to work out a scenario which makes the story completely understandable almost anywhere in the world through the efforts of the five leading characters to discover a common means of expression.

At a recent preview conducted under the auspices of the Exceptional Photoplays Committee of the National Board of Review, "Hell on Earth" was overwhelmingly voted the greatest of all war films and ahead of all others as effective propaganda against war.

Speaking of previews, as I suspect we were indirectly, the ladies and gentlemen (sic) of the local dramatic desks were accorded an advance peek at 'A Bedtime Story," Maurice Chevalier's next picture, opening Friday at the Metropolitan, as guests of the Warner Brothers executives in the Ambassador Theater yesterday afternoon.

"A Bedtime Story" is something in the nature of a new departure for Mons. Chevalier, although he still is a divil among the women and a singer who does rather ample justice to three or four songs that are not hard to take. Basically, this new vehicle for the Chevalier of France is vaguely suggestive of Charlie Chaplin's remote classic, "The Kid," although the environment and treatment of the story are vastly different. There is in at least one of the musical numbers, too, a slightly modified recrudescence of the musical treatment of at least a part of Al Jolson's recent "Hallelujah! I'm a Bum!"

Whether Chevalier will continue to be preferred as a gay young heartbreaker—as he still is to some degree in this picture—or as the sobered young man who settles down to the serious business of rearing a foundling discovered in his Rolls Royce, remains to be seen. One thing, though, is absolutely certain. "Monsieur Baby," otherwise known as Baby LeRoy, a plump little rascal still in his cradle days, will utterly captivate any audience, in any man's theater, any time.

Talk about stealing a picture! This young fellow simply tucks "A Bedtime Story" under his tiny arm and walks off with it, despite the gilt-edged efforts of the ostensible star, Edward Everett Horton, Helen Twelvetrees, Adrienne Ames, Earle Fox, Frank Reicher, Henry Kolker, a number of entrancing young women who are newcomers to prominence and divers and sundry others important in the support.

It is pleasant to report that the indelicacies in Al Trahan's act which caused many to hoist an eyebrow at Friday's early performances at Loew's Fox have been eliminated from his and Lady Yukona Cameron's otherwise engaging routine, leaving this inspired bit of clowning the undisputed leader among turns of its kind.

Mr. Trahan and Miss Cameron are artists of too rich endowment to need any off-key comedy to bolster their efforts. When you see them, you will agree that they are in a class by themselves, whether at the piano, singing or showing up Mr. Londos and Mr. Savoldi!

As a special feature at the 7 and 10 o'clock stage presentations at Loew's Fox tonight, the George Washington University mixed chorus of 80 voices, under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Harmon, will be heard in "Kammenoi Ostrow," by Rubinstein. The G. W. U. glee clubs and mixed chorus are nationally known organizations that frequently before have been heard on the Fox stage during Easter week.

When Fred Waring brings his Pennsylvanians to the Earle on Friday for their thirty-somethingth week in the Capital, a large number of new faces will be observed across those footlights. The list of specialty artists who accompany him on this visit is almost as long as the roster of the band's playing personnel. It must have been about nine years ago that Fred and the boys made their first visit to town, wowing the customers at the then Crandall's Metropolitan like nobody's business! They have been wowing them ditto ever since.

Afterthoughts on the opening of Edouard Bourdet's "Best Sellers," at the National: Peggy Wood ought to be perfect in the role of Jacqueline Fournier, wife of the unknown author, who wins the Zola prize, for no reason at all. . . . In addition to being a star of both stage and screen and a singer of note, she also is a writer of distinction, having authored "A Splendid Gypsy," a fascinating account of John Drew's last tour, and a volume of reminiscences, "Actors—and People." . . . She studied voice under Mme. Emma Calve, in her day the world's greatest "Carmen." . . . Her work Monday night was only marred by a too obvious attempt to achieve an elfin quality in everything she undertook. . . . Which, after all, was probably 99 44-100 per cent first-night nervousness. . . . Ernest Truex, on the other hand, several times was bland to the point of utter vacuity. . . . Roman Bohnen, the Mr. Felix in Julian Mosca's office, has a son, Carl, who is an artist of no small attainment. . . . He has executed a crayon portrait of Miss Wood that is an exceptionally deft piece of work. . . . Ian Keith is the best-tailored actor to tread a Washington stage this season. . . . Rollo Wayne's settings are masterpieces. . . . Fournier's study, in which two scenes are laid, has a large bookcase filled with real books. . . . Or so it appears from the fourth row. . . . And should Noel Coward's face be red! . . . Or don't you remember that mile-high case of painted books in "Design for Living?"

A homesick letter from Sam Rubin, Washington cymbal-whanger for Loew's, Inc., thrice removed, insists that he doesn't like Detroit any better than he ever did—especially now that, since April 7, we can tie Canada stein for stein!

Sort of a Windsor tie that would be, living in Detroit!

Dr. Errett Will Address Disciples' Union Tonight

Dr. Edwin Errett, of Cincinnati, editor, writer and Bible commentator, will address the Disciples Union at the Vermont Avenue Christian Church this evening. The meeting is the quarterly meeting of the union, and will open with a dinner at 6 o'clock.

Harold E. Fey, editor of the World Call, monthly international magazine of the Disciples of Christ, will be another speaker at the meeting. Music will be furnished by a male quartet from the National City Christian Church.

Montgomery Residents Fail to Protest Levies

The Motgomery County commissioners sat all day yesterday waiting for protests against assessments placed on new construction, and waited in vain.

Not one person appeared to object to the assessments which had been made by the county assessor, J. Hempstone Griffith, on property built in the past year.

LOOSE PLAY BY NATS ENABLES RED SOX TO WIN, 6-4

1,700 See Irving Punch Way to Easy Decision Over Van

Van Floored For 8-Count In Sixth

By DAVE HERMAN.

YOUNG VAN'S aspirations to continue in the role of a headline fighter were interrupted last night at Portner's Arena by the mauling fists of Henry Irving, the Northeast brewery truck driver, who hammered the pride of Southwest from post to post, shot him down for a count of eight in the sixth, and carried off the decision unanimously in their 10-round feature battle.

While a noisy crowd of 1,700 yelled and cheered until they were pop-eyed and hoarse, Irving slammed Van with a terrific left and then a right, both of which found their marks on the stereotyper's jaw, forcing Van to crumple in his own corner in the sixth round, and almost putting him out for keeps.

Into this round were crowded the thrills of the entire scrap. Irving had charged out ferociously, and those close by the ringside could see that the Northeast battler had visions of a knockout when Van went down, but the Southwest boy watched Referee Short as he stroked off the count and calmly arose at eight, though visibly hurt.

Shows Superiority From First.

Irving, as in past fights at Portner's, swung wildly with his right, missing his opponent dozens of times. Van stood back, however, and failed to follow up his advantage every time Irving missed.

Antonelli Takes Decision.

The fight card, as a whole, measured up to some of the best staged at the arena this season. Nick Antonelli continued his triumphant march by a unanimous decision over Willie Essinger in the six-round semi-windup, putting a high polish to his two-fisted artillery by almost knocking out his opponent in the dying moments of the battle. A crashing right spun Essinger around, but Essinger hung on.

A feud that flared up in the dressing room when they exchanged verbal broadsides and a few punches ended in a six-round victory for Roy Manley, Little Rock (Ark.) southpaw.

Shires, to Toronto, May Renew Boxing

"I Will Never Play Minor League Ball Again," He Declares.

Boston, April 18 (A.P.).—Art Shires was in a defiant mood today when notified by Manager Bill McKechnie that the Boston Braves had sold him to the Toronto Maple Leafs after obtaining waivers from every other big league club. The International League club's purchase price was not announced.

Ordered to join the Leafs in Newark immediately, Shires insisted on remaining in Boston.

"I will never play minor league baseball again," declared Shires. "I had my fill of it when I was with Milwaukee. There are lots of other things I can do that will bring in more money than I could ever get from Toronto and I am going to look the situation over before coming to any decision."

Shires intimated that he might return to the boxing ring. Eddie Mack, Boston fight promoter, has offered Shires $25,000 a year for two years to become a professional boxer under his management.

BARRY LOSES ON POINTS TO HUNT

Special to The Washington Post.

BOSTON, Mass., April 18.—Babe Hunt, 202 pounds, Oklahoman, hammered out a ten-round decision verdict over Donald (Reds) Barry, of Washington, who weighed in at 196 pounds, in the main event of the Argonne A. A. program at the Boston Arena tonight where the appearance of Max Schmeling against hand-picked sparring partners in a pair of two-round bouts, refereed by Jack Dempsey, was an added attraction.

Barry, a vigorous, two-handed fighter, was plenty aggressive but without particularly good judgment of distance or accuracy in his punches. He missed more often than he scored, while Hunt cut and slashed him with an accurately scoring left hand jab that had the red thatched youngster from the Capital inadvertently fast retreat under their impact on several occasions.

Barry Fails to Impress In Bout.

Against a less skillful and ringwise fighter, Barry might have appeared to better advantage, but there was no time during the ten rounds when he gave evidence of causing others in the heavyweight class much uneasiness.

Hunt went to the front at the start and held his lead to the finish. For the first two or three rounds it was a fast and furious mill with Barry rushing to the attack, only to fall into traps for missing as his faster and heavier opponent feinted him into poor position and outslugged him on the few occasions when Barry found an opening.

Barry's chief recommendation to fighting prowess seemed to lie in his ability to absorb punishment. Never did he hesitate at what looked like an opening to him, and he often deliberately took blows in order to land one of his own. Despite the stinging jab that was Hunt's best weapon, Barry kept boring in for more and he was fighting as hard at the finish as when he started, although clearly outscored. There were no knockdowns.

Giants Beat Phillies, 3-2, for First Victory

Philadelphia, April 18 (A.P.).—The New York Giants barely lasted to beat out the Phillies, 3 to 2, today for their first victory of the season. Their only previous appearance was in a tie game.

Brilliant fielding behind Fred Fitzsimmons, coupled with timely hitting and some fine relief pitching by Carl Hubbell in the ninth decided the game. George Davis, former Philly, making his first appearance here for the Giants, clouted a home run in the third and a single that led to another run.

Cubs Beat Pirates, 3-1; Warneke Wins

Ace Wins Second of Year in Pitching Battle; Suhr Homers.

Chicago, April 18 (A.P.).—A "second cousin" act by Tony Piet and Pie Traynor together with one blast from Gabby Hartnett's bat were all Lonnie Warneke needed today to hand the Cubs a 3 to 1 victory over Pittsburgh.

It was the Cubs' second triumph of the season, both turned in by their ace from Mount Ida, Ark., and the first setback for the Pirates. Pitching in stride against the heavy Buccaneer hitters, Warneke ran his consecutive scoreless innings to 17 when Gus Suhr broke the charm with a homer that caromed off the right field flagpole in the final inning.

Marathon Is Assigned Here by A.A.U. June 17

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—The Amateur Athletic Union, through Harold Bruce, chairman of the long-distance running committee, today announced the dates and locations for six long-distance races, all of which will be run according to metric measurements.

The marathon, which will be run over 46,195 meters, will be decided June 17 at Washington, D. C. The junior and senior cross-country runs, both at 10,500 meters, have been scheduled for November 11 at Philadelphia and November 23 at Chicago, respectively.

Others announced were, 15-kilometer at Norwich, May 30; 20-kilometer at Newark, N. J., April 30, and 25-kilometer from Schenectady to Albany, N. Y., May 20.

REICH DENIES OLYMPIAD CREED BAR

All Contestants to Be Treated Alike, Says Official.

BERLIN, April 18 (A.P.).—Cordial treatment of Olympic athletes, irrespective of creed or color, was promised today by Carl Diem, secretary of the German Athletic Federation and a member of the country's Olympic committee, which will be in charge of the international games at Berlin in 1936.

Diem's statement was in answer to the opinion expressed in the United States yesterday by Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee, who said Chancellor Adolph Hitler's anti-Jewish campaign may result in a shift of the games from Germany.

"Every Olympic contestant, who has been certified by his country, will be given cordial treatment, irrespective of race or color," said Diem. "It is not for Germany to prescribe who shall not compete. Germany's bar to Jewish athletes is a domestic matter and does not concern other nations."

Fears that sports writers, coming to Berlin for the games, might encounter censorship difficulties, was discounted by Dr. N. Bollman, sports editor of the Wolff News Agency and a member of the press committee.

"Of course there will be complete freedom of the press," said Dr. Bollmann, who covered the 1932 games. "We'll try, in addition, to furnish the same facilities to all foreign writers that Los Angeles so admirably supplied."

Miss Gottlieb Enters British Women's Golf

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—Miss Bea Gottlieb, of the Mount Vernon (N.Y.) Country Club, ranking metropolitan golfer and prominent in Florida tournaments during the past winter season, may be the only American representative in the British women's championship this year.

Miss Gottlieb's entry, the only one received, was forwarded today by the United States Golf Association for the tournament at Glen Eagles, Scotland, starting May 15.

Yankees Win 5th Behind Gomez

Southpaw, Earnshaw Each Allow 3 Hits in 2-1 Game.

Yanks Couple Two of Hits With Walk to Win Game in 4th.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, April 18 (A.P.).—Vernon Gomez, thin left-handed ace of the New York Yankees, picked up his feud with the Athletics today just where he left off last season, besting big George Earnshaw, 2 to 1, in a brilliant tussle that gave the Yanks a record of five straight victories so far in the youthful campaign.

But for a ringing double down the left-field foul line by Jimmie Foxx, after a pass to Max Bishop and an error by Joie Sewell had put men on first and second in the sixth with two out, Gomez would have opened his personal 1933 campaign against the A's with a shutout.

Lefty has been a particular thorn in the side of the Mackmen since he came into the league over two years ago, winning ten of the twelve games he has pitched against them.

Bears Down and Fans Eight.

Today he held them to three hits and struck out eight, bearing down to get Bob Johnson on strikes after Foxx had hit the only extra base clout of the game. The A's went out in order thereafter. It was Gomez's second victory of the season.

Earnshaw likewise was in splendid form, holding the Yankees to three hits, but two of them coupled with a base on balls in the fourth, cost him his chance to break Gomez's streak.

Sewell walked to open the fourth, and Babe Ruth filed out so deeply to right center that Joie easily made second after the catch. He went to third on Lou Gehrig's single through short and scored on Ben Chapman's belt to right. Gehrig scored when Tony Lazzeri grounded into a double play that wound up with Chapman trapped between second and third. The Yankee hitting, augmented by Sewell's single in the first, ended right there.

Ruth Provides Fielding Feature.

Though the Yanks turned in one double play and the A's two, Babe Ruth provided the fielding feature by picking Dib Williams' bid for a homer off the right field bleacher screen in the seventh. The Babe was unable to hit safely for the crowd of 15,000.

BLAEHOLDER WINS OWN GAME, 1-0

Single Scores Run in Fifth; West Is Fielding Star.

ST. LOUIS, April 18 (A.P.).—George Blaeholder, in his starting game of the season, clouted in the run which gave the Browns a 1-to-0 edge over the Cleveland Indians here today.

It was a pitcher's duel between Blaeholder and Melvin Warder, who also pitched his season's opener. Harder purposely walked Ferrell in the fifth, to get at Blaeholder, who promptly singled, scoring Burns.

Cleveland came close to scoring in the fourth when Averill singled, took second on a sacrifice and streaked for home on Vosmik's single to center. West made a perfect throw to Ferrell, and Averill was out at the plate.

Chisox Hit Hard To Swamp Tigers

Jones Blanks Detroiters as Mates Get 15 Hits and Dozen Runs.

Detroit, April 18 (A.P.).—Chicago's hard-hitting White Sox, twice tamed by the Detroit Tigers, got their big guns out today, pounding the Tigers all over Navin Field and winning the final of the series, 12 to 0. In all, they laid in 15 hits, one a home run by Kress.

Tommy Bridges, Detroit's starting pitcher, lasted only until the third inning, when six Chicago runs crossed the plate and 10 men faced him. Elon Hogsett relieved him and allowed three runs in the fourth before he settled down.

Sam Jones, pitching his first game of the season, methodically set the Tigers down with seven hits. Five Detroit errors, all of them serious, aided the Sox.

Stribling in U. S.; Bares Knee Injury

New York, April 18 (A.P.).—W. L. (Young) Stribling, Macon, Ga., heavyweight, arrived in New York today after a ten months' tour of the world and revealed he may be forced to undergo an operation to correct an injury to his right knee. He was accompanied by Mrs. Stribling, their children, Mary Virginia and W. L. 3d, and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stribling, sr.

Stribling wore a slipper on his right foot and walked with the aid of a cane but appeared, otherwise, in excellent condition.

The Georgian said a cartilage slipped in his right knee two days before a fight on April 6. He had been troubled by a similar occurrence four times previously, he said, but always had been able to ease the cartilage back into place with a snap-kick. Stribling plans to consult a Miami osteopath and will undergo an operation only as a last resort.

The fighter said he had no immediate plans for the ring.

Boston Snatches Victory As Cronin Contributes to Four-Run Rally in Seventh

FAITH, HOPE AND—

Nats' Lead Wiped Out as Whitehill and Defense Falter.

Kline Checks Threats After Ivy Andrews Is Withdrawn.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

THE ball club that the boys down South said was the best-balanced team in the league, which was as far as Manager Cronin would go in his pennant race prediction, lost its mental balance and the ball game to the Boston Red Sox yesterday.

Manager Cronin himself was the chief performer in the Nats' mental gymnastics in the seventh inning, which saw the Red Sox snatch four luscious runs out of the home boys' cerebral acrobatics. Two of these runs were gifts, the earned run column in the box score to the contrary notwithstanding. The final result was found to be Boston, 6; Washington, 4.

The Nats were breezing along serenely for six innings with a nice little 3-1 lead nestling in their sails when Earl Whitehill stuck out his chin and Cronin and a few of the Red Sox took some solid pokes at it.

Andrews, Harmless, Is Walked.

The inning started innocently enough when Hodapp was forced by Shea at second after singling off Bluege's glove, but Whitehill so far forgot himself as to throw four balls at Pinch-Hitter Bernie Freiberg. Whitehill then heaved the ball into center field in trying to catch Shea off second and there were thus runners on second and third. He got Warstler out on strikes and then along came Johnson.

Johnson hit a bat-breaking, heart-breaking, hump-back single into left field and two runs were across. Whitehill put McManus on base with a walk and then Cronin himself took up the battle for the Red Sox.

Dale Alexander, who ran a dead heat with Smead Jolley down South to share the honor of being the league's slowest runner, hit a nice, even bouncer down to Cronin for what looked to be the third out, but Cronin, instead of tossing the ball to first, which is the first lesson in the baseball primer, threw instead to Myer, at second, for an attempted force-out on McManus, much to Myer's surprise. Both Myer and the ball arrived at the bag late and all hands were safe.

Fothergill Brings in Two Runners.

Fatty Fothergill, who was reinstated in the Regular line-up for just such emergencies, then rammed a single to center field and two more Red Sox trotted home and Boston had four runs for the inning. The session came to a merciful end when Alexander, who was on third, attempted to rattle Whitehill and was promptly picked off the bag by the southpaw's deceptive motion.

Fred Schulte was the culprit in the next inning when the Red Sox tacked on another run and there were fond recollections of one Sammy West, who used to play our center field so nicely. Johnny Watwood was on base when Shea lined a pitch out to center. Schulte drifted in lazily, displaying great nonchalance, and then all of a sudden was struck with his mistake and advanced rapidly backward, only to see the ball clear his head by a comfortable 6 feet for two bases, which scored Watwood.

Al Thomas Stops Scoring.

The only man Whitehill was able to get out during the inning was Hodapp, who had sacrificed, so Cronin waved Al Thomas into the box and the Red Sox did no more scoring.

Little Bobby Kline had relieved Ivy Andrews in the Nats' seventh, marking his fourth appearance in the box in Boston's five games, and the Nats who were two runs in arrears by that time, got only one man on base thereafter. He was Dave Harris, who hit a pinch single with one out in the ninth, only to languish on the bases when Kuhel grounded out and Myer flied to Fothergill.

The Red Sox could do no wrong

SOX TO FACE STEWART TODAY

Weiland to Be Slab Foe; Cronin Sees Hitting Spurt.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THINGS seem to be getting no better fast with our Nationals and this afternoon's game, the final with the Red Sox and the last here until Sunday, when the New York Yankees will open a series, finds Skipper Joe Cronin and his merry men battling to get above the .500 mark—a new 1933 low, which they hit yesterday. It should be a left-handed game all around today, for Walter Stewart will twirl for the natives, with Bob Weiland due to get the call from Manager Marty McManus.

While the revamped Beaneaters are no set-ups, there is no question but that the Nats outclass them. It just happens that the resident hitters are not hitting right now and therein hangs the tale of two successive defeats. Fred Schulte boasts a .400 average, Manush is batting .333 and Bluege .300, but the figures of the other regulars look like the thermometer readings around the North Pole.

Goslin is there or thereabouts with .273, but Clean-up Man Joe Cronin can boast of nothing better than .143; Kuhel has a .182 at which to point, while Myer is rated at .227. Sewell's .053 is so near zero that it is hardly worth mentioning.

There is no question, though, but that there is hitting power in the Nat line-up and the team is likely to break out in a rash of hits most any day now—today, Skipper Cronin says. Once the boys start, they probably will do much better.

Whitney Star Gets Nose Decision

Silent Shot Second; Caesar's Ghost Is Third Home.

Field Horse, Modern Times, Easily Wins Fourth Race.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, April 18.—Starter James Milton should be credited with an assist whenever today's feature race at this course is mentioned. After refusing to release the barrier with the field of Derby and Preakness candidates in perfect alignment, Milton let the 3-year-olds start the mile-and-70-yard test with Poppyman shooting through the stall gate. With a two-length advantage thus gained, Poppyman, important stake winner of 1932, was never headed, winning by a scant nose from Silent Shot, with Caesar's Ghost another length and a half behind.

The race provided a double for the Mrs. John Hay Whitney forces and marked the return of Buddy Hanford to the winners' circle, but Gilbert and Silent Shot would have won under any ordinary circumstances.

Silent Shot, Hanford In Trouble.

The latter pair was squeezed going to the clubhouse turn, was buffeted on the back stretch and was forced to the outside at the swing for the stretch. But Silent Shot could not make up that last few inches. Ghost made several game attempts to catch the flying Poppyman, but the Brookmeade ace seemed to give up the chase at the furlong pole.

A crowd in the neighborhood of 8,000 saw the card run over a track, slow and sticky from the recent rains, but conditions overhead were ideal.

The second group of Derby and Preakness candidates fell before the Pompey influence which has been prominent here, making it a double for W. R. Coe's stable. Pompoleon, named for both classics, showed marked superiority over the field, dropping back to fifth at one stage and then picking up Rapscallion and Dark Winter in the stretch to win going away. Bally Bay and Star Porter were prominent for 3 furlongs. It was also a double for Jockey Johnny Bejshak.

Early Light Cops in Opener.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Early Light, which was wintered at nearby Benning, stepped home at the first asking after a limit field of unruly 2-year-olds gave Starter Milton a headache. Early Light took the lead from Miss Merriment, a long shot, at the furlong pole and was not extended thereafter. Third money went to Sun Clothing in the heavily played field. Hank Mills had the mount and it was his first winner of the Maryland season. The winner was luke warm in the betting and paid off at a $10.40 mutuel.

Old Baldy, which has a reputation for mudding it well, brought victory to the colors of W. R. Coe in the second race over the 6-furlong sprint distance. J. Bejshak had only to guide the big colt, which drew away at each sixteenth pole. Eva B. and Burning Feet did the chief chasing after Cattail gave up the ghost. Old Baldy was no secret, and paid $5.40 after winning by two lengths.

Modern Times, with Tipton up, scored an easy victory which marked the first time that the field has won here in the fourth race. The heavily-played Knee High was second and Airway third.

Uncovered and Cloudy Day battled for the lead for 5 furlongs before Modern Times moved ahead at the far turn and cakewalked home. Knee High was allowed to drop far out of it going to the clubhouse turn and she closed like an express train, too late.

Polar Brush scored a thrilling nose victory over White Thorn in the sixth race when both moved up in the stretch to pass the fast-tiring Revonah.

Potentate proved the best of platers contesting in the final. Alcman was second and Flying Max third.

WOMEN VIE IN POOL AT BUFFALO

Only Two Crowns to Be Defended Out of 9 Events.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 18 (A.P.).—More than 30 of the leading women swimming stars of the United States and Canada made final preparations today to lay siege to nine National A. A. U. senior titles tomorrow night in the pool of the Buffalo Athletic Club.

At least seven of the nine titles awarded by the A. A. U. will be won during the four-day meet as only Dorothy Poynton of Los Angeles, Calif., the lowboard diving champion, and the medley relay team of the Women's Swimming Association, of New York City, will defend their crowns.

Two title events are scheduled for each of the first three nights of the meet, while on Saturday three championships will be decided. Such outstanding performers as Miss Katherine Rawls, 16-year-old Fort Lauderdale, Fla., girl, who holds the outdoor medley and breast stroke titles; Ruth Kerr, of Windsor, Ont., Canadian backstroke champion; Leonore Kight and Anna Mae Gorman, of Homestead, Pa., and Helen Smith, Mary Shively and Marion Miles, of Indianapolis, have entered the free-style races.

In the back stroke, Miss Kerr will be hard pressed by Ethel Natridge, of Los Angeles, while Miss Poynton will find formidable opposition in the diving events from a 9-year-old mite, Mary Hoerger, of Miami, Fla.; Miss Rawls, Margaret Karson, and Elizabeth Harrison, both of New York, and Borghild Johannensen, of Detroit.

STEINKE SAYS HE'LL WHIP DUSEK

Battle Between Pair May Steal Show Tomorrow.

HANS STEINKE, the reformed German weight lifter, is through with being a preliminary boy, he said yesterday, and from now on it's going to be bigger and better bouts, or—maybe he'll try a few more preliminaries and then inaugurate his bigger and better campaign. Rudy Dusek figures in the muscular Dutchman's plans.

Hans says he'll throw the elder Dusek tomorrow night at the Auditorium as his first step in gaining recognition as a topliner. After that he plans to take on a few more men of recognized ability—Joe Savoldi, Londos and the other big shots.

Both Are Attempting Comeback.

The remaining bouts pit Everett Marshall against Tom Alley in the 45-minute semifinal; Vic Christy vs. Marshall Blackstock and Erne Dusek vs. Jim Henry in 30-minute preliminaries.

Ladies will be admitted free of charge if accompanied by a paying escort.

Kosowsky Stars In Title Mat Event

Jack Kosowsky's successful debut in the 135-pound ranks featured the opening night program of the District A. A. U. wrestling championships last night at the Boys Club. Twice winner of the 125-pound crown, Kosowsky won two bouts, throwing Bill Grabill, of Gallaudet, in 4:06, and Billy Vermillion in 3:15. The latter bout enabled him to enter the finals.

Jack Silverman, of the Jewish Community Center, gained the finals in the unlimited class through his twin victory over Campbell, of the Y. M. C. A., and Polkenhorn, unattached. He will meet Dr. William Cardwell for the title.

All of the bouts were closely contested and well received by the crowd. Today will be a holiday for the mat artists, and the champions will be crowned following the final bouts at the club tomorrow night.

125-POUND—Charles Isbell (Y. M. C. A.) threw Ray Huck (B. C.), 9:37; Wilson Carper (Y. M. C. A.) won from James Kalaitines (B. C.), decision.

135-POUND—J. Kosowsky (J. C. C.) threw William Grabill (Gallaudet), 4:06; William Vermillion (unattached) threw Nick Kossman (B. C.), 1:35; Robert Greenman (Gallaudet) threw Harry Hoppel (B. C.), 1:53; J. Kosowsky threw Vermillion, 3:15; Walton Lewis threw Greenman, 9:24.

145-POUND — Charles Pincus (unattached) threw Glen MacConnell (Gallaudet), 1:42; S. Wrzsooker (Y. M. C. A.) threw Steve Sills (J. C. C.), 3:54; Earl Sollberger (Gallaudet) threw Pincus, 1:42.

165-POUND—White (Y. M. C. A.) threw Whitestone (J. C. C.), 2:47; Armstrong (Y. M. C. A.) threw Michaelson (Y. M. C. A.), 2:16; Leonard (Y. M. C. A.) threw White, 1:09.

UNLIMITED—Silverman (J. C. C.) threw Campbell (Y. M. C. A.), 3:05; Silverman threw Polkenhorn (unattached), 9:55.

Flying Cadet, Goose Up, in Fast Trial

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 18 (A.P.).—Roscoe Goose, a leading jockey 20 years ago, got back into the saddle at Churchill Downs today in an effort to get some work out of Flying Cadet, one of the two Kentucky Derby eligibles he is training for Laffoon and Yeiser.

The gelding, known as some thoroughbreds are, for a distaste for workouts but willing enough in an actual race, responded impressively. After a gallop around the track accompanied by his stable mate, Shepherd Boy, with Willie Mitchell up, Flying Cadet was set into his stride at the three-quarter post two lengths ahead of Shepherd boy and under Goose's handling held his advantage to the wire.

Despite the sloppy track, Flying ahead of Shepherd Boy and under quarter; 0:50 for the half and 1:19 for the three-quarters. Both horses were well in hand throughout.

Knockaway in Brisk Mile Test.

Knockaway, Irish horse which recently showed well, was given a brisk one-mile test. Otherwise, other of the W. E. Smith's eligibles went half a mile with Knockaway in 0:52 2/5. Knockaway covered the quarter in 0:25 2/5; half in 0:51 2/5; three-quarters in 1:19 1/5, and mile in 1:50.

Interpreter, given his first workout here since he finished third in the Camden handicap at Lexington last Saturday, worked the quarter in 0:24 4/5 and the half in 0:51 2/5.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAVRE DE GRACE, APRIL 18.

Three winners today—Old Baldy, Pompoleon, Polar Brush—and two others second. In the latter group was my exclusive long shot, Miss Merriment. She gave the boys a run for the money and rewarded at $13.60 to place. Mike's girl friend, Marie, dug up a tip on Rebel Yell in the first race, but the filly is far down the list. Burned the landlady's best oil lamp tonight in an effort to bring to the surface some playable horses for tomorrow. Here are the fruits of my best efforts. BILL.

FIRST RACE—It is doubtful if KAY C will ever get as cheap a field in this section. The Canter filly worked fairly often in Florida and ran an encouraging race there behind Flower Day. Might be the day. The ROCK SUN and RUSTIC LADY combination may figure. FAIR CLARK for the show end.

SECOND RACE—STAND PAT has been trained to a T at Pimlico and is raring to take a purse, I'm told. Is coupled with BRIGHT HAVEN, which is among the also eligibles as the Corning-Sage entry. The last named was third here opening day. JUBAL, second here, may do as well tomorrow. STIMULAW for third.

THIRD RACE—AEGIS was a consistent animal in Florida. Was there or thereabouts each start. It's reported in top shape and shouldn't miss this opportunity for a purse. GLORIFY makes her first start as a three-year-old and will figure. WISE COUNT for the rest.

FOURTH RACE—RUSH HOUR is the logical play here. Showed a neat effort in being second to Ladyaman at this course. With that race under his saddle strap, he should do a lot of running tomorrow. POMPONIUS and CROWNING GLORY

MALLOY AND SEAY LOW WITH 74'S IN ROCK CREEK OPEN

80 Is Cracked By But 12 in Big Field

Pairings Are Listed, With Match Play on at 8 A. M. Today.

GEORGE MALLOY, slim, red-headed young public links champion, and W. W. Seay yesterday clicked off eighteen-hole rounds of 74 each, to tie for first prize in the qualifying round of the Rock Creek open tournament, which will move into the match-play stage this morning.

Malloy and Seay outstripped a field of close to 100 contestants during the day of golf that saw only twelve of the contestants crack 80. A sound player from tee to green, Malloy negotiated the A course in 35 strokes, and toured B in 39—the identical figures for each side turned in by Seay. Both encountered trouble on the 435-yard fifteenth, where each required 6 strokes. They were 7 above par for the route.

They will play off for medal honors after the tournament ends.

75's for Connally, Bennie And Saunders.

John Connally, Ralph Bennie and M. Saunders, with 75s each, were hot on the heels of the medalists, while Ted Burrows, one of the favorites, and W. E. Robinson, crashed through with 77s each. In the 78 group were W. Hurd and L. K. Downey, while John Downey, the long-hitting amateur star of the 1932 National Capital Open, disappointed his followers by soaring to a 79, the same score reported by Matt Walker and F. C. York.

The rest of the entrants played in the 80 circle and above. Volney Burnett, winner of the "Uptown" Tournament, failed to make the first sixteen. Tied with four others with 80 each, Burnett lost in the raw. Even Larry Day, the noted marathon golf champion, failed to make the grade, taking an 82.

Have Same Total On Each Nine.

WASHINGTON-LEE HIGH WINS

Although outhit by its opponent, Washington-Lee High School scored a 12-10 victory over Manassas High School in a loosely played game yesterday at Ballston, Va. Joe Vla and Joe Eaton led the victors at bat. Gilroy, of the visitors, poled a homer.

BRITT VS. BASS.

Sammy Britt, former Marine boxer, who is under Charlie Quigley's management, will fight Sylvan Bass, Goldie Ahearn's young middleweight protege from New York, in the eight-round semiwindup of the boxing card, which the Melrose Club will stage tonight.

TENNIS BODY MEETS.

Members of the Washington Tennis Association will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at Wardman Park Hotel to elect officers and discuss matters pertaining to the approaching season. Plans for the annual City of Washington tournament, which will open May 13, also will be discussed. All members are urged to attend.

SHOVELED SELF INTO CONDITION.

DRAWN FROM GRID SQUAD.

Marathon

253 Ready in Boston for Start of 36th Running at Noon Today.

BOSTON, April 18 (U.P.).—A pistol will crack at high noon tomorrow and the thirty-sixth running of the Botson A. A. Marathon will start over a slightly altered course from a point near Lucky Rock Manor, Hopkinton, just 26 miles 385 yards from the finish at the B. A. A. Clubhouse in Boston's Back Bay.

A surprisingly large field of 253 competitors had entered tonight, somewhat short of the record 288 entrants in the Olympic year, 1928. It included most of the seasoned veterans, of whom Clarence H. De Mar, Keene, N. H., school teacher, seven times winner, is one of the most seasoned. A. L. Monteverde, of Mays Landing, N. J., tops him. He is 60 and has competed in 103 Marathons. De Mar is 44 and will start in this particular race for the fifteenth time.

For old time's sake, Clarence is a favorite this year. He finished seventeenth in the last race and his last victory was in 1930. He listed himself tonight as one of the five favorites, but refused to pick Paul De Bruyn, German winner of the 1932 Marathon and one of the four former winners who have entered. De Bruyn boasts of training on beer, and Clarence, a teetotaler, says the stocky German has grown fat. In addition, his feet have bothered him in preliminary runs.

De Mar's selections besides himself were: Leslie Pawson, Pawtucket, R. I. millhand, eighth last year, universal favorite this year because he has shown promise over shorter distances this spring; Whitey Michelsen, Millrose A. A., New York, never a B. A. A. winner, but first of the Americans to finish in the Olympic marathon; Willie Kyronen, Finnish-American A. C., New York, third place last year, always a threat; Johnny Semple, Lynn, tenth last year.

Jimmy Henigan, 1931 winner, who will soon be 42, finished second last year and may not finish at all tomorrow. Ankle trouble is expected to bother him.

Bill Kennedy, of Port Chester, N. Y., who won in 1917 and finished twenty-first last year, is the fourth former winner to enter.

One whom most of the favorites fear is Johnny McLeod, of New Waterford, N. S., who led the pack for 23 miles last year and collapsed with victory just over the last few hills.

Three members of last year's U. S. Olympic marathon team will compete. These are Michelsen, Henigan and Hans Oldag, of Buffalo, N. Y., winner of the 1932 Baltimore marathon.

The prospect of cloudy and cool weather was welcomed by most of the runners. De Mar prefers warmth.

Johnson Wins Rifle Title by Flip of Coin

Pinehurst, N. C. April 18 (A.P.).—Harry E. Johnson, of Haines City, Fla., with excellent shooting and the lucky flip of a coin, today added the North and South sixteen-yard rifle championship to the introductory target shoot title he won here yesterday.

The Florida and Southern champion broke 192 targets out of 200 to tie with R. C. Coffey, of Prarie City, Iowa., the vice president of the amateur trapshooting association. After two 25 bird shootoffs failed to settle the supremacy, Johnson won the flip of a coin for the class A trophy.

Ridgewise Wins to Pay $6.06 at Lexington

Lexington, Ky., April 18 (A.P.).—Ridgeview Farm Stable's Ridgewise, winner of the Ben Ali Handicap opening day, repeated that smashing performance to score his second victory of the meeting in the Shandon Farm Purse, an allowance affair, which headlined today's otherwise mediocre card.

At the finish the son of Wise Counsellor and Beulah Stone enjoyed a length advantage over Calumet Farm Stable's Warren Jr., which in turn led J. W. Parrish's Isaiah. Although not named for the Kentucky Derby himself, Ridgewise led home four candidates for the Churchill Downs classic, including Warren Jr., Isaiah, J. Conley's My Blaze and G. Collins' Thistle Play. Ridgewise, second choice, paid $6.06 on a $2 investment. He covered the Futurity course over the sloppy track in 1:16.

IRVING BEATS VAN; POUNDS OUT DECISION

over the Jacksonville clown, Jimmy Reed. The verdict was unanimous. Manley struck the hardest blows, and Reed acted his usual part, that of hitting and laughing and finally sitting on the ropes to await the decision.

DIXIE NINE LISTS DRILL.

All members of the Dixie Products Nine are requested to report for practice today at 3 o'clock. Sunday the team will meet the Costello Post and Park A. C. teams.

Hitting the Headpin

SAULLY HARRISON'S 389 led the Cool's Drinks to victory last night at the Arcadia Alleys where the beverage boys won their second consecutive Columbia Heights League title. Micotto's 162 game was high. Ambassador Laundry has a 610 game and Cool's rolled a 1,770 set.

Lucky Strike rolled 602 game and 1,779 set and took three from the Rinaldi Tailors in the National Capital League at Lucky Strike. Lake's 134 game and 369 set was high.

Rawson's 139 and 344 topped the Supervising Architect's loop at Lucky Strike. Victoriane had a 1,579 set and Orientals a 572 game.

Evelyn Viehmeyer's 121 and 312 scores were high in the Ladies' Eastern Star League. The Joseph Milans Team rolled 530 and 1,520 to top the teams.

Stenographic won the Internal Revenue Ladies' League, which concluded its season last night at the Columbia Alleys. S. A. C. rolled a 481 game and 1,406 set, and Eleanor Daley took individual game with 131 while Miss Fox rolled the best set, 306.

Golf Tourney Draws 111 Women

District's Best Compete in Memorial at Wash. C. C.

THE first outstanding event of the seasotn for golfers of the Women's District of Columbia Golf Association—the Phylis Keeler Miller memorial championship—will be staged this morning at the Washington Golf and Country Club, with a field of 111 players entered.

Play will commence at 8:30 o'clock, with Mrs. Harrison Brand, Mrs. Frank R. Keefer and Mrs. Douglas Tschiffley teeing off first. Other threesomes will follow at five-minute intervals.

Best D. C. Golfwomen Entered.

Every outstanding woman golfer in the District is entered in this 18-hole medal handicap event won last year by Mrs. A. S. Gardiner, jr., of Columbia, who will be unable to defend her title this year due to illness.

A number of the entrants took advantage of practice rounds yesterday. Mrs. Alma Von Steinner, of Congressional, reported a 96, and Mrs. Tschiffley, 1932 runner-up, and Mrs. Keefer were below the 100 mark.

It was also announced that entries will be received today at the course for the Mrs. Frank Royer Keefer tournament to be held at Chevy Chase on May 1 and 2.

St. John's Preps Golf Team Beats Gonzaga

St. John's Prep golfers yesterday took a 5 to 1 match from Gonzaga in the Prep School League.

The match between Ortman and Berberich was the feature. The latter was 5 up and 7 to go when Ortman brought St. John's colors home in front by rallying and squaring the match on the seventeenth green and then winning it on the home hole. He scored a 36 on the last nine.

Stanley (St. J.) defeated Preston, 8 and 6; O'Leary (St. J.) defeated Jannis, 8 and 6; best ball—St. John's, 8 and 6. (St. John's, 3 points.)

Ortman (St. J.) defeated Berberich, 1 up; Sullivan (St. J.) defeated Merkle, 3 and 2; best ball—Gonzaga, 6 and 5. (St. John's, 2 points; Gonzaga, 1 point.)

UNIONISTS TO MEET MAJESTICS.

The Federal Employe Unionists will engage Majestic Radio Saturday afternoon at 3 p. m. on the west ellipse diamond and on Sunday have booked the Stadium Nine for a clash on No. 3 at 1 p. m. In order to prep for the two tilts, Pilot Mattare has ordered all candidates out for a drill at 5 p. m. today on the east ellipse, and intends to cut his squad early next week.

Son of Costello Valley Forge Star

JOHN F. COSTELLO, JR.

A Washington youth is making a reputation for himself in athletics at the Valley Forge Military Academy, Wayne, Pa. He is John F. Costello, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Costello, of 3149 Newark street northwest. Mr. Costello is the Democratic national committeeman from the District of Columbia.

Cadet Costello is known at the academy as one of the fastest moving boys ever entered there. He won his letters on the varsity basket ball team, playing guard, and was one of the high scorers.

He is out for the track team and runs the 100 and 220. Coach Hamilton Crowell says Costello gets away from the mark faster than any boy who has run for the academy. He also played company football.

2 MD. TEAMS WILL INVADE ANNAPOLIS

Expecting to Lose on Track; Hoping for Lacrosse Win.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND'S lacrosse and track teams will invade Annapolis Saturday to oppose like Navy combinations with the hope for an even break.

However, it will have to be the Old Line stickmen who will bring home the bacon if Maryland is to glean 50 per cent of the spoils. While the track squad will make it interesting for the Middies in some of the events it has only a faint chance of winning and this places it squarely up to the stickmen who will go into the game on an even basis.

First Game on Regular Schedule.

It will be Maryland's first lacrosse game of the regular schedule, although the Johns Hopkins Varsity Club and Mount Washington, both of Baltimore, have been outscored in practice tilts, 4 to 1 and 3 to 2, respectively.

Earl Widmyer, Old Line soph sprinter, is favored to win both the dashes Saturday and Bob Sonen and Ed Quinn also will furnish plenty of opposition in the 100 and 220. Warren Evans, Bob Archer and Ed Quinn in the 440 are other Marylanders likely to win, but the Old Liners will be the underdogs in all other events on the track card.

Widmyer has won both the dash events in three straight dual meets, doing the 100 in 9.9 and the 220 in 22.3 on a wet track against V. M. I. at Lexington early in the month. Evans, Archer and Quinn ran in that order in the 440 against Richmond U. last Saturday, right on each others heels. And despite the easy win the time was 50.6.

Sothoron Again Faces Middies.

Maryland will have practically the same attack against Navy in the lacrosse title as started last year's winning 4-to-2 game, but Sothoron will be the only 1932 defense regular to face the Middies.

Rombro is the only soph in the defense, all the others being from the 1932 reserves. Vincent, reserve last spring, is the only newcomer to the regular attack.

Caras and Ponzi Here Today for Cue Match

Jimmy Caras and Andrew Ponzi, two of the world's leading cueists, will meet this afternoon and tonight at the Lewis & Krauss parlors in a match that will be more than a mere exhibition. Two blocks of 125 points are listed, with trick and fancy shot exhibitions following each match.

Caras is the Wilmington, Del., youngster who upset the dope by finishing second to Champion Ralph Greenleaf in the last championship event. In doing so he not only nosed out Ponzi but also beat him when they met in the tournament. As a result, the veteran is out to avenge this defeat, while the youngster is equally determined to plaster another on Ponzi.

District "Y" to Meet Baltimore Swimmers

Meet between the local Y. W. C. A. and Baltimore Y. W. C. A. swimming teams has been arranged as a feature of the third monthly open swim night to be held by the local association in its pool Friday night. A meet for boys under 11 years of age has been arranged for the same night. Swim tickets will be awarded the winners.

Fifteen events are on the program, including both children's and adults' events. Florence Skadding Morris has arranged the meet.

Davis Cup Net Selections Made

Sutter, Van Ryn, Lott and Allison Will Meet Mexico.

BY STUART CAMERON.

NEW YORK, April 18 (U.P.).—Three veterans and one newcomer to top-flight tennis were named today to represent the United States in the opening 1933 Davis Cup tie with Mexico.

Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex.; John Van Ryn, of Orange, N. J., and George M. Lott, of Chicago, have years of experience in big tournaments behind them. Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, the fourth choice, has only recently won his way to the top.

The selection was announced by Bernon Prentice, chairman of the cup selection committee, who said that while no definite decision had been reached, it was expected that Allison and Sutter would play singles, with Lott and Van Ryn forming the doubles team. Prentice said Lott, Sutter and Van Ryn would leave White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., long a Davis Cup proving grounds, April 24, and arrive in Mexico City April 27. Allison will join the party at Houston. This schedule will allow the men a week in which to accustom themselves to Mexican courts, weather, food and water.

Team Should Have No Difficulty.

Mexico City is more than 7,000 feet above sea level and will offer a distinct atmospheric contrast to West Virginia. However, unless Mexico has undergone a tennis revolution the United States team should have no difficulty.

The naming of Allison, Sutter, Lott and Van Ryan surprised nobody. Allison, who performed creditably against France in the challenge round last year, both in singles and doubles, was assured a place on the team months ago. So was Van Ryn, who, with Allison, won the cup doubles last year.

It has been an open secret for months that the selection committee wanted Lott and Van Ryn to pair off this season, thus allowing Allison and Ellsworth Vines to concentrate on singles. Vines, Wimbledon and American champion, and recognized as the world's greatest singles player, will not join the squad until more formidable opposition than Mexico arrives.

Made His First Bid Last Fall.

Sutter made his first bid for cup recognition at Forest Hills last fall when he fought his way into the semifinals of the men's nationals. Although beaten by Vines in the fourth round, he twice was within one point of dethroning the Californian.

His first start this year was in the national indoor championships last month. Despite his unfamiliarity with indoor play he gained the first round and gave Gregory Mangin, defending champion, a tremendous battle in the deciding match.

Last week, with the selection committee watching from the sidelines, he stroked his way to victory in the North and South tournament at Pinehurst, N. C., overcoming a field that contained such men as Frank Shields, Sidney B. Wood, Mangin and Lott.

Argentine Names Three For Matches in Capital

Buenos Aires, April 18 (A.P.).—Three young dentists were selected tonight to represent Argentina in the interzone Davis Cup tennis finals to be played in the United States late in May at Washington, D. C.

Adrian Zappa, Americo Cataruzza and Adhelmar Echeverria, ranked, respectively, second, third and fifth in Argentina, were designated for the team which will meet the survivor of the North American zone competition among the United States, Mexico, Cuba and Canada.

Argentina had announced tentative decision some time ago to default because the first and fourth ranking players, Robson and Del Castillo, had found it impossible to make the trip. This decision was rescinded tonight and selection of the team followed.

Although the "dental brigade" does not expect to defeat the North American zone representatives, Argentina is counting on Zappa to make a strong showing in the singles, and, paired with Cataruzza, to provide plenty of competition in doubles as well.

RED SOX IN FINAL WITH NATS TODAY

Watwood and Johnson did some fancy skating in the outfield in the native first. The left-fielder fell while fielding Myer's double and then Johnson gave an encore in chasing for Manush's hot one. The center-fielder, however, let the ball get away from him for a two-base error.

Bluege and Myer showed some speed in negotiating a double-play in the second. It was the Nats' ninth to date, at least one having been made in every one of the six games played.

McManus came in fast to make a brilliant play on Manush's bunt opening the home third.

Johnson's liner in the fifth carried so much power that it almost knocked down Myer. He held on to the ball, though.

The Nats made an unusual play in the seventh. With Hodapp on first, Shea rolled to Whitehill. With a double-play in mind the pitcher wheeled and pegged to Myer to the left and back of the bag. The second baseman managed to relay the ball to Cronin on the sack in time to nip the runner.

Bob Kline participated in his fourth 1933 game for the Red Sox when he faced the Nats in the seventh, which means he has missed but one this season. Al Thomas made his third appearance for the Nats when he relieved Whitehill in the eighth.

Tennis Rankings Revised; Women Are Shifted Most

Only Change Among Men for 1932 List Is Addition of Five Players; New Personnel Not Subject to Change.

NEW YORK, April 19 (A.P.).—The ranking committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association today presented its revised list for 1932, which leaves untouched the first ten in both men's and women's singles, but shifts around considerably, especially among the women, the lower ranked players. No change was made in men's doubles.

The singles lists are headed by Ellsworth Vines and Helen Jacobs. Helen Wills Moody is unranked.

The committee made its first report in January, but at the general convention of the U. S. L. T. A. in February sought and received permission to withdraw its original list and seek further information on several players.

New List Not Subject to Change.

In making the request, Samuel Hardy, committee vice chairman, indicated there would be no change among the top flight players, and the convention granted the time extension, referring the list back to the committee "with power to act." The list presented today, therefore, is the official ranking, and not subject to change.

The only change among the men was the addition of five players not ranked in the first list. Elbert B. Lewis, of Los Angeles, was ranked 21, moving Jake Hess, of Houston, Tex., down to No. 22, and Karl Kamrath, also of Houston, was ranked No. 23 after Hess. Martin Buxby, of Miami; Robert Bryan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and John McDiarmid, of Fort Worth, Tex., were added, in that order to the end of the list, increasing the number of those ranked from 26 to 31.

Ten Women Are Added to List.

The shake-up reached higher and was more general among the women, ten previously unranked players being added to the list. Mianne Palfrey, of Brookline, Mass., was moved down from fourteenth to eighteenth in the list and Mae Ceurvorst, previously ranked fifteenth; Norma Taubelle, of New York; Bonnie Miller, of Los Angeles, and Grace Surber, of New York, were placed at Nos. 14, 15, 16 and 17. Other additions to the list were Carolyn Roberts, of New Rochelle, N. Y.; Mrs. Carolyn Hirsch, of New York, and Cecilia Riegel, of Philadelphia, at Nos. 22, 23 and 24. Mrs. C. E. Muhl and Helen Germaine, both of New York, at Nos. 26 and 27, and Alison R. Harrison, of Philadelphia, and Clara Louise Zinke, of Cincinnati, at Nos. 29 and 30.

Seeded Players Advance At White Sulphur Springs

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 18 (A.P.).—Seven of the eight quarter-final brackets in the men's singles division of the thirteenth annual Mason and Dixon tennis tournament were filled today without a break in the list of seeded players.

Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, winner of the North and South title at Pinehurst last week and favorite for the Mason and Dixon crown as well, again was idle and must play three matches tomorrow to catch up with the rest of the field.

All of the other seeded players advanced in straight sets, although Sidney B. Wood, blond New Yorker, who narrowly escaped defeat in the first round yesterday, was carried to deuce sets in both the second and third rounds. Moving into the quarter-finals with him were Berkeley Bell, Frank Shields, Marcel Rainville, Canadian Davis Cup player; J. Gilbert Hall, Lester Stoefen and Gregory Mangin.

Wood's second-round opponent, Elmer C. Griffin, of San Francisco, carried the New Yorker to a 9—7 count in the first set, but went down, 9—7, 6—4. A few hours later Wood took the courts again against Harley Shuford and won, 7—5, 6—4.

Rainville also played two matches but had few worries as he whipped Gerald F. Warburg, 6—0, 6—2, and G. Carlton Shafer, of Philadelphia, 6—4, 6—2.

Hall eliminated P. M. Johnston, 6—2, 6—2; Stoefen put out the veteran Fred C. Baggs, of New York, 6—1, 6—4; Bell came through in straight sets against Charles Lockhart, 6—1, 7—5; Shields conquered Armand Bruneau, of New York, 6—1, 6—2, and Mangin eliminated Richard O. Covington, 6—4, 7—5.

The pairings tomorrow will pit Shields against Rainville, Wood against Hall and Stoefen against Mangin.

Bell probably will face Sutter, assuming the southerner defeats his first two opponents, W. Lipman and Dr. Philip H. Hawk, of New York, former national veterans' singles champion.

Two favorites, Mrs. John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, and Florence Leboutillier, of Westbury, N. Y., won their first starts in the women's division. Mrs. Van Ryn eliminated Mrs. Barger Wallace Wallach, 6—1, 6—2, while Miss Leboutillier was putting out Mrs. Louis B. Reinhardt, of Chicago, 6—3, 6—0.

Western Golfers Crush Takoma-Silver Spring

Western High School scored a 4-to-2 victory over Takoma-Silver Spring High School in their match yesterday played at the Rock Creek course. The District school's margin of victory was in best ball play. Johnny Shea shot a sensational 75 for the outstanding score of the match. Murrell Whittlesey pitched a mashie shot to within 3 feet of the pin on the last hole, sinking his putt to win over Loveless by one stroke.

MARYLAND JUDGES SLASH OWN SALARY

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 8706 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone Shepherd 2363.

Judges of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, which embraces Montgomery and Frederick Counties, Md., have offered voluntarily to accept a 15 per cent cut in salary. The three judges, Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Associate Judges Arthur D. Willard and Charles W. Woodward, have written to the State comptroller, William S. Gordy, and instructed him to deduct the amount from their pay until further notice.

Judges Urner and Willard are from Frederick and Judge Woodward is from Montgomery County.

Pinchot Demands More Control Over Utilities

Harrisburg, Pa., April 18 (A.P.).—Reopening his 10-year utilities fight, Gov. Gifford Pinchot in a message to the Legislature last night demanded drastic strengthening of State control over public service companies.

He called upon the General Assembly to scrap legislation, now in course of enactment, in favor of a new Pinchot-sponsored bill which he said would prevent conditions such as those which led to "the collapse of Mr. Insull's watered empire."

50 Filipinos Seized In Liberty Protest

Labor Group Ignored Order Against Demonstration Before Advocates.

Ill Ill, P. I., April 18 (A.P.).—Fifty members of the local federation of labor were arrested yesterday when they ignored an official ruling and paraded in demonstration against the Philippine independence act.

The parade was held coincidental with the arrival from Manila of Senator Benigno Aquino and other advocates of acceptances of the act. Addressing a mass meeting, Senator Aquino questioned the sincerity of Manuel Quezon, President of the Philippine Senate and leading exponent of the act. Aquino read cables intended to show that Quezon approved the bill while it was being considered by Congress.

Allies of Quezon, who is heading a new independence mission now en route to Washington, D. C., plan a counter-demonstration here within a few days.

Doctor Is Ordered Out of Iowa Town

Judge Directs Expulsion Following Hearing on License Charge.

Waterloo, Iowa, April 18 (A.P.).—Arthur E. Trott, 52, of La Grande, Oreg., was escorted by police to the city limits yesterday after his acquittal in Municipal Court of a charge of practicing medicine without a license.

Judge Ben G. Howrey dismissed the case, but ordered Trott to leave the city at once.

John Fleetwood, Negro, testified he paid Trott $5 for salve. Trott admitted receiving the money, but denied he prescribed treatment.

Mrs. Willie Powell, who was in a coma for several days, testified Trott gave her a potion, but that she had not paid him anything.

A crowd of Negro women attempted to assault Trott as he was driven away in a police car.

Chancellor of Austria Says Italy Is Friend

Vienna, April 18 (A.P.).—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss said on his return by air from Rome yesterday that his conversations in the Italian capital had convinced him the Austro-Italian treaty of friendship signed in 1930 was "no mere formality" to Premier Mussolini.

He was certain, the chancellor said, that Austria now has "a friend in the south too, a friend on whom we can rely for help in overcoming our troubles and for support in international negotiations."

Experiment Nears For Army Rookies

Gen. Hagood Would First Teach Men to Lie Down in Trenches.

Omaha, Nebr., April 18 (A.P.).—A "new deal" may be in store for Army rookies if experimental work to be conducted in the Fourth Army zone by Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood meets with general approval.

A handbook of simplified training has been prepared by Gen. Hagood and Col. Forrest Williford, of Omaha. It revolutionizes methods of training fighting men, some of which have been accepted generally for hundreds of years.

"We would teach them to lie down in a trench before we teach them to stand at attention," Gen. Hagood said in explaining the system outlined in the new handbook. While in Washington testifying before the House Military Committee on possible Army reorganization, he received permission from the War Department to print 1,000 copies of the book for distribution and experimental use in the Fourth Army Area, of which he is commandant.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

MODERN sportsmen, equipped with high-powered repeating guns, can easily afford to build stationary blinds and lie in wait for game to come their way, but not so with the African native, who must kill with crude weapons. In hunting small game in tall grass, armed with nothing more than a club, one can not expect the game to come his way, nor can he scare it up—he must approach within striking distance.

One of the methods used in Africa is the bird-hat, as shown above. The native fashions an imitation bird head and neck from a stock of wood, which he attaches to a band worn about the head. Thus arrayed and equipped with a short club he moves slowly through the grass on hands and knees, pausing from time to time to move his head about, giving the decoy hat a lifelike motion. The head and neck of the wooden bird, of course, are all that can be seen above the grass.

Small game, including birds and wild hares, pay no attention to the hunter as he approaches close enough to make his kill with his club.

"Lucky," the German police dog that swam down the Hudson from Albany to New York City in 44 hours and 17 minutes, total elapsed time, broke the human swimmers' record for the trip. The record held then was that of George A. Creegan, who made the swim in 50 hours.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE STRANGE CASE OF SENATOR PHOOTLE.

THEY cornered Senator Phineas Phootle in one of the coatrooms, after he had caused a furore in the Senate by suddenly standing on his head on a chair, shouting for a field goal and then, dashing through the building, crying, "Gangway! I'm the first robin!"

"Easy, old man," urged an associate. "You know us, don't you?"

"Sure, I know you. You're an allotment plan. And that fellow with you is regional development. Whoopee! Let's dance."

* * * *

THE senator broke away and climbed up into an open window before he could be grabbed again.

"Lissen, Phootle!" implored an old friend, quite distressed.

"Go away!" roared the senator. "I know you. You're the Tennessee Valley reclamation plan. How are all the little Shoals? Say, who knows the tune of 'Little Annie Rooney?' "

"Calmness by Government legislation!" yelled Senator Phootle, trying to light a match with a cigar. "And a guaranty against losses! Who's got a piano? I want to play the Federal reforestation number from Moley."

* * * *

"Don't touch me!" roared Phootle. "Shush! Quiet, please! I'm coordinating industry. Who's got $500,000,000? Get me a violin."

"What do you want a violin for?" asked a friend, gently.

"I wanna regulate production and consumption. I've gotta control the hours of labor, the price of products and the output of goods. Who's that feller in the pink tights?"

"There's nobody here in pink tights," his friends assured Phootle.

"I see him," insisted the Senator. "You can't fool me. It's a $10,000,000,000 public works program, deductible at the source and all mortgages subject to an allotment plan named Charlie. You remember Charlie . . . he married a sister of Muscle Shoals on his cousin's side. Lissen!"

* * * *

"WHAT is it, Senator? Try to be calm."

"Where's my inflation?"

"Your what?"

"My inflation. I had it a minute ago. It's subsidized. It's around the corner! And it will cost only $8,000,000,000. We can pay for it through a bond issue. Look at what it will mean in the price of wheat alone? Who wants wheat alone? I'll take mine with saussages."

"There, there now!" soothed a colleague. "Here's the doctor. He'll fix everything. You'll be all right in no time."

"Okay," said Senator Phootle, now quite exhausted. "Tell him most of the pain is in the R. F. C. And shake me up a $5,000,000,000 public works program with plenty of kilowats.

Efficiency Defined.

Mr. Farley says that all efficient postmasters will be retained. An efficient postmaster is a postmaster who lost no time in getting to the polls and voting the straight Democratic ticket with a minimum waste of motions.

It must make Col. Ruppert's face red when he, as one of the brewers who predicted a good glass of beer for 5 cents, strolls through his own baseball park and observes the sale of Ruppert's beer at 15 cents per. And in cocktail glasses!

Hine Instructor Is Hurt by Auto

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Clark Seriously Injured Near Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Mr and Mrs. W. Frank Clark, of the Rochambeau Apartments, 815 Connecticut avenue, were seriously injured early yesterday in an automobile accident near Poughkeepsie, N. Y., according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Mrs. Clark, who is 64, was the more seriously hurt. Her condition was described as critical at a Poughkeepsie hospital last night. Mr. Clark, 66, is an instructor at the Hine Junior High School here.

State police arrested Douglas D. Howe, 30, of Millbrook, N. Y., as driver of the machine which collided with the Clark car. He was charged with driving while intoxicated. The Clarks left Washington several days ago to visit friends in Vermont.

Telegram Says Amnesia Victim Is Pittsfield Man

A telegram from Pittsfield, Mass., received here yesterday stated that the elderly man who wandered into police headquarters here April 9, a victim of amnesia, is William Adams, of the Massachusetts city.

The man has been under observation at Gallinger Hospital and police have sought to identify him through Nation-wide lookouts.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

Excessive speed entails a double liability. In addition to the risk of collision, with its attendant loss of property and in many cases life, costs of operation of motor vehicles increase at high speeds.

Careful studies of fuel consumption have indicated that at a mile-a-minute speed gasoline consumption is greater. Oil and tires also show greater wear at high speeds.

Deaths	33	20
Injuries	1,097	1,006
Accidents	2,349	2,256

COLBY LETTER READ AT MEETING AGAINST SOVIET RECOGNITION

Dr. Walsh, Fish, Green and Legion Commander All Denounce Russia.

The Wilsonian attitude toward Soviet Russia was in effect urged on the Roosevelt administration last night by Bainbridge Colby, wartime Secretary of State, in a letter read to a mass meeting of 5,000 persons held at Washington Auditorium in protest against recognition by the United States of the Moscow government.

Former Secretary Colby's letter was read by Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, under which organization's auspices the meeting was staged with the cooperation of 150 other patriotic, religious and labor organizations.

Augmenting the Colby letter, Representative Hamilton Fish, jr., of New York, the Rev. Dr. Edmund Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University, recognized authority on Russian political affairs, and President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, attacked the proposal to recognize the Soviet.

The Colby missive maintained that the original refusal of the United States to recognize the Soviet was "predicated upon the fact that Russia was an enemy State."

Speakers Score Recognition.

"To concede recognition as a friend," the letter stated, "to a nation that protests she is not a friend, but on the contrary is dedicated to the overthrow of our institutions and sworn to conspire against our peace and security, is unthinkable."

All of the speakers agreed the Soviet is in direct opposition to American institutions and contended prophesies of economic benefits through recognition were fallacious.

Father Walsh declared that the Soviet theory "proposes, as a government policy, to abolish universally every shred of the democratic ideal embodied in the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States, and the Bill of Rights."

"That is the plain meaning of Section 1, paragraph 9," continued Father Walsh, "of the Soviet constitution, which affirms that what has been accomplished in Russia is a 'decisive step toward the union of the toilers of all countries into one World Soviet Socialist Republic.' "

Fish Raps Brain Trust.

Fish launched into his speech by saying that Raymond Moley, Assistant Secretary of State, "a member of the 'brain trust,' together with Mr. Tugwell and Mordecai Ezekiel, is reported, in yesterday's papers, as 'studying the question of recognition.' "

"He is seeking grounds," Fish said, "on which it could be shown that recognition would be especially beneficial to the United States. If he succeeds within the next eight weeks the President will informally approach the Soviet government on the question. I would like to inquire—beneficial to whom? The Communists, Socialists, pink intellectuals and certain elements in Wall street, including the Chase National Bank, unless the new management has had a change of heart."

The opposition of organized labor was presented by Mr. Green, who declared in part:

'Labor holds that the preservation of the principles of self-government, the right to live unmolested, without the threat and menace of world revolutions, is of greater value than the creation of material wealth or the enjoyment of profits gained through the sale of goods to a foreign nation."

Radicals Take Notes.

The entire Police Post of the District American Legion, headed by Commander Horace Lineberg, attended and acted as ushers. Every post in the District had its colors massed on the speakers' platform.

Several known "radicals" were present, but were allowed to take copious notes without molestation. There was no heckling.

Among the 5,000 gathered were many delegates to the D. A. R. Congress, which was also officially represented.

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo and the benediction said by the Rabbi J. T. Loeb. Mrs. S. A. Blackburn led the gathering in the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Commander Johnson presided and delivered a keynote address stressing the legion's opposition to recognition

Rescue of Horse, in River 2 Hours, Baffles Throngs

Post Staff Photos.

Is Towed to Virginia Side as Seawall Proves Unscalable.

By WHEELER JOHNSON.

It was four days before Saturday, but Raymond, 11 years old, got his bath yesterday. It was probably the most public bath taken in the Capital in many a long day, and after an hour of it Raymond gave no evidence of enjoyment.

Raymond is the patient, plodding horse of all work, owned by Washington Towell, colored, of East Arlington, Va. For several weeks he has been leased to the Government, hitched to a lawn mower piloted by Robert Brown, colored, also of East Arlington.

Raymond and Robert were calmly mowing away on the quiet banks of the Potomac near the polo field yesterday. They had no intimation at 11 o'clock of the splash which would be heard around the town 15 minutes later.

They cut quite a swath on the river bank there alone, and then Robert attempted to turn Raymond. Raymond had other ideas. He started to back down the bank toward the high cement sea wall.

"Whoa! Whoa!" yelled Robert.

Raymond gave no evidence of having heard. He continued to back. In that terrifying minute Robert deserted the craft. An instant later there was an awe-inspiring splash.

Raymond gasped—or gave the equine equivalent to, it—the cold muddy water closed about him. Then he came to the surface, shook the water out of his eyes and freed himself of the wrecked lawn mower. He struck out for the Virginia shore.

Almost to the channel, Raymond decided that his home in Virginia was too far away and turned again to the District side and stood by the seawall while Robert grasped the bridle.

Private Robert Howe, of the park police, appeared and put in a call for his headquarters. It was decided that the rescue squad was not properly equipped. Harbor Precinct was called and a hurry call was sent out for a derrick. By this time the inevitable crowd began to collect.

The derrick finally showed up, but snorted off the paved road and instantly mired down hub deep.

Then the rescuers called for truck loads of planks to walk Raymond out of the bath. But that plan proved unsatisfactory.

Next the American Automobile Association sent a smaller truck and simultaneously a patrol boat from Harbor Precinct arrived. Sergt. C. C. Humphries took charge of the rescue. By this time it was well toward noon and the crowd was getting larger. Raymond had been in an hour, too, and his energy was well nigh exhausted.

Well, not to harrow you with details, after Sergt. Humphries had fashioned a sling under Raymond's body, the business of hauling Raymond up on the bank was started in earnest.

But the sling broke and Raymond splashed back.

Then he decided to save himself and started to swim the river again, but a bunch of newspaper photographers in small boats headed him off.

About 1 p. m. Sergt. Humphries decided the only method was to tow Raymond across the river, guided by the patrol boat.

MOON IS REELECTED BY CATHOLIC GROUP

Peace of Nations Depends Upon People, Dr. Hayes Tells Conference.

Parker T. Moon, of Columbia University, was reelected president of the Catholic Association for International Peace at the concluding conference yesterday at Catholic University. Mrs. George E. Brennan, of Chicago, and the Rev. Charles Miltner, of Notre Dame University, were elected vice presidents. Dr. Marie R. Madden, of Fordham University, was relected treasurer, and Mrs. Elizabeth B. Sweeney, executive secertary.

Only through efforts on the part of the people themselves will harmony and peace be realized between nations, Dr. Carlton J. H. Hayes declared at the seventh annual session.

Public opinion and not statesmen were responsible for the World War, Dr. Hayes asserted. He added that there is more nationalism and seeking after national prestige in the world today than existed in 1914.

"The individual has the responsibility of improving international relations," Dr. Hayes said. "It will be a slow and tedious accomplishment, and it must come through education."

Efforts of various Popes, from Leo XIII to the present one, to promote peace and arbitration, were recited by Dr. William F. Roemer in a paper read by Father Bolger, of Notre Dame University.

In a discussion of the Gondra treaty of 1923, Herbert Wright declared that the present difficulties between Bolivia and Paraguay might have been avoided if the treaty had been ratified.

The opinion that tariffs, with a few minor exceptions, are not the protection they are supposed to be but rather a delusion, was expressed by the Rev. John A. Ryan, professor of economics at Catholic University. In setting up tariffs, nations have gone temporarily crazy, he said, adding that tariffs, generally speaking, are immoral.

Pioneer Resident Tells Of Capital Life in 50's

Life in Washington from the early fifties to the close of the Civil War was described last night by William D. Beall, of 2119 California street northwest, one of Washington's oldest residents, at the 271st meeting of the Columbia Historical Society in the Cosmos Club assembly hall.

Mr. Beall's story was read to the audience by Allen C. Clark, president of the society.

Mrs. Ernest R. Grant and Mrs. Blair Bannister Two Women Boosted.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Those interested in local politics and patronage are beginning to wonder if President Roosevelt and his close advisers are not giving the National Capital a new lesson in politics. Their wondering is born of the fact that apparently no one knows who will be named District Commissioners nor when—or rather, the emphasis should be put the other way round, many believe their favorites are getting serious and favorable consideration and are happy in the thought.

The name of another dark horse has bobbed into the public eye. The man in question is George E. Allen, who has been the successful head of the operating end of the Wardman Properties, which has operated some of the large hotels in the District since he came to make his home in the District five or six years ago.

Graduate of Tennessee.

Mr. Allen is a native of Mississippi, is a lawyer who was graduated from University of Tennessee, is a nephew of Private John Allen, who won many friends in the course of his public service and formerly was the directing head of the Congress Hotel in Chicago.

In the course of the last campaign Mr. Allen was head of the hotel men's Democratic organization and came in close contact with many of the leaders of the party, several of whom are said to have united to advance his name, although Mr. Allen and his friends say he is not a candidate in the usually accepted sense of the word and has not and will not make any active campaign for the post.

The name of another woman has been thrown into the ring. It is that of Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, who has been active in Washington society and civic work, having been head of the antituberculosis society.

About Mrs. Bannister.

Friends of Mrs. Blair Bannister, widely known in Washington and sister of the powerful Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, have risen in arms against criticism of her by opponents. Her friends are willing to admit that Mrs. Bannister did not want to see Al Smith nominated in 1928, but add with spirit that she was not alone in feeling that way and that her brother, Senator Glass, went down the line for the party nominee, although he knew in doing so he was taking his political life in his hands. Senator Glass' campaign for Mr. Smith was one of the highlights of the 1928 campaign. The fiery, untrammeled Virginian bearded the leaders of his church in their own bailiwick and not only stumped Virginia but other States for the party nominee.

Although not in favor of the Smith nomination, Mrs. Bannister's friends say, she did not vote for Hoover, and, in fact had lived so long in the District that she was not eligible to vote had she wanted to do so, has never voted the Republican ticket and did not take the stump for Mr. Hoover. The Democratic magazine which she published was not suspended when Mr. Smith was nominated and did not suspend until three years later when the business depression hit the publication's advertising columns.

Thankless Task.

Whether a woman will be named District Commissioner is doubtful. Mrs. Bannister's friends picture her as willing to take the post if it is offered, but say she is not making any drive for the post. Senator Glass is said to have privately expressed an opinion that the commissionership is a thankless post, the occupant of which is a target for all sorts of criticism and abuse from almost every quarter, whether the abuse is deserved or not. Senator Glass, however, certainly would not oppose Mrs. Bannister's appointment, and if she were nominated there seems no doubt she would be confirmed by the Senate.

Just when action will be taken on local appointments remained in doubt yesterday. Postmaster General James Farley was represented as finding it difficult to get around to the process of elimination preparatory to taking the question up with the President. Meanwhile everybody is, or believes themselves to be, pretty much in the running.

Bank and Conservator Named in $25,000 Suit

The Franklin National Bank and Thomas P. Hickman, conservator, yesterday were named defendants in a suit in District Supreme Court brought by Daly Bros., Inc., of 935 Hughes court northwest, to establish the ownership of $25,000 in Fourth Liberty loan bonds, now in possession of Mr. Hickman.

Through Attorneys Paul V. Rogers and William E. Purey, Daly Bros. contended it had given the bank orders to purchase the bonds on February 28, 1933. In compliance with their order, they said, the bonds had been purchased, and had been paid for by them. Despite this, it was alleged, Mr. Hickman refused to deliver the bonds to the firm, although they were bought for the firm's account and were fully paid for before the bank was placed in the hands of the conservator.

Reichelderfer Predicts Tubercular Sanitarium

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the Board of District Commissioners, yesterday expressed the view that a new hospital for adult tuberculosis patients is needed in the District and predicted that such a project would be provided as soon as the funds could be found. Such a plan was in mind, he said, when extra land was bought for the site of the Children's Tuberculosis Sanitarium, now under construction at Buena Vista, Md.

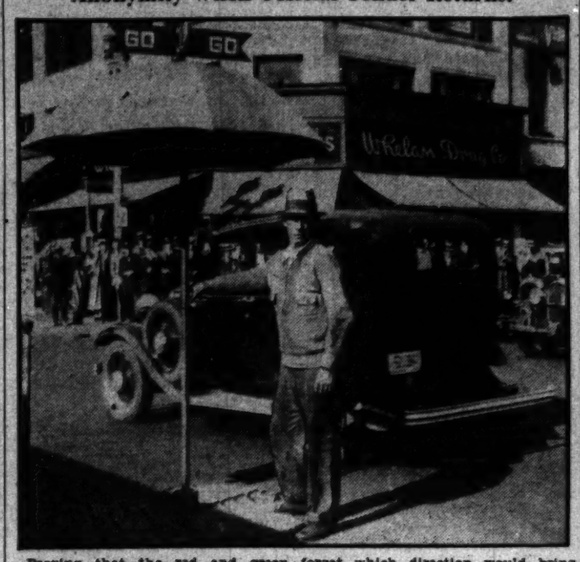
Adult tubercular patients are now cared for as far as possible at the Tuberculosis Hospital at Fourteenth and Upshur streets and at Gallinger Hospital.

Notre Dame Play Postponed.

The Notre Dame alumni play, "Sampson's Honeymoon," which was to have been given tonight at Gonzaga High School, has been postponed, it was announced last night. The date on which play will be given will be announced later.

Shows How to Rule Traffic

Civilian Takes Over Semaphore at Busiest Corner, Efficiently Guides Flow, Then Steals Away Into Anonymity When Official Tender Returns.



Proving that the red and green arms of the traffic semaphores have all the authority of a gleaming shield upon the left breast of a blue uniform, an unidentified man stood beneath the umbrella at the intersection of Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest and successfully directed traffic for approximately ten minutes late yesterday afternoon while the appointed guardian of the law pursued a woman traffic violator a block away.

With majestic dignity the self-appointed dictator commanded street cars, automobiles, taxis and pedestrians to stop and go with graceful swings of the traffic standard's handle, supplemented with an authoritative hand. Occasionally he seemed to forget which direction would bring the "stop" sign into view and would emerge from the shelter of the canopy to cast a reassuring glance above.

Although the lack of an official whistle handicapped him to some extent, the unknown amateur controlled the conflicting traffic streams with the ease and results of a professional. He even assumed the most sacred prerogatives of a traffic "cop" and proceeded to give an appropriate "boiling out" to one taxi driver who, noticing the lack of uniform, attempted to disregard a stop signal. Observing the rapid approach of the official guardian of the intersection, however, he retired with a rapid gait into the anonymity from which he had emerged.

CABMAN SAVES GIRL FROM SPAN PLUNGE

Snatched from certain death as she clung by her fingertips from the center span of Taft Memorial Bridge last night, 12-year-old Dorothy Gates, blue-eyed schoolgirl, was rescued from an admitted attempt to end her life on the asphalt surface of the roadway, 200 feet below.

A cruising taxi driver, Albert Hands, of 905 G street northeast, on the alert for fares, saw the youngster climb atop the bridge railing and lower herself to the outer edge of the middle span. He raced half the length of the bridge, stopped his cab, leaped out and vaulted to the railing.

Horror stricken, Hands saw little Dorothy hanging over the side, clinging with white-tipped fingers to the side of the bridge. Her eyes closed and face stained with tears, she seemed ready to release her grip just as he reached over and grabbed her wrist.

Hands lifted the child over the rail, placed her in his cab and drove to the far end of the bridge. There he found Policeman Murt Gary, of the Seventh Precinct. Together they took Dorothy to the Tenth Precinct Station.

After admitting she intended to jump to her death, the now badly frightened little girl was taken to the Women's Bureau, where kindly policewomen summoned her mother, Mrs. Genevieve Gates, of 3410 Twentieth street northwest.

Questioned as to why she meant to end her life, Dorothy sobbed that "bad marks in school and a disagreement with her family" had prompted her act. She promised never again to attempt such a thing, and was released in custody of her mother.

The bridge was deserted when the child climbed over the railing, and had it not been for the alert taxi driver, police said, she would have probably carried out her plan.

Driver Reports Robbery By Two Other Motorists

Frank Dermid, 1424 R street northwest, reported to police last night that he was forced to the curb on S street near Fourteenth street northwest yesterday afternoon by two colored men, who robbed him of a suit of clothes valued at $22.50, his watch, worth $20 and $2 in cash.

42 POLICEMEN FACE FORCED RETIREMENT

Brown, Under Economy Act, Also Sees Holiday on Replacements.

Forty-two policemen who were recently examined by the Board of Police and Fire Surgeons and found to be in physical class C face retirement in the interest of economy, necessitated by the reduced District budget, it was learned yesterday. The group includes five lieutenants, five detective sergeants and one uniformed sergeant, but no police officer above the rank of lieutenant.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, stated that there will probably be no promotions or replacements by newly recruited men to fill vacancies. The men facing retirement were among a group of 96 above the age of 55 who were examined by the board of surgeons.

The policemen will be given a hearing by the Police Retirement Board before a final notice of retirement. Maj. Brown stated that although there may be no promotions in grade, acting lieutenants and sergeants might be created.

Official of the Police Retirement Fund, formed several years ago, asserted yesterday that the wholesale retirements contemplated would impoverish their organization. They are seeking the proceeds of the annual Police and Fireman's baseball game to replenish their treasury. This fund has in the past years been used for relief of destitute police families, but the fund for this purpose was said to be ample to take care of all immediate needs.

Pedestrian Badly Hurt When Struck by Auto

George W. Keefe, 66, of 208 Tenth street northeast, was seriously injured yesterday while crossing the street at the intersection of Eleventh street and Massachusetts avenue northeast, where he was struck by a car driven by Louis Luebkert, of 1219 Kearney street northeast.

He was taken to Casualty Hospital by Luebkert, where it was revealed he had received a possible fractured skull and lacerations to the scalp, face and body. His condition was reported undetermined.

Q Street Residence Robbed.

Clothing and jewelry valued at $130 was reported stolen from 1754 Q street northwest yesterday by Margaret Hazard, who named a suspect to police.

2 SUSPECTS SEIZED AT PHILADELPHIA IN D.C. BANK ROBBERY

John J. Cahill Reported to Resemble Bandit Wanted in Mechanics Holdup.

Armed with a United States commissioner's warrant, Detective Sergt. F. O. Brass last night went to Philadelphia to bring back John J. Cahill for questioning in connection with the $8,000 robbery of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank a fortnight ago.

It was revealed last night that a second suspect, whose name is being withheld, has been arrested in Philadelphia.

Cahill was arrested late yesterday by police of the Pennsylvania city after a search of several days at the request of Washington authorities. He will be arraigned in magistrate's court today, and is expected to fight extradition.

Wanted Elsewhere.

Washington detectives said that Cahill, 36, had served part of an 8-year term in the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia. He is also wanted in connection with a bank robbery at Morton, Pa., they said.

Cahill was recognized by detectives as he rode up Broad street in Philadelphia. He was trailed for several blocks and then arrested. Investigation charges were lodged against him and a woman companion.

Photo Identified.

Police here said that employes of the bank identified his photograph as resembling one of the three men who entered the Eighth and G streets southeast banking institution just two weeks ago and looted it at gun point, preventing the use of tear gas equipment.

They rushed from the bank to a waiting car, driven by a fourth man, and escaped, although trailed for several blocks by a taxi driver. The car was found abandoned about a mile away where, it is thought, a fifth confederate, perhaps a woman, was waiting with another automobile.

Denishawn Dance Group Gives Program Tonight

Opening its annual spring entertainment series, the Community Center Department will present the Denishawn dance group of Washington at 8:45 p. m. today in Central High School Auditorium. Members of Congress and Diplomatic Corps will attend as guests.

The dance group, composed of a group of 35 Washington girls, led by Lester Shafer and Marian Chace, will include among its sponsors Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, and Senator Elbert D. Thomas (Democrat), Idaho. The costumes to be used in the performance have been authentically designed by Mr. Shafer from old prints of the twelfth century. Tickets may be obtained at the Community Center Department or at the door for 25 cents and 50 cents each.

Stephen T. Mather Memorial Is Urged

Setting aside of an island in the upper Potomac, near Great Falls, as a memorial to the late Stephen T. Mather, director of the National Park Service, will be discussed at a three-day meeting of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, beginning tomorrow.

The project was put forward publicly yesterday by Charles W. Eliot 2d, director of the commission. He declared that there were several possibilities for appropriate memorials in the vicinity suggested.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, vice chairman and executive officer of the commission, declared that there are no funds at present available for the purchase of land for the memorial. Both Col. Grant and Mr. Eliot were close personal friends of the late Mr. Mather.

Inexpensive Dress Decided for Class

In view of present financial conditions, the Langley Parent-Teacher Association last night decided against expensive uniform clothing for the graduating class at Langley Junior High School.

It was suggested that the girl members of the class wear inexpensive dresses of any type, and the boys should not be required to wear coats.

It was also decided that parents belonging to more than one association should be required to pay only one dues assessment to the District of Columbia Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations.

SHUNNED

Her girl friends talked behind her back. Her boy friends stopped coming around. Night after night she sat alone. Finally, she saw the light. She visited The Hecht Co., bought scads and scads of new clothes, and opened a Charge Account to pay for them. She's a pass-me-by no longer.
